Arts Education

Number of Grants: 61 Total Dollar Amount: $1,626,000

826LA

$15,000 Los Angeles, CA

To support Young Authors' Book Project, creative writing programs, and the publication of student work. Professional authors, screenwriters, journalists, and artists will provide editorial guidance, mentoring, and encouragement to students as they develop writing skills. Students will present their work in a performance and publication which will be available online and in book stores. The program will be provided free-of-charge to students at an under-performing high school in Los Angeles.

AJA Project

$30,000 San Diego, CA

To support PhotoCity, a visual arts-based after-school program for underserved youth. Students will learn media literacy concepts and how to unpack meaning in imagery on contextual, metaphoric, and philosophical levels. The program will conclude with students creating a large scale exhibit and community-based exhibits.

Alaska Arts Southeast (aka Sitka Fine Arts Camp)

$40,000 Sitka, AK

To support Sitka Fine Arts Camp. Alaska-Native artists and educators will lead classes in dance, theater, music, creative writing, and visual arts for middle and high school students. Professional artists from throughout Alaska and the nation will teach Alaskan students to increase knowledge and skills in their primary art forms as well as art forms that are new to them. In addition to working together in class, students and faculty will live on the same campus, eat in the same cafeteria, and attend the same performances. For many students, especially those from isolated Alaska communities without connection to any road system, this will be first opportunity to learn from professional artists.

Austin Creative Alliance

$25,000 Austin, TX

To support professional development for African-American and Hispanic teaching artists who will help implement the Kennedy Center's Any Given Child initiative in Austin. During a pilot professional development program, teaching artists will be trained to understand arts education and their role in providing leadership for arts education. They also will use data to make decisions about arts education programming in the community, and design, implement, and utilize high quality assessment of student learning in the arts in order to improve instruction. The project is a response to recommendations from African-American and Hispanic communities for the Community Arts Team for the Any Given Child initiative, which includes the Austin Creative Alliance, the Superintendent of the Austin Independent School District, the Mayor of the City of Austin, and MINDPOP, a coordinating body.

Big Thought (formerly Young Audiences of Greater Dallas)

$25,000 Dallas, TX

To support DaVerse. Professional writers and teachers will lead a year-long, bi-weekly middle school arts program in poetry writing and presentation in small group settings, which will lead to a performance of student poetry. Students will practice writing skills including metaphor, symbolism, sentence structure, and editing in a thoughtful, welcoming community of peers and adults from all backgrounds. They will observe professional spoken-word artists, both live and on video, to develop presentation skills. At interactive showcases hosted in Dallas neighborhood galleries and coffeehouses, students will perform readings of their own work alongside professional spoken-word artists and writers, including Will Power, Joaquin Zihuatanejo, and Natasha Carrizosa.

Boston Children's Chorus

$22,000 Boston, MA

To support the Premier Choir and Young Men's Ensemble, providing rigorous vocal music training for high school youth. Young singers are trained by professional musicians year-round in music theory and choral performance, and are provided opportunities to perform, tour, record, and work with guest conductors and composers premiering commissioned works. The Premier Choir and Young Men's Ensemble are the Boston Children's Chorus' highest level choirs.

Boston University

$28,000 Boston, MA

To support high school students participation in the Young Artists Orchestra and Young Artists Wind Ensemble as part of the Tanglewood Institute. Tanglewood Institute is an intensive, residential summer music program in Lenox, Massachusetts, for instrumental music students. Participation in these two ensembles provides students with opportunities for individual practice, chamber music experiences, large ensemble rehearsal and performance, private lessons, and master class participation. The Orchestra and the Wind Ensemble perform full concerts in Seiji Ozawa Hall on the main Tanglewood grounds.

Boston Youth Symphony Orchestras

$30,000 Boston, MA

To support the Intensive Community Program, a string instrument training program serving inner-city youth. The program offers young elementary-aged children with no previous musical training weekly music lessons, ensemble classes, instrument rentals, and performance opportunities. The purpose of the program is to provide musical training from professional musicians to students who may not otherwise have access, enabling them after two to three years of intensive study to pass the audition into the youth symphony's entry level orchestra.

Brooklyn Youth Chorus Academy

$17,000 Brooklyn, NY

To support the Concert Chorus Training and Performance Program. Participants will rehearse weekly and perform throughout the year in a variety of venues. Students will learn through the "Cross-Choral Training Method," a curriculum designed by Brooklyn Youth Chorus, teaching students vocal music using a sequential, experiential, developmentally appropriate method. In 2014, students will perform a commission and co-production with the Brooklyn Academy of Music of "Black Mountain Songs" by Bryce Dessner, Richard Reed Parry, and Aleksandra Vrebalov.

Some details of the projects listed are subject to change, contingent upon prior Endowment approval.

Capitol Region Education Council (aka CREC's CCY)

$30,000 Hartford, CT

To support Center for Creative Youth. The program is a pre-professional intensive summer arts residency program for talented high school students from throughout the nation on the campus of Wesleyan University. Students may choose to study creative writing, dance, filmmaking, instrumental and vocal music, musical theater, photography, theater, and visual arts with professional resident arts instructors and guest artists. They enroll in one morning class in a specific art form and in various afternoon interdisciplinary arts classes, studying alongside students from different majors. All students work in full group sessions, small ensembles, and experience individualized coaching and instruction. Culminating performances and exhibitions are presented for the student body, families, and the public in the Wesleyan University galleries and professional performance spaces.

Center of Creative Arts

$30,000 St. Louis, MO

To support COCA Dance Outreach. Students will participate in after-school and pre-professional dance training provided free-of-charge. The After School Dance program will provide dance instruction in jazz, modern, hip-hop, and tap to elementary school children in St. Louis Public Schools. The Talent Identified Program prepares intermediate students for advanced study and transition to the Honors Dance Program, which provides long-term, individualized training to advance youth toward their professional goals.

City of San Fernando, California

$57,000 San Fernando, CA

To support the Mariachi Master Apprentice Program that brings together professional musicians of Mariachi Los Camperos de Nati Cano with beginning and advanced mariachi students. Internationally renowned musicians will teach mariachi arrangements of "sones," "rancheras," "jarabes," "huapangos," polkas, and performance skills including how to play effectively in live recording sessions during after-school and weekend instructional workshops held at Las Palmas Park and San Fernando Middle School. The curriculum will instill a sense of self-confidence, pride, and identity while providing an outlet for cultural expression, celebrating the Mexican heritage that represents residents and surrounding communities.

CityDance Ensemble

$15,000 Washington, DC

To support the Conservatory Professional Guest Artist Project. Pre-professional high school dance students will study diverse dance styles and artistic viewpoints with nationally and internationally known guest choreographers and dance companies such as Trey McIntyre, Vishal Kanoi, and the MOMIX. Guest artists will lead master classes, mentor students, and create choreography in a broad range of genres such as jazz, modern, ballet, hip-hop, and world-dance forms. The audition-based conservatory program will prepare culturally diverse young dancers for professional careers in contemporary dance.

Cooper Union for the Advancement of Science and Art

$35,000 New York, NY

To support the Saturday and Outreach Programs. The project will provide underserved New York City high school students free studio visual arts education in the subjects of drawing, basic design, sculpture, and graphic design. Sequential visual arts sessions will provide intensive training and portfolio development opportunities during weekend and after-school hours. Students will visit museums, galleries, and artists' studios. They will attend writing workshops aimed at increasing student exposure to technology-based techniques. Project counselors will provide critiques of participants' portfolios and will mentor those pursuing collegiate studies.

Creative Clay

$20,000 Saint Petersburg, FL

To support Creative Care Art for All Kids, a program of classes in visual, performing, and literary arts led by professional artists for students who are patients in All Children's Hospital. Both in- and out-patient students create original visual artwork, write poetry and stories, compose and play music, make films, and choreograph and perform dances with professional artists. The artists in residence at the hospital are trained to teach art in healthcare settings. They will work with students individually and in small group settings. Students will develop their ability to think critically, solve problems, and value their imagination and creativity. In addition, the project will enhance the quality of children's lives during their time in the hospital and support the healing process.

Downtown Aurora Visual Arts

$10,000 Aurora, CO

To support Job Training in the Arts: Cultural Connections, a visual arts program for middle school youth. Students will engage in classes that combine advanced arts learning and community involvement facilitated by teaching artists. Project activities will culminate in several youth-driven exhibitions in the Downtown Aurora Visual Arts Gallery that explore different media and ideas related to cultural identity as individuals, community members, and world citizens.

DreamYard Project

$30,000 Bronx, NY

To support Out of School Programs (OSP) that teach students in the Bronx to develop artistic, creative problem solving, and collaborative leadership skills. Out of School Programs include arts activism, theater, visual arts and curating, performance poetry, hip-hop performance, music production, digital photography, video production, and fashion designing. In each program students will develop individual and group artwork and create dialogue with the community through public performances and festivals.

Each One Reach One

$15,000 S. San Francisco, CA

To support the Playwriting Workshop. Designed for incarcerated San Francisco and San Mateo County teenagers, the playwriting and educational tutoring program will pair professional theater artists with youths to create and develop original, one-act plays, which will be performed by professional actors at staged readings for participants' parents, teachers, and peers.

East Bay Center for the Performing Arts

$65,000 Richmond, CA

To support individual after-school and summer instruction in dance, media arts, music, and theater through the Young Artist Diploma Program. Targeted to underserved middle and high school students in California's West Contra Costa County, professional artists from the fields of dance, media arts, music, and theater will teach classes and private lessons. Students will study, practice, create, and bring expressive creativity to the service of the community by performing in events throughout Richmond and the Bay Area. Acceptance in the program is based on a student's focus, commitment, openness to new artistic experience, and willingness to work hard. Parents also must commit to volunteer at East Bay Center.

El Puente de Williamsburg (aka El Puente)

$20,000 Brooklyn, NY

To support professional development for community artists and arts organizations and after-school and summer arts training for youth in North Brooklyn. Artists will be guided in developing curriculum for grade school and high school aged students and will lead classes in ballet, modern, jazz, hip-hop, bomba, drama, media arts, studio and public art, and spoken-word. Students will study their chosen art disciplines, collaborate with students studying other art disciplines, and attend performances, arts and cultural events, and museum exhibitions. Original student collaborative work and performances on social justice themes will be presented in culminating community showcases.

Exploring the Arts

$10,000 New York, NY

To support a program of after-school and weekend classes in theater, music, dance, and visual arts led by professional artists for public high schools students in New York City and Los Angeles. Junior and senior high school students will develop artistic skills and learn about careers in the arts by working as apprentices with artists and local arts organizations. During the school year, students work on art projects, learn from their mentors, shadow staff, assist administrative projects, observe rehearsals, and attend shows. Students from partnering New York schools are approximately 80 percent Black or Latino; at the partnering Los Angeles schools they are nearly 100 percent Latino.

Get Lit - Words Ignite

$10,000 Los Angeles, CA

To support Get Lit Players. Led by professional poets and guest artists, this performance poetry troupe will study and recite classic poems and then write poetic responses. Each participant is expected to memorize at least one hour of classic and original work that will be presented in traditional and non-traditional venues in Los Angeles and nationally at the Brave New Voices Festival.

Girls Write Now

$25,000 New York, NY

To support the Mentoring Program, which pairs girls with professional women writers as their personal mentors. Guided by their mentors, girls will create, revise, publish, and present their work publically and using digital media. Through weekly one-on-one writing sessions, monthly genre-based group workshops, a public reading series, and creation of literary portfolios, mentors help girls develop their independent voices, explore professions in writing, and learn how to make healthy choices in school, career, and life.

Some details of the projects listed are subject to change, contingent upon prior Endowment approval.

Glen Ellyn Children's Chorus (aka Anima Young Singers of Greater Chicago)

$10,000 Glen Ellyn, IL

To support Anima's "ChorConnections." Project activities include year-round choral instruction for Anima's two advanced choral ensembles; hosting "SingFest," a weekend-long choral festival for as many as 350 Chicago area youth and their music teachers; and commissioning new choral works for youth from Chicago composer Lita Grier.

Grand Canyon Chamber Music Festival

$30,000 Grand Canyon, AZ

To support the Native American Composer Apprenticeship Project (NACAP). Students in Navajo and Hopi reservation high schools will study one-on-one with a composer in residence, creating original compositions to be performed by a professional quartet. Native American reservation high school and middle school students are tutored in the art of music composition by Navajo composer Raven Chacon. Students will rehearse directly with professional ensembles such as ETHEL and Catalyst Quartet, and the ensembles perform the students' compositions at Native-American reservation schools. Activities for 2014 will include expansion of NACAP to schools throughout the Navajo Nation including Utah and New Mexico, and the Salt River Maricopa Pima Indian Community near Phoenix, Arizona.

Groundswell Community Mural Project

$70,000 Brooklyn, NY

To support the Summer Leadership Institute. Under the guidance of professional artists, underserved teens will create large-scale public artworks themed on critical issues in their own neighborhoods. Youth learn about public art, artists, and artmaking traditions while engaging in sequential skill-building activities that build technical skills in composition and artmaking in a variety of media.

Heart of Los Angeles Youth (aka Heart of Los Angeles)

$50,000 Los Angeles, CA

To support the Youth Orchestra of Los Angeles at Heart of Los Angeles (YOLA at HOLA), an after-school, El Sistema-inspired program providing ensemble-based music instruction to students in central Los Angeles. The YOLA at HOLA program is a partnership with the Los Angeles Philharmonic and is directly inspired by Music Director Gustavo Dudamel's formative experience with El Sistema, Venezuela's youth orchestra movement. Students take musicianship classes, sing and rehearse in instrumental ensembles after school for about three hours a day, five days a week, and instruments are provided free-of-charge. In addition, students are supported by daily academic tutoring.

Kansas City Friends of Alvin Ailey

$20,000 Kansas City, MO

To support AileyCamp and AileyCamp/The Group, dance education programs for youth. AileyCamp is an early intervention program for urban middle school-aged youth that provides intensive summer dance program in jazz, tap, modern, and ballet. The Group is a continuation of the summer training that takes place during the school year. In addition to dance training, The Group includes trips to cultural institutions around the city and sessions on nutrition and health.

Levine School of Music

$10,000 Washington, DC

To support the Early Childhood and Elementary Music program. The program will provide music instruction free-of-charge to children in underserved neighborhoods of Washington, D.C. Music classes for children (in preschool and Kindergarten) will take place at Northwest Settlement House, Drew Elementary School, Kids Are Us Learning Center, and THEARC in Southeast Washington. During class, children will explore music through singing, movement, finger plays, bounces, children's literature, listening, and rhythm instruments that drive the development of cognitive, social, and motor skills. Instructors will focus on sensory learning and encourage the children to develop skills in many areas, including rhythm, pitch, and expressive qualities.

Mama Foundation for the Arts

$20,000 New York, NY

To support Gospel for Teens and performances led by professional musicians for teenagers. Gospel for Teens will teach basic vocal techniques of African-American gospel, jazz, and rhythm and blues. The program will strengthen the vocal technique and capacity of beginning singers, establish performance range and vocal flexibility of intermediate singers, and secure professional stage presence and vocal confidence for advanced singers. All levels will study the history of gospel music. The project will culminate in weekday matinee and evening performances at the Dempsey Theater in Harlem.

Marwen Foundation

$40,000 Chicago, IL

To support the Marwen Studio, a free program which offers out-of-school visual arts courses. Practicing artists design and teach sequential, hands-on art-making courses in a range of disciplines, including painting, drawing, photography, 3D (sculpture, ceramics), design arts, time-based media (video, animation), and inter-media (mixed media, new media).

Mosaic Youth Theater of Detroit

$55,000 Detroit, MI

To support Mosaic Core Training Program, a multi-phase, theater-based performing arts program for youth. Professional actors and teaching artists will provide students with intensive acting, vocal, and technical theater training leading to the creation and performance of an original musical that will be performed at the Detroit Institute of the Arts and toured at universities nationwide.

Moving in the Spirit (aka IndependANCE)

$15,000 Atlanta, GA

To support Stepping Stones, a weekly dance and leadership training program. Children and teens will learn the foundation of modern dance technique and vocabulary through the weekly practice of movement and choreography and develop healthy living habits and pro-social behavior.

New Urban Arts

$15,000 Providence, RI

To support the Youth Mentorship in the Arts program and the Summer Art Inquiry program for teens. Under the mentorship of professional artists in the community, youth will display work through multiple platforms including gallery exhibitions, student publications, fashion shows, and social media.

Some details of the projects listed are subject to change, contingent upon prior Endowment approval.

New York Public Radio (aka WQXR Radio)

$45,000 New York, NY

To support Radio Rookies, a media arts education program. Open to young people from across New York City's five boroughs, the program will provide training in all aspects of radio production. Students will produce quality radio and multimedia art works, which will air locally on WNYC, nationally on National Public Radio, and internationally on the BBC and Australian Broadcasting Company.

Our Time Theatre Company

$20,000 New York, NY

To support the Our Time NYC program. Led by professional theater artists and targeted to teenagers who stutter, the program will allow students to study the structure of playwriting and the importance of theme as well as to develop vocal strength and breath support through singing exercises. Program participants will work collaboratively to write, direct, and perform a full-length play that will tour nationally in the summer months.

Partners for Youth with Disabilities

$23,000 Boston, MA

To support Access to Theater, a year-round after-school and summer performing arts program. Professional artists will provide workshops, special events, classes, and leadership opportunities for youth with and without disabilities. Guest and resident artists with and without disabilities will teach theatrical improvisation, acting techniques, expressive movement, instrumental and vocal music, and costume and prop design to youth.

Perlman Music Program

$30,000 New York, NY

To support the Summer Music School, a summer music program held on Shelter Island, New York. Under the dedicated guidance of Toby and Itzhak Perlman, the Summer Music School's faculty includes professional string musicians from around the country, providing mentorship and coaching in instrumental music to students. Students will have two hours of daily private lessons, time for individual practice, ensemble rehearsals, and performances. Participation in chorus rehearsals on a daily basis develops many essential skills that will strengthen instrumental students' overall musicianship, including sight-singing and ear training.

Philadelphia Arts in Education Partnership

$25,000 Philadelphia, PA

To support SmART Readers: An After School Arts and Literacy Program in Libraries. In partnership with The Free Library of Philadelphia, this after-school visual arts residency program will integrate the arts with core grade level literacy curriculum while reinforcing literacy skill acquisition for student in grades two to five. The program will be held in Philadelphia neighborhood library sites to reach a broader population of students who will be recruited from adjacent elementary schools.

Project STEP

$33,000 Boston, MA

To support the Preparatory and Pre-College divisions of the Project STEP string instrument training program. Professional musicians will provide intermediate and advanced instrumental music instruction to minority students. Parent involvement is essential to the program. Through monthly meetings of the Parent Council, which comprises all Project STEP parents, families play a key role in the individual students' music development.

Some details of the projects listed are subject to change, contingent upon prior Endowment approval.

Raw Art Works

$30,000 Lynn, MA

To support Real to Reel (R2R) Film School. Young filmmakers learn to use technology including cameras, film editing, lighting, and sound systems, while developing skills in self-efficacy, leadership, and cooperation.

Reel Stories Teen Filmmaking (aka Reel Works)

$30,000 Brooklyn, NY

To support Reel Works, a media arts education program for underserved Brooklyn teens. Students will produce and distribute short documentaries about their lives under the mentorship of professional filmmakers. The intensive after-school workshops challenge students to develop personal narratives and to connect their own stories to broader issues they face in their community.

RiverzEdge Arts Project

$23,000 Woonsocket, RI

To support the Studio Arts & Enterprise Project. Students will work with master teaching artists while being paid stipends to create client portfolios and community works. Participants will enroll in classes such as graphic design, visual arts, digital media, screen printing. Students also may opt for the green design lab and remain in their studio.

Rosie's Theater Kids

$40,000 New York, NY

To support ACTE II, a program that provides summer and after-school musical theater training. Professional teaching artists and guests from the Broadway stage will lead the program for ethnically diverse students from low-income families. During the summer program and afternoon and weekend classes during the school year, students will study traditional skill-building curricula in dance, drama, and music as core discipline necessary for participation in musical theater. Sessions will culminate in final public performances. Staff also will offer students assistance in the preparation for applications to performing arts high schools and colleges.

Ryman-Carroll Foundation

$35,000 Los Angeles, CA

To support the expansion of pre-professional studio art classes for high school students in Southern California. Offered free-of-charge, classes are taught by experienced teaching artists and focus on the fundamental skills of drawing and painting in a rigorous and supportive environment.

San Francisco Symphony

$65,000 San Francisco, CA

To support the Artistic Development Program of the San Francisco Symphony Youth Orchestra. Designed to complement the youth orchestra's core program of weekly rehearsals and concert performances, the free program will provide students with coaching, mentorship, and specialized training in chamber music. Students will receive free tickets to San Francisco Symphony performances and participate in master classes with guest artists such as composer John Adams, violinist Joshua Bell, and pianist Garrick Ohlsson. Participants also will rehearse at least twice a year with San Francisco Symphony Music Director Michael Tilson Thomas.

Some details of the projects listed are subject to change, contingent upon prior Endowment approval.

School of the Performing Arts in the Richmond Community

Directed by Halls, the performance at the Silva Concert Hall in the Hult Center for the Performing Arts will feature the festival chorus and orchestra. Halls also will deliver a lecture on the history and process of reconstructing the work that was lost shortly after Bach's death in 1750.

Utah Symphony & Opera (aka Utah Symphony | Utah Opera)

$10,000 Salt Lake City, UT

To support premiere performances of a percussion concerto by composer Andrew Norman. The premiere performances featuring guest artist Colin Currie, will be conducted by Music Director Thierry Fischer. The orchestral performances will take place at Abranavel Hall, and related rehearsals and performances of other works by the composer will be held at Libby Gardner Hall at the University of Utah.

VocalEssence

$37,500 Minneapolis, MN

To support Witness: Stomp & Sing, a celebration of contributions by African Americans. The performance and educational outreach project, under the artistic leadership of Artistic Director and Founder Philip Brunelle and featuring guest artist singer-songwriter Melanie DeMore, will explore the traditions of the Gullah culture from Africa to the Sea Islands of Georgia and South Carolina through spirituals and folk music.

Washington Chorus (aka The Washington Chorus)

$27,500 Washington, DC

To support a performance project titled "The Essential Verdi," culminating in a concert at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts. Music Director Julian Wachner will direct the project, which will include educational and community outreach activities, such as a vocal master class on Verdi arias and a post-concert discussion.

Washington Performing Arts Society (aka WPAS)

$25,000 Washington, DC

To support the Spirit and Society: Music and Cultural Representation, a series of concerts showcasing national and international artists. With the goal of acknowledging cultural diversity and promoting cross-cultural awareness and understanding, the concert series will feature artists such as the Soweto Gospel Choir; the WPAS Men, Women, & Children of the Gospel Choir; Jonathan Batiste and the Stay Human band; and Zakir Hussein and Masters of Percussion. An additional, free public program will commemorate the 75th anniversary of Marian Anderson's recital at the Lincoln Memorial in Washington, D.C.

William Jewell College

$10,000 Liberty, MO

To support the Harriman-Jewell Series' Discovery Concerts, free recitals by emerging musicians. Directed by Executive and Artistic Director Clark Morris, the project will feature cellist Narek Hakhnazaryan, pianists George Li and Simon Trpceski, and violist David Aaron Carpenter with the Salome Chamber Orchestra in free recitals at the Folly Theater and the Kauffman Concert Hall in downtown Kansas City.

Some details of the projects listed are subject to change, contingent upon prior Endowment approval.

Young Concert Artists

$40,000 New York, NY

To support the Young Concert Artists Series. The program is a professional development program of recitals and concerto debuts in New York City and Washington, D.C. The program also includes the commissioning of a new work by a young composer, career management for emerging classical performers and composers, and residencies in schools and community centers while the artists are on tour.

Opera

Number of Grants: 34 Total Dollar Amount: $1,127,500

Ardea Arts

$10,000 New York, NY

To support the commission, development, and workshops of "The Three Astronauts." Based on the picture book of the same name by Umberto Eco with illustration by Eugenio Carmin, it is the story of a race to put the first human on Mars and what happens when three competing astronauts arrive at the same time. The opera will be created and performed in English, Russian, and Chinese, with the addition of "Martian," to explore communication across cultural and linguistic barriers. A partnership with Santa Fe Opera, the project will include workshops/residencies in the U.S., Russia, and China. The creative team will include writers such as Nikki Giovanni, Liu Sola, and Dmitry Glukhovsky; linguist Daniel Everett; composers such as Ye Xiaogang and Alexander Tchaikovsky; visual artist Eugenio Carmi; and costume designer Camille Assaf.

Beth Morrison Projects

$10,000 New York, NY

To support the commission and development of "Artaud in the Black Lodge" by composer David T. Little and librettist/poet Anne Waldman. Through musical investigation, the work will imagine three artists ? French poet/director Antonin Artaud, Beat-generation/post-modernist author William S. Burroughs, and filmmaker David Lynch ? coming together to explore the roots of their shared artistic philosophies, which span nearly 100 years. The work will draw from the sonic worlds of heavy metal, noise, and electronica, and will be scored for amplified chamber ensemble Newspeak, in addition to soloists.

Boston Baroque

$15,000 Boston, MA

To support a new production and recording of Monteverdi's "Il Ritorno d'Ulisse in Patria." The semi-staged production and first recording of Martin Pearlman's version of the work, performed with period instruments, will be part of the 40th anniversary season. The creative team will comprise conductor Martin Pearlman, director Mark Streshinsky, and recording producer and editor Thomas C. Moore. Performances may feature tenor Fernando Guimaraes (Ulisse), mezzo-soprano Jennifer Rivera (Penelope), mezzo-soprano Leah Wool (Minerva), mezzo-soprano Abigail Nims (Melanto), tenor Aaron Sheehan (Telemaco), tenor Daniel Shirley (Eurimaco), tenor Daniel Auchincloss (Eumete), tenor Marc Molomot (Iro), and counter-tenor Christophe Lowrey (L'humana fragilita/sailor).

Chicago Opera Theater

$35,000 Chicago, IL

To support a new production of Duke Ellington's jazz opera "Queenie Pie." Commissioned by New York public television station WNET in 1967, librettist Betty McGettigan and Ellington collaborated on the opera until the composer's death in 1974. Left unfinished, various workshops have been presented, including a recently constructed 2009 version deemed by the librettist to be the closest to the composer's original. The artistic team of director Tazewell Thompson, conductor Jeff Lindberg, and big-band jazz vocalist Carmen Bradford will bring to life a story inspired by the life of Madam C. J. Walker, the first African-American, self-made woman millionaire who created her wealth by developing and selling her line of beauty products. Blending big band sound, the musical styles of opera, jazz, and musical theater, this 90-minute opera will explore fame, love, and the loss of it when tastes inevitably change.

Some details of the projects listed are subject to change, contingent upon prior Endowment approval.

Cincinnati Opera Association (aka Cincinnati Opera)

$25,000 Cincinnati, OH

To support performances of "Silent Night" by composer Kevin Puts and librettist Mark Campbell. Lighting designer Thomas Hase and stage director Eric Simonson will create a production accompanied by the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, under the music direction of David Abell and will be presented on the centennial anniversary of the onset of World War I. Adapted from Christian Carion's screenplay for the film "Joyeux Noel" (2005), the Pulitzer Prize-winning opera is based on a true story that occurred during one of the bloodiest wars in human history. On Christmas Eve 1914 along the western front, peace broke out when Scottish, French, and German troops engaged in combat near the French border, defied their superior officers and agreed amongst themselves to a cease-fire in order to celebrate the holiday and bury their dead.

Dallas Opera

$30,000 Dallas, TX

To support the commission, development, workshop, and premiere of "Great Scott" by composer Jake Heggie and librettist/playwright Terrence McNally. The two-act opera contains two mad scenes, an erupting volcano, and a famous opera singer (Arden Scott) returning home to perform at the local opera company struggling to stay afloat and banking on her appearance. Rather than prepare a signature role or perform a popular opera standard, Scott has brought a never-performed opera from the 19th-century bel canto period, which is unlikely to draw crowds and save the day. In a tale of love, loss, transformation, and redemption, the story explores the sacrifices one makes to achieve a dream, and the sacrifice of the dream itself. Directed by Jack O'Brien and conducted by Evan Rogister, the co-production with San Diego Opera may feature mezzo-soprano Joyce DiDonato (Arden Scott), baritone Nathan Gunn, mezzo-soprano Frederica von Stade, soprano Ailyn Perez, and counter-tenor Anthony Roth Costanzo.

Fort Worth Opera Association (aka Fort Worth Opera)

$15,000 Fort Worth, TX

To support a new production of "With Blood, With Ink" by composer Daniel Crozier and librettist Peter Krask. The work is based on the true story of 17th-century Mexican nun Sor Juana Ines de la Cruz, a renowned intellectual, poet, theologian, and champion of women's freedom who was betrayed by ecclesiastical authorities and forced by the Spanish Inquisition to renounce her life's work, signing an oath of silence in her own blood. The creative team will comprise producing director Kurt Howard, director Dona Vaughn, conductor Tim Meyers, set designer Erhard Rom, and costume designer Austin Scarlett. Principal artists include Vanessa Becerra (Young Sor Juana), Sandra Lopez (Dying Sor Juana), Audrey Babcock (Maria Louisa), Daniel Montenegro (Padre Antonio Nunez), Meaghan Deiter (Sor Andrea), and John Cabrali (Archbishop).

Houston Grand Opera Association (aka Houston Grand Opera)

$60,000 Houston, TX

To support the North American premiere of "The Passenger," a newly discovered opera by composer Mieczyslaw Weinberg. Based on the novel by Auschwitz survivor Zofia Posmysz, the opera was completed in 1968 as the response of a Jewish composer to the persecution he suffered ? during the Nazi invasion of Poland, during Stalin's regime in Russia, and from the murder of his parents and sister during the Holocaust. A composer of opera, symphonies, concerti, and string quartets, Weinberg's opera was lost for nearly 40 years and finally premiered in 2010 in Bregenz, Austria, to packed houses. The opera is set in the 1950s on an ocean liner en route from Germany to Brazil, and it tells the story of the unexpected re-encounter between a former Schutzstaffel-Helferin (SS-Helferin) camp warden and a prisoner at Auschwitz. Director David Pountney, conductor Patrick Summers, set designer Johan Engels, costume designer Marie-Jeanne Lecca, and lighting designer Fabrice Kebour will create a production that may feature mezzo-soprano Michelle Breedt (Liese), tenor Joseph Kaiser (Walter), soprano Melody Moore (Marta), baritone Morgan Smith (Tadeusz), soprano Kelly Kaduce (Katya), and contralto Kathryn Day (Bronka).

Kentucky Opera Association (aka Kentucky Opera)

$12,500 Louisville, KY

To support a composer workshop featuring Daron Hagen's "A Woman in Morocco." Set in the Middle East, the opera by composer Daron Hagen and librettist Barbara Grecki will focus on the challenges that women in the Middle East face, including violence committed against women, and the issue of human trafficking of both women and children. Musically, the project will explore the juxtaposition of pre-recorded ululations from North Africa, multimedia projections, and live performance elements to create an opera that integrates these three disparate components into a cohesive whole; while theatrically, the project will explore the portability that will make the opera adaptable to small and large venues ranging from school auditoriums to large theaters. A series of lectures will feature the composer and guest speakers from partner community organizations, such as the Department of Community Services & Revitalization Office for Women, The Center for Women and Families, and the Society for Prevention of Aggressiveness and Violence among Adolescents.

Long Beach Opera (aka LBO)

$25,000 Long Beach, CA

To support performances of "The Death of Klinghoffer" by composer John Adams, as part of the citywide "Minimalist Jukebox" music festival curated by the composer. Based on the real-life events in 1985 surrounding the killing of an elderly wheelchair-bound Jewish-American named Leon Klinghoffer who was killed by Palestinian terrorists who hijacked an Italian cruise ship and took the passengers hostage, the story unfolds through a series of glimpsed moments rather than a detailed linear narrative. The creative team may comprise stage director James Robinson, scenic designer Allen Moyer, costume designer James Schuette, and video designer Greg Emataz. The cast will include baritone Michael Chioldi (Klinghoffer) and mezzo-soprano Peabody Southwell (Mrs. Klinghoffer).

Los Angeles Opera Company (aka LA Opera)

$60,000 Los Angeles, CA

To support performances of "Billy Budd" by composer Benjamin Britten. Conducted by James Conlon, the opera features American bass-baritone Samuel Ramey (Danskar), American tenor Richard Croft (Captain Vere), American bass-baritone Greer Grimsley (John Claggart), English baritone Anthony Michaels-Moore (Mr. Redburn), Australian bass-baritone Daniel Sumegi (Mr. Flint), and American baritone Liam Bonner in the title role. The work will be directed by Julia Pevner, with costumes and sets by Alison Chitty. The production is the culmination of Britten 100/LA festival, a four-year commemoration of renowned 20th-century composers involving more than 70 cultural organization partners across Southern California.

Lyric Opera of Chicago (aka Lyric Opera or Lyric)

$50,000 Chicago, IL

To support performances of Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess." The opera tells a very personal story set in the context of a larger society. The proposed cast will be led by Eric Owens and Adina Aaron in the title roles, with Eric Greene (Crown), Angel Blue (Clara), Jermaine Smith (Sportin' Life), Karen Slack (Serena), and Gwendolyn Brown (Maria). The production created by Francesca Zambello will be conducted by Ward Stare.

Madison Opera

$15,000 Madison, WI

To support performances of "Dead Man Walking" by composer Jake Heggie and librettist Terrence McNally. Based on the book by Sister Helen Prejean, the opera tells the story of the author's experiences helping a death row inmate. The work brings into focus society's ongoing struggle with capital punishment. Conductor John DeMain and director Kristine McIntyre will lead a cast that may include baritone Michael Hayes (Joseph DeRocher), mezzo-soprano Daniele Mack (Sister Helen), and mezzo Susanne Mentzer (Mrs. DeRocher). A number of educational and outreach activities are scheduled, including Opera Up Close, which will feature multimedia presentations and guest artist roundtables, as well as a screening of the film by the same name and other previews and workshops, lectures, and a master class with Madison Opera's Studio Artists.

Metropolitan Opera Association (aka The Met)

$100,000 New York, NY

To support a new production of Borodin's "Prince Igor." The score, known for its "Polovtsian Dances," was left incomplete at the time of the composer's death in 1887; this new production will include new compositional material created by director Dmitri Tcherniakov and by composers Gianandrea Noseda and Pavel Smelkov. The creative team may include conductors Noseda and Smelkov, director and set designer Dmitri Tcherniakov, and lighting designer Gleb Filshinsky. The opera will feature Ildar Abdrazakov (Prince Igor), Oksana Dyka (Yaroslavna), Anita Rachvelishvili (Konchakovna), Sergey Semishkur (Vladimir Igorevich), Mikhail Petrenko (Prince Galitsky), and Stefan Kocan (Khan Konchak).

Michigan Opera Theatre (aka MOT)

$30,000 Detroit, MI

To support performances of "A View From the Bridge" by composer William Bolcom and librettist Arnold Weinstein. Based on the Arthur Miller play of the same name, performed in English and set in 1950s New York City, the opera explores an American story about a working class family of immigrants. The opera's themes of desperation, betrayal, cultural and community loyalty, family drama, and immigrant struggle continues to resonate with American audiences. Both director Tazewell Thompson and Pulitzer Prize-winning composer William Bolcom are committed to the project, and the latter has agreed to participate in a number of outreach events to occur in the months preceding the performances.

Minnesota Opera (aka Minnesota Opera)

$40,000 Minneapolis, MN

To support a new production of Mozart's "Die Zauberflöte." The production will be created by London based award-winning theater company 1927 and the Komische Oper Berlin, with the latter providing video projections. The imagery of the composer's music will come to life through larger than life animation and visual storytelling, and the resulting performances will combine film, performance, and music to give this traditional work a fresh and unique look. The production will be conducted by Christopher Franklin, with direction by Barrie Kosky, and sets and costumes designed by Esther Bialas. The cast will include sopranos Layla Claire and Christi Hageman (Pamina), and Andrew Wilkowske (Papageno).

Music Academy of the West

$10,000 Santa Barbara, CA

To support performances of Bizet's "Carmen," as part of the Summer School and Festival program. The production will coincide with the 80th birthday of 2009 NEA Opera Honoree Marilyn Horne, who is well-known for her legendary portrayal of the title role in "Carmen" in performances worldwide during the course of her 30-year performing career. The academy's performance-based approach to classical music training will require that the cast and orchestra be comprised almost entirely of academy students, whose hands-on training for the production will expose them to a core piece of opera repertoire while also giving them professional experience with a French-language work. The artistic team will include the academy's director and mezzo-soprano Marilyn Horne, conductor James Gaffigan, and French diction coach Mary Blackwood Collier.

Music of Remembrance

$12,500 Seattle, WA

To support the commission and semi-staged premiere of "After Life," a one-act chamber opera by composer Tom Cipullo and librettist David Mason. The work imagines a post-mortem meeting between Pablo Picasso and Gertrude Stein, two creative giants who lived in France during World War II and who remain controversial in terms of how they survived the war. Scored for three voices and six instruments, Picasso and Stein's debate will consider the responsibilities and moral dilemmas faced by artists who seek to confront through their work such massive evils as Nazism and the Holocaust. The work will challenge the audience's perceptions of these two cultural icons through a central theme: In a time of upheaval and tyranny, what is the artist's responsibility to the world? Music of Remembrance's instrumentalists are drawn primarily from the Seattle Symphony Orchestra (often principals); the work also will be performed as part of the Sparks of Glory community series of admission-free concerts with commentary at the Seattle Art Museum, and will be preceded by lecture-demonstrations to discuss the historical context of the work and its relation to an ongoing exhibition at the museum.

Some details of the projects listed are subject to change, contingent upon prior Endowment approval.

Musical Arts Association (aka The Cleveland Orchestra)

$35,000 Cleveland, OH

To support The Cleveland Orchestra's semi-staged performances of Leos Janacek's "The Cunning Little Vixen," family-friendly productions of "The Clever Little Fox," and related educational and outreach activities. The composer's inspiration was a comic strip in the Czech newspaper "Lidove noviny." Referencing back to this original form, these productions will use animation and videography to bring the operatic fantasy to life on the concert-hall stage. The creative team may include Music Director Franz Welser-Most, Stage Director Yuval Sharon, and video artist Bill Barminski; the artistic team will comprise American bass-baritone Alan Held, Czech soprano Martina Jankova, and American mezzo-soprano Jennifer Johnson Cano.

New Orleans Opera Association

$10,000 New Orleans, LA

To support a new production of "Dead Man Walking" by composer Jake Heggie and librettist Terrence McNally and related outreach activities. New Orleans native Sister Helen Prejean will participate in public forums about the work. For colloquia and presentations, various local institutions such as the New Orleans Film Fest, Tulane University, University of New Orleans, and Loyola University may be engaged. Outreach activities will include an artist roundtable, free Nuts and Bolts of Opera lectures prior to each performance, and multimedia study guides that will be distributed to public, private, and charter schools in the region. The creative team may comprise conductor Robert Lyall, production designer Erhard Rom, and lighting designer Don Darnutzer, and will feature a cast lead by Joyce DiDonato (Sister Helen Prejean), Philip Cutlif (Joseph De Rocher), and Sheryl Woods (Mrs. De Rocher).

Opera Carolina

$12,500 Charlotte, NC

To support a new production of "Rise For Freedom," a one-act opera by composer Adolphus Hailstork and librettist David Gonzalez. The work will be presented as part of the Ulysses Festival of the Arts (Charlotte, North Carolina), the theme of which is the 50th anniversary of the 1964 Civil Rights Act. Through this production, the company will go beyond the confines of producing and will engage the public in a significant conversation of the power of art to provide a safe and welcoming place to discuss community. Commissioned in 2006, the opera follows the true life story of John Parker in 1860s Ripley, Ohio, who was the son of a white father and a black mother, learned a trade, bought his freedom, owned and operated an iron foundry, fought against slavery as a leader in the Underground Railroad, and is credited with freeing hundreds of slaves through crossings from Northern Kentucky into Ohio. Director Tim Parotti, lighting designer Michael Baumgarten, costume designer Betsy Blackmore will create the production.

Opera Lafayette

$15,000 Washington, DC

To support performances of Jean-Philippe Rameau "Les Fetes de l'Hymen et de l'Amour...ou Les Dieux d'Egypte." Through collaborations with the Kuchipudi Kalanidhi, the New York Baroque Dance Company, and Sean Curran Company, the work will be presented as a semi-staged opera with dance. This opera-ballet set in ancient Egypt will incorporate three dance companies with distinct styles (Indian, baroque, contemporary) that each will represent the conflicting people who are united ultimately through love and marriage. Through its ongoing partnership with D.C. public schools, artists and education volunteers will visit classrooms to share interactive lessons about music, dance, and opera with primary school students.

Some details of the projects listed are subject to change, contingent upon prior Endowment approval.

Opera Memphis

$15,000 Memphis, TN

To support the development and premiere at the Midtown Opera Festival of a cycle of short operas, collectively titled "Ghosts of Crosstown" based on the Sears Crosstown building, a vacant art deco landmark in an underserved neighborhood that was once a vibrant neighborhood. Composers will use neighborhood resident interviews to create thematically linked operas of up to ten minutes in duration. Composers such as Anthony Davis, Karman Ince, Jack Perla, Conrad Cummings, and Nathaniel Stookey will provide their unique voices and perspectives to the project. Multidisciplinary arts organization Crosstown Arts will provide logistical and operational support and local theater company Voices of the South will draw upon local stories to create the libretti.

Opera Philadelphia

$50,000 Philadelphia, PA

To support performances of "Ainadamar" by composer Osvaldo Golijov and librettist David Henry Hwang and related outreach activities. The opera depicts the life and death of Spanish poet, playwright, and activist Federico del Sagrado Corazon de Jesus Garcia Lorca, whose execution in 1936 was a pivotal moment in the Spanish Civil War. The opera's title is Arabic for "fountain of tears," which is the name of natural spring in the hills above Granada at the site of Lorca's execution. Conductor Corrado Rovaris and director Luis de Tavira will lead a cast that may include soprano Maria Hinojosa Montenegro (Margarita Xirgu), mezzo-soprano Marina Pardo (Lorca), soprano Carmen Romeu (Nuria), flamenco singer Alfredo Tejada (Ramon Ruiz Alonzo), and featuring Compania Antonio Gades, a flamenco company from Madrid. Outreach efforts will include the Opera Overtures lecture series; a program of flamenco and Latin music; and a family community concert with Artistas y Musicos Latino Americanos to promote the development, dissemination, and understanding of Latin music.

Opera Theatre of Saint Louis

$90,000 St. Louis, MO

To support the commission, development, and premiere of "Shalimar the Clown" by composer Jack Perla and librettist/playwright Rajiv Joseph. Based on the novel by Salman Rushdie, the story takes place in the disputed region of Kashmir and focuses on the love story of a young Hindu woman, Boonyi, a dancer, and a Muslim man, Shalimar, an acrobat. The story is one of love, revenge, cultural clashes, and war, and is a story that embraces the old-world traditions as well as the those of the new world. Dramaturge James Robinson, costume designer James Schuette, and set designer Allen Moyer will lead the creative team.

Parallele Ensemble Corporation

$15,000 San Francisco, CA

To support the American premiere of "Anya 17," a recently commissioned opera by composer Adam Gorb and librettist Ben Kaye. The opera portrays human trafficking as experienced by the central character, Anya. The plot unfolds through a series of short, fast-paced flashbacks that detail how Anya is deceived into traveling abroad, sold as a prostitute, and held against her will through repeated threats of violence. The creative team may comprise stage director/production designer Brian Staufenbiel, conductor Nicole Paiement, scenic and lighting designer Mathew Antaky, video artist Austin Forbord, and costume designer Christine Crook. The artistic team may include soprano Susannah Biller (Anya), mezzo-soprano Catherine Cook (Mila), and tenor Thomas Glenn (Viktor).

Some details of the projects listed are subject to change, contingent upon prior Endowment approval.

Pittsburgh Opera

$20,000 Pittsburgh, PA

To support the American Opera Series. The project is part of the company's 75th anniversary season and will feature "Orphee" by composer Philip Glass, "Dark Sisters" by composer Nico Muhly, and "Paul's Case" by composer Gregory Spears. "Orphee" encourages the audience to reflect on traditional opera in the context of modern opera. "Dark Sisters" explores the crisis experienced by a polygamous family in a Mormon community. "Paul's Case" chronicles a high-school student's dissolution with turn of the 20th-century urban America." Artists may include baritone Matthew Worth and soprano Caroline Worra.

San Diego Opera Association (aka San Diego Opera)

$45,000 San Diego, CA

To support a new production of Verdi's "Un Ballo in Maschera." Conducted by Massimo Zanetti and directed by Lesley Koenig, the production will feature a cast that may include Polish tenor Piotr Beczala (Riccardo), baritone Aris Argiris (Renato), Bulgarian soprano Krassimira Stoyanova (Amelia), and mezzo-soprano Stephanie Blythe (Ulrica). The production will celebrate the 200th anniversary of Verdi's birth. A lecture series titled Community Conversations will take place in museums, churches, synagogues, restaurants, and universities and will offer a focus on Verdi's artistic and political impact on the opera art form, on Italy, and the world.

San Francisco Opera Association (aka San Francisco Opera)

$90,000 San Francisco, CA

To support a new production of "Les Troyens" by composer Hector Berlioz. Based on Virgil's epic "Aeneid" the production may feature mezzo-soprano Susan Graham (Didon), tenor Bryan Hymel (Enee), bass-baritone Christian Van Horn (Narbal), and tenor Rene Barbera (Iopas), in a production created by director David McVicar, set designer Es Devline, costume designer Mortiz Junge, and conducted by Donald Runnicles. Considered one of the most important French operas of the 19th century, the composer's greatest opera, and his greatest musical achievement, the opera is rarely programmed or is produced in a reduced version ? due in part to its grand scale comprising numerous large chorale and ballet scenes. Frequently produced in the U.S. in a drastically reduced version, this new production will showcase the complete performance version and will be created in collaboration with Royal Opera Covent Garden, Wiener Staatsoper, and Teatro alla Scala.

Santa Fe Opera

$70,000 Santa Fe, NM

To support the American premiere and new production of "Dr. Sun Yat-sen," a recently commissioned opera by composer Huang Ruo and librettist/playwright Candace Chong. Originally commissioned by Opera Hong Kong to commemorate the centennial of China's Xinhai Revolution, the opera centers on the personal and public life of Sun Yat-sen, a revered figure in Chinese history who is widely considered as the founding father of modern China. Chinese-American composer Huang Ruo will be in residence during the rehearsal process to guide the company's first-ever performances in Mandarin. The title role will be performed by Chinese-American tenor Warren Mok, with Chinese-American bass Dong-Jian Gong (Charlie Soong), Chinese baritone Chen-ye Yuan (Mr. Ymeya), American mezzo-soprano Mary Ann McCormick (Ni Soong), and American soprano Corinne Winters (Soong Chingling). The creative team may include stage director James Robinson, scenic designer Allen Moyer, costume designer James Schuette, lighting designer Christopher Akerlind, and Chinese-born conductor Carolyn Kuan.

Some details of the projects listed are subject to change, contingent upon prior Endowment approval.

Seattle Opera

$30,000 Seattle, WA

To support a new production of "The Consul" by composer Gian Carlo Menotti. The opera tells the story of a devoted wife and mother who clashes with the bureaucracy of an unnamed police state while trying to obtain an exit visa for her persecuted family. The story of hopeful immigrants, waiting to obtain visas from the Consul will be brought to life with a cast featuring Marcy Stonikas (Magda Sorel) and Michael Todd Simpson (John Sorel), and conducted by Carlo Montanaro. The artistic team may comprise stage director Peter Kazaras, scenery designer David Gordon, and costume designer Carrie Kunz. Accompanied by adult and youth education events, including in-school presentations, free dress rehearsals for high school students, pre-performance talks and post-performance question-and-answer sessions, performances will be broadcast via radio and will stream online through the company's partnership with the local classical music station.

University of Southern Maine

$15,000 Portland, ME

To support the orchestration and premiere of "The Summer King" by composer Daniel Sonenberg and librettist Daniel Nester. The opera will explore the life and legacy of baseball catcher Josh Gibson whose skill on the field and perseverance in the Negro League created the momentum for a whole new generation (led by Jackie Robinson) to integrate baseball. Gibson's talent drew comparisons to legendary ballplayer Babe Ruth and earned him a place as the second Negro League ballplayer ever inducted into the Baseball Hall of Fame. The opera will incorporate various musical languages not traditionally associated with opera including stride piano, straight ahead jazz, and Mexican mariachi music. The premiere will be presented by Portland Ovations with music director Steven Osgood.

Washington Concert Opera (aka WCO)

$10,000 Washington, DC

To support a concert presentation of Verdi's "Il Corsaro." Based on a poem of the same name written by Lord Byron, the opera performance will mark the bicentennial of the composer's birth. Artistic director Antony Walker will conduct a cast that includes tenor Michael Fabiano (Corrado), soprano Nicole Cabell (Medora), soprano Tamara Wilson (Gulnara). Preceding the performance, a lecture will be given by Dr. Patrick O'Donnell at the Music Department of George Washington University.

Washington National Opera (aka WNO)

$50,000 Washington, DC

To support performances of "Moby-Dick" by composer Jake Heggie and librettist Gene Scheer. The opera is based on the iconic novel by Herman Melville. The creative team that crafted the premiere in 2010 at the Dallas Opera also will bring the Washington performances to life: set designer Robert Brill, costume designer Jane Greenwood, projection designer Elaine J. McCarthy, and composer Jake Heggie. Leonard Foglia will direct and Evan Rogister will conduct a cast that will feature Carl Tanner (Captain Ahab) and Stephen Costello (Ishmael). Outreach activities include pre-performances lectures, a student dress rehearsal, and CD commentaries.

The play will explore the indictment of scholar, political activist, and co-founder of the NAACP, W.E.B. DuBois, during the U.S. government's anti-communist McCarthyism campaign. The work will alternate between scenes of 1950s Harlem and the community's reaction and responses to the indictment, and the courtroom battles in Washington, D.C., using stock video footage to illuminate related historical events.

New Paradise Laboratories Theatre

$15,000 Philadelphia, PA

To support the creation and production of "The Adults," a new work created by a multigenerational ensemble of performers. Inspired in part by the physicality of the paintings of Eric Fischl, the play will explore the process of maturation into different stages of life, and how it manifests in the body and physical presence. The piece will feature the first artistic collaboration between two generations of the ensemble's performers its founding members and a younger generation of performers at the beginning of their careers.

New York Stage and Film Company

$15,000 New York, NY

To support the Powerhouse Season, an artist residency program during which playwrights, directors, actors, designers, and apprentices develop new plays and musicals. Traditionally held on the Vassar College campus, the program will allow artists to present fully mounted mainstage productions as well as workshops and readings of works in progress. Past projects that have been developed in the program include "Abigail/1702" by Roberto Aguirre-Sacasa, "Storefront Church" by John Patrick Shanley, "Sons of the Prophet" by Stephen Karam, and "Seminar" by Theresa Rebeck.

New York Theatre Workshop

$30,000 New York, NY

To support the North American premiere of British playwright Caryl Churchill's "Love and Information," directed by James MacDonald. The play features 15 actors playing more than 100 characters, and is structured as a series of disparate scenes that ultimately coalesce in a portrait of the need for true love, intimacy, and connection in the digital age. The play will be fully integrated into the theater's education programs which include the Learning Workshop, a multidisciplinary theater education program that provides public school students at partner schools with matinee performances and classroom workshops.

New York University

$10,000 New York, NY

To support the U.S. premiere of the National Theatre of China's production of Shakespeare's "Richard III," presented in tandem with educational workshops and audience engagement activities. Led by Artistic Director Wang Xiaoying, the company will present performances of their Beijing opera-influenced adaptation of the classic tragedy in Mandarin with English supertitles. The piece takes the tale of a Machiavellian rise to power and infuses it with decidedly Chinese characteristics in a production that features elaborate costumes, decorative masks, Chinese percussive instruments, and traditional Chinese opera makeup.

Some details of the projects listed are subject to change, contingent upon prior Endowment approval.

Northwestern University

$10,000 Evanston, IL

To support the development of "Forty Rules of Love," a new musical with music by Demir Demirkan and Sertab Erener, with book by David H. Bell. The work will be adapted from the Turkish novel by Elif Shafak and will explore themes of courage, understanding, acceptance, and enlightenment. The project will include a residency to provide space and time for the artists to collaborate in a shared location as well as a fully produced developmental workshop which will be cast with Northwestern University students and professional guest artists.

Northwestern University Settlement (aka Northwestern Settlement)

$15,000 Chicago, IL

To support the final development and premiere of "The Prometheus Project," a new play for young audiences by Tom Arvetis. With themes drawn from the ancient story of Prometheus, the project is intended to address the recent spate of violence affecting Chicago youth and families. The production will be the culmination of an extended development process that will include story circles with Chicago's West Town youth and adult residents, and transmedia storytelling events both online and around the West Town neighborhood. The framework of the project is intended to engage the audience before the production and to keep the narrative alive after the production has ended.

Ojai Playwrights Conference

$15,000 Ojai, CA

Some details of the projects listed are subject to change, contingent upon prior Endowment approval.

Theater Mu (aka Mu Performing Arts)

$15,000 St. Paul, MN

To support a production of "Middle Brother" by Eric Sharp, directed by Robert Rosen with dramaturgy by Jennifer Weir. The play explores a birth family reunion between a Korean-American adoptee and his biological brother in South Korea. The script also looks at how the reunion affects the adoptee's younger adopted brother. The production will first have a showcase presentation at the 2014 National Asian American Theater Conference and Festival in Philadelphia, after which it will be presented in Minneapolis at Mixed Blood Theatre.

Theatre @ Boston Court (aka Boston Court)

$10,000 Pasadena, CA

To support the first phase of a multifaceted program for new play development designed to engage new works at all stages of development. Project components will include the PLAY/ground Reading Series, a series of rehearsed readings that is open to the public, and provides playwrights with stipends for participation and the opportunity for re-writes throughout the process. In addition, the theater will formalize its process for scheduling in-house readings of new works under consideration, and begin to offer commissions with an almost exclusive focus on Southern California writers.

Theatre of the Emerging American Moment (aka The TEAM)

$10,000 Brooklyn, NY

To support the final development and premiere of "RoosevElvis (Rose-of-Elvis)," a multidisciplinary theater piece that explores Teddy Roosevelt and Elvis Presley as displaced American icons. Roosevelt and Presley will be played by two of The TEAM's ensemble actresses. Using a combination of video and live performance, the piece takes the two icons on a road trip from the Badlands in South Dakota to Graceland in Tennessee, introducing them along the way to America in the present-day.

Theatre of Yugen

$10,000 San Francisco, CA

To support the premiere of "This Lingering Life," by Chiori Miyagawa, a play that retells stories from classic Japanese Noh plays in a contemporary style. Miyagawa will juxtapose traditional and modern dramatic forms, creating a distinctly Western contemporary play with the intensity of classical Japanese drama at its root. The work will be directed by Artistic Director Jubilith Moore and composed by Michael Gardiner, a scholar and performer of the music of Noh.

Theatre Squared

$15,000 Fayetteville, AR

To support the Arkansas New Play Festival, a laboratory for new play development which will present the work of emerging playwrights to audiences in Little Rock and Fayetteville, Arkansas. The festival is designed to give voice to emerging playwrights whose work resonates with the shifting demographics of Arkansas and mid-America. Playwrights are provided with access to professional artists and support staff, and their works will be performed for audiences at the Arkansas Repertory Theatre and at Theatre Squared.

TheatreWorks

$30,000 Palo Alto, CA

To support the New Works Initiative, the development of new plays and musicals. Through readings, workshops, a writers retreat, an annual New Works Festival, and full productions of world premieres, the program supports the artistry of musical theater composers and writers and enables them to explore and create new forms of musical theater. Activities will include the regional premiere of "The Silent Sky" by Lauren Gunderson, a writers retreat, and the 14th Annual New Works Festival.

Touchstone (aka Touchstone Theatre)

$10,000 Bethlehem, PA

To support "Journey from the East," an international collaboration with the Shanghai Theatre Academy that will result in a bilingual (Chinese and English) theater piece. The work will explore issues raised by a recent influx of Chinese people into the community of Bethlehem, Pennsylvania. The initiative will begin with citywide story gathering utilizing local bilingual translators that will serve as the basis for a new original script written by Touchstone Theatre artists in collaboration with Dr. William Sun of the Shanghai Theatre Academy.

Trinity Repertory Company

$10,000 Providence, RI

To support a new production of "Oliver!," Lionel Bart's classic musical inspired by Charles Dickens' "Oliver Twist," with direction by Sharon and Richard Jenkins. Set designer Eugene Lee will create a set that extends the streets of Dickens' London into the audience's space. Music Director Michael Rice will transform the arrangements and orchestrations of the score. Stephen Berenson, chair of the Brown/Trinity MFA programs, will work with Artistic Director Curt Columbus on a new adaptation of the musical's book that will incorporate selected text from Dickens' original novel to heighten the characterizations. The production will be supported by a wide range of learning opportunities, including post-show discussions, articles, and interviews.

Unicorn Theatre

$10,000 Kansas City, MO

To support the world premiere of "Grounded" by George Brant, a play that tells the story of an F16 fighter pilot whose unexpected pregnancy changes the course of her career. Reassigned to flying remote-controlled drones in Afghanistan from a trailer in Las Vegas, the pilot struggles through surreal shifts far from the battlefield, hunting terrorists by day, and being a wife and mother by night. The production will receive subsequent "rolling world premieres" at Borderlands Theatre in Tucson and the San Francisco Playhouse through an initiative of the National New Play Network.

Victory Gardens Theater (aka Victory Gardens)

$15,000 Chicago, IL

To support the world premiere of "The Gospel of Lovingkindness" by Marcus Gardley. The play will explore the epidemic of neighborhood gun violence, and the role of the church in communities as a center for transformation. Set in the Bronzeville neighborhood on the South Side of Chicago, a significant aspect of the play will be developed through community dialogue and engagement with the Bronzeville population. Gardley will conduct workshops with the local community designed to both educate the participants on the fundamentals of playwriting, and allow them to express their own stories through writing.

Some details of the projects listed are subject to change, contingent upon prior Endowment approval.

Vineyard Theatre & Workshop Center (aka Vineyard Theatre)

$10,000 New York, NY

To support the world premiere of "Too Much Sun," a new play by Nicky Silver that explores the role of the artist in the family, directed by Mark Brokaw. The play tells the story of a distinguished actress reeling from what appears to be a breakdown, who reaches out to her estranged daughter to find her way back to life, to humanity, and to herself. In conjunction with the production, Silver will lead a series of playwriting workshops for early-career writers, designed to help them generate new work and to provide mentorship in the transition to a professional life in the theater.

Vivian Beaumont Theater (aka Lincoln Center Theater)

$30,000 New York, NY

To support the world premiere of "Act One," adapted by James Lapine from the autobiography of Moss Hart. Originally published in 1959, Hart's autobiography quickly became a landmark book about 20th-century American theater. The work chronicles the author's impoverished childhood and his determined struggle to escape poverty and make a career in the theater, culminating with his first Broadway success, "Once in a Lifetime." Lapine will adapt and direct the work.

VORTEX Repertory Company (aka The VORTEX)

$10,000 Austin, TX

To support the creation and presentation of "Spirit," an interdisciplinary musical that will blend theater, dance, opera, and ritual. Conceived and directed by Bonnie Cullum, the piece will explore the universal human concept of the spirit, drawing on research into diverse world spiritual traditions and concepts of the spirit or soul. The production will be the last in The Elementals, a series of original works exploring air, fire, water, earth, and spirit. Live and recorded music will be composed by Chris Humphrey and Chad Salvata.

Washington Drama Society (aka Arena Stage)

$35,000 Washington, DC

To support the world premiere of "Camp David," a new play by journalist Lawrence Wright, directed by Artistic Director Molly Smith. The play dramatizes the 13 days of private negotiations at the 1978 Camp David Accords which established a basis for peace between Egypt and Israel. The story is told through the eyes of President Jimmy Carter, First Lady Rosalynn Carter, Egyptian President Anwar el-Sadat, and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin. The playwright will draw upon interviews with the President and First Lady, their diaries, and recollections of former White House staffer Gerald Rafshoon and others involved with the accords.

Watts Village Theater (aka WVTC)

$10,000 Los Angeles, CA

To support the development and premiere of "It's a Krip-Hop Nation (Where My Crippled Homies At!)," an original play by Artistic Director Lynn Manning. The piece will be drawn from the stories and histories of people disabled through accidents and violence in South Los Angeles. "Krip?hop" is a term coined by disabled performance artist and poet Leroy Moore. The play will center around a fictional collective of performers with disabilities based in Los Angeles, who became disabled through violence. Manning will conduct outreach to disabled survivors of violence, their family members, and caregivers at independent living centers, hospitals, and other rehabilitation facilities in Los Angeles.

WaxFactory

$10,000 New York, NY

To support the development and premiere of "416 Minutes," a multidisciplinary production conceived and directed by Artistic Director Ivan Talijancic. Inspired by the writings of Japanese novelist Haruki Murakami, the piece follows the interweaving storylines of six characters from sunset to sunrise, through unpredictable encounters in the labyrinthine urban settings that thrive while most of us are asleep. The piece combines elements of sound, text, movement, architecture, and video to explore the impact of globalization and communication technologies on our perception of the world.

William Inge Festival Foundation (aka William Inge Center for the Arts)

$30,000 Independence, KS

To support the new play development activities of playwrights in residence at the William Inge family home. Residency activities will include workshops of new work with professional guest artists that will culminate in public readings. Playwrights in residence will also participate in the instruction of young playwrights at the high school and college levels, and conduct professional workshops for students and the general public. The center's philosophy is to give the playwrights the freedom and support to work on any project during the residency with subsidized time for writing, research, and reflection.

Wilma Theater

$25,000 Philadelphia, PA

To support the world premiere of "Don Juan Comes Back from Iraq," by Paula Vogel, directed by Blanka Zizka. Inspired by Odon von Horvath's 1936 play "Don Juan Returns from the War," the project is grounded in the experiences of veterans of America's war in Iraq. Horvath's play depicts a traumatized soldier returning from the war to find Europe nearly empty of men. Current veterans share experiences similar to those of Horvath's soldier, but are returning to a country where most of the population has little direct connection with these foreign wars. The production is the result of an extensive, two-year development process, undertaken by the company's resident acting and artistic company.

Women's Project & Productions (aka Women's Project Theater)

$35,000 New York, NY

To support the lab, a residency program for early to mid-career women playwrights, directors, and producers that provides members with training, resources, and new work development opportunities. Participating artists are selected through a highly competitive, national application process, and will include playwrights Kara Lee Corthron, Sarah Gancher, and Lauren Yee, among others.

Woolly Mammoth Theatre Company

$60,000 Washington, DC

To support a production of Jackie Sibblies Drury's "We are Proud to Present a Presentation about the Herero of Namibia, Formerly Known as Southwest Africa, from the German Sudwestafrika, Between the Years 1884-1915," directed by Michael John Garces. The play tells the story of a group of young, idealistic actors struggling to create a production about a centuries-old genocide, who begin to question their ability to understand, empathize with, and represent such distant peoples and events, as well as the ethical ramifications of doing so. An audience engagement strategy will be designed by the theater's Connectivity Department to envision and recruit an audience for the play, and design interactive engagement tools to draw them into a dialogue.

Some details of the projects listed are subject to change, contingent upon prior Endowment approval.

Writers' Theatre

$10,000 Glencoe, IL

To support the development and premiere of "A Perfect Wedding," by playwright Laura Eason, composer/lyricist Alan Schmuckler, with direction by Michael Halberstam. The work is an adaptation of Charles Mee's "Summertime." The new musical will explore the multiple ways to love in today's world, as the traditional concept of family has been redefined. Activities will include the final development workshop, a rehearsal period, and the world premiere of the work.

Yale University

$30,000 New Haven, CT

To support the premiere of "These Paper Bullets," a new play with original music, adapted by Rolin Jones from Shakespeare's "Much Ado About Nothing." The adaptation will transport Shakespeare's romance from an idyllic Messina to a rock-and-roll 1960s London and will include live music sung by The Quartos (the actors playing Benedick, Claudio, Don Pedro, and Balthasar). The creative team will include direction by Jackson Gay and songs by Billie Joe Armstrong.

Young Playwrights (aka Young Playwrights Festival)

$30,000 New York, NY
