Alabama

Number of Grants: 10

Total Dollar Amount: $1,015,200

Auburn University Main Campus

$25,000 Auburn, AL

Art Works – Visual Arts

To support the Alabama Prison Arts and Education Project. In collaboration with the Alabama Department of Corrections, the university will provide visual arts workshops taught by emerging and established artists for incarcerated men and women in multiple facilities around the state. The workshops, based on college-level curriculum, will include courses in the fundamentals of drawing, watercolor, mural arts, and block-cut printing. A touring exhibition will be presented, accompanied by an anthology of student produced creative works.

Alabama Folklife Association, Inc. (aka Alabama Folklife Association)

$30,000 Birmingham, AL

Art Works – Folk & Traditional Arts

To support One State, Many Traditions, Our Story: A Bicentennial Cultural Initiative. In preparation for Alabama's bicentennial celebration, folklorists will conduct archival research and fieldwork about the state's musical traditions and quilting heritage. Tradition bearers will be identified and documented, and previously unknown material will be preserved. The results of this research will be incorporated into bicentennial exhibits and curriculum guides for classroom use.

City of Birmingham, Alabama

$100,000 Birmingham, AL

Our Town – Design

To support a masterplan for a new arts and technology complex at Sloss Furnaces National Historic Landmark. The masterplan will address underutilized space and facilities at the Sloss Furnaces site and build workforce capacity in Birmingham through site-specific planning and design and arts and technology workforce development plans. The City of Birmingham, which owns Sloss Furnaces, will engage artists and the local creative community during the planning process. Sloss Furnaces includes 44 existing buildings and an 1881 iron ore blast furnace on a 15-acre site near downtown Birmingham. It was listed as a National Historic Landmark in 1981.

Sloss Furnaces Foundation, Inc. (aka Sloss)

$15,000 Birmingham, AL

Art Works – Arts Education

To support the summer youth apprenticeship program. High school students will build artistic, vocational, and social skills through apprenticeships while learning the processes used to create cast iron and fabricated steel sculpture with professional artists. Student artwork will be displayed in an exhibition at the Sloss Furnaces Gallery and at ArtWalk, an annual art festival in downtown Birmingham.

Space One Eleven, Inc. (aka Space One Eleven (SOE))

$25,000 Birmingham, AL

Art Works – Visual Arts

To support an exhibition series featuring work by women artists. Plans for the project include two exhibitions. The first is a group show anchored by a resident artist-Rosa Naday Garmendia-whose work explores social justice issues. The second exhibition will showcase emerging female artists. Complementing the residency and exhibitions will be panel discussions intended for the general public, university students, and faculty in which the exhibiting artists, art historians, and activists will explore topics such as attitudes toward feminist art among women of different generations; the role of artists as agents of change; and the representation of women in the contemporary art world.

Marshall County Retired Senior Volunteer Program, Incorporated (aka Marshall County RSVP)

$10,000                      Guntersville, AL

Art Works – Folk & Traditional Arts

To support Melodies and Musings - Our Appalachian Legacy, a mountain dulcimer workshop series. Artists will instruct senior citizens in playing the dulcimer in a multi-day workshop. The instructional program will conclude with a concert of traditional music featuring the instructors and students. The project will promote health and well-being, including positive psychological and physiological benefits for the older adults involved.

For an Our Town project in Hobson, AL, see University of Alabama in Tuscaloosa

Alabama Youth Ballet Theatre, Inc.

$10,000                      Huntsville, AL

Art Works – Dance

To support Dance Connection. Students are nominated to participate in the annual performing arts program which reduces economic barriers to arts access. The program provides free or reduced-cost clothing, equipment, nutrition, and professional instruction during an intensive summer dance program that ends with a public performance. Eligible students are provided full-year tuition scholarships to the Alabama Youth Ballet School, which offers additional performance opportunities.

Mobile Symphony, Inc. (aka Mobile Symphony Orchestra)

$10,000                      Mobile, AL

Art Works – Music

To support Mobile Symphony Orchestras's Young People's Concerts. Programming will feature an adaptation of Sergei Prokofiev's "Peter and the Wolf" with Music Director Scott Speck. Tailoring the classic tale to the Alabama Gulf Coast, the wolf may be a native Alabama animal such as an alligator. Educational study guides and programs will be presented in elementary schools in Mobile and Baldwin Counties. The concerts will be presented during the school day for more than 3,000 elementary schoolchildren.

Alabama State Council on the Arts

$765,200                      Montgomery, AL

Partnerships (State & Regional)

Anchorage Symphony Orchestra

$15,000 Anchorage, AK

Art Works – Music

To support Young People's Concerts. In an effort to encourage participation in school instrumental music programs, concerts will be performed for elementary school students. Working in collaboration with Anchorage School District music educators, the orchestra will create study materials for classroom instructors. Teacher workshops also will be offered to prepare students for the concert experience.

Koahnic Broadcast Corporation

$25,000 Anchorage, AK

Art Works – Media Arts

To support a production highlighting Native artists on the radio program "Earthsongs." As many as five Native rap and hip-hop artists will be profiled for a production that highlights each artist's tribal history, personal story, and the cultural significance of spoken-word, rap, and hip-hop traditions within the greater Native community. The production will feature performances by each artist as well as recordings of outreach events in their local communities, in areas such as Anchorage, Alaska; Santa Fe, New Mexico; and Billings, Montana. The program will air on "Earthsongs," which has public broadcast planned through station affiliates of the Native One Voice radio network and other public radio stations across the country.

Perseverance Theatre, Inc. (aka Perseverance Theatre)

$10,000 Douglas, AK

Art Works – Theater & Musical Theater

To support the development and world premiere of "Snow Child," a new musical by playwright John Strand, lyricist and co-composer Georgia Stitt, and co-composer Bob Banghart. Adapted from the novel "The Snow Child" by Eowyn Ivey, and based on a centuries-old Slavic-Nordic folktale, the musical will tell the story of two newcomers to the territory of Alaska who are tested as they question their resolve and ultimately fall in love with Alaska's cold beauty. The production will be performed in Juneau and Anchorage, bringing an Alaskan story to an Alaskan audience.

Alaska Arts Confluence (aka Confluence)

$86,106 Haines, AK

Our Town – Design

To support the community design of an interconnected Portage Cove waterfront. A diverse cross-section of stakeholders will be engaged in planning a comprehensive design of the unique, 1.6-mile waterfront between Picture Point and Portage Cove campground. Alaska Arts Confluence will work with Haines Borough to develop a waterfront plan as part of this process. The goal is to achieve an accessible recreational and business Portage Cove waterfront for all 2,500 residents that additionally provides pedestrian interconnectivity with the entire downtown and invigorates this gateway to Haines.

American Samoa

$10,000                      Surprise, AZ

Art Works – Local Arts Agencies

To support the West Valley Performing Arts Series. As many as three separate performing arts series will be presented through a partnership with the City of Surprise Arts Commission. Two series, Lunchtime Theater and HQ After Dark, will introduce audiences to local arts venues and artists through live theater and music performances. The third series, Arts Advantage, is intended to serve elementary school students through school performances. Past performances have included traditional storytelling and Native dances by Yellow Bird Indian Productions; "Opera-Antics," an introduction to opera; and artist Keith Johnson's exploration of African folklore. All three series will be expanded to address an increased demand for affordable, accessible, live art performances.

Arizona State University

$100,000                      Tempe, AZ

Our Town – Design

To support The Creative Placemaking Policy Fellows program, a Knowledge Building project. The Arizona State University's Herberger Institute for Design and the Arts will partner with the Center for Performance and Civic Practice to establish a Creative Placemaking Policy Fellows program. The program will convene practitioners who have led successful partnerships between the arts and community development fields. Fellows will meet to exchange knowledge and document lessons learned. The aggregated findings will identify potential barriers to successful creative placemaking and strategies for overcoming them, and find ways to infuse the work across the community development field. Additionally, fellows will each produce a training tool, such as a podcast, video, or piece of writing, for dissemination. This program complements fieldwide efforts to build more effective cross-sector knowledge exchange, and to more deeply understand the role of higher education institutions in advancing creative placemaking field development. As many as eight fellows will complete the program during the course of the grant project period.

Southwest Folklife Alliance, Inc. (aka Tucson Meet Yourself)

$45,000                      Tucson, AZ

Art Works – Folk & Traditional Arts

To support statewide programs and activities in the areas of fieldwork, apprenticeships, and professional development. In addition to continued fieldwork to identify folk artists and tradition bearers, SFA will embark on increasing the number of pairs in its master-apprentice program; convene and offer training through the Heritage Artists Professional Development Institute; implement intensive training camps for professionals; and launch the Yaqui Verbal Arts/Oral Tradition program. SFA also will continue its End-of-Life Continuum initiative in partnership with hospices, as well as complete edits and a reissue of an educational curriculum in partnership with Smithsonian Institution.

Southwest Folklife Alliance, Inc. (aka Tucson Meet Yourself)

$35,000                      Tucson, AZ

Art Works – Folk & Traditional Arts

To support Tucson Meet Yourself Folklife Festival. In its 44th year, the festival will present performances, exhibits, and demonstrations exploring a wide range of family, ethnic, regional, and occupational folklife communities in Southern Arizona and Northern Mexico. A highlight of the festival will be exhibits and demonstrations celebrating the first three years of the Southwest Folklife Alliance's master/apprentice program.

True Concord Voices and Orchestra

$25,000                      Tucson, AZ

Art Works – Music

To support True Concord's performance project, American Rhythm. The project will feature the chamber orchestra and choir in concert programs featuring works by American composers. The exhibition will present work by San Francisco Bay Area clay sculptors such as Robert Arneson, Richard Shaw, Arthur Gonzalez, Viola Frey, Michelle Gregor, and Wanxin Zhang who were using clay to address the social and political issues of the 1960s. The exhibition also will explore the influence of these artists as teachers on generations of West Coast clay sculptors. Curated by Lisa Reinertson, the exhibition project will include the publication of a catalogue.

Berkeley Symphony Orchestra (aka Berkeley Symphony)

$15,000 Berkeley, CA

Art Works – Music

To support the Music in the Schools initiative. Project plans will include classroom visits by musicians, curriculum guides for teachers, school concerts with students rehearsing and performing side-by-side with orchestra musicians, and family concerts. The orchestra staff will work in collaboration with Berkeley Unified School District music teachers and staff to plan overall themes, select repertoire, and ensure the initiative aligns with state and national educational standards.

California Shakespeare Theater (aka Cal Shakes)

$25,000 Berkeley, CA

Art Works – Presenting & Multidisciplinary Works

To support performances of "Parable of the Sower" and related activities. Based on the dystopian novel by the late science fiction author Octavia Butler, adapted for the stage by Toshi Reagon and Bernice Johnson Reagon, and directed by Eric Ting, "Parable" is a genre-bending performance/opera/concert work of theater. Chronicling the spiritual awakening of a future America grappling with the effects of climate change, "Parable" is told in the form of a ritual song cycle informed by African-American spiritualism.

David Brower Center

$10,000 Berkeley, CA

Art Works – Presenting & Multidisciplinary Works

To support a youth art mentorship and exhibition program. Workshops and events will connect students to emerging and established environmental artists with the goal of securing long-term mentorships to foster their artistic growth. The project will culminate with an exhibition featuring the art work of current Berkeley High School students.

Kala Institute (aka Kala Art Institute)

$25,000 Berkeley, CA

Art Works – Media Arts

To support an artist-in-residence program. The program will provide facilities access, technical support, and a housing stipend for media artists during a six-month residency for projects utilizing video, audio, web or interactive media/coding, and design software. The public will benefit by having opportunities to engage with the visiting artists during public programs, such as artist talks, multimedia performances, film and video screenings, and skills-sharing workshops. The program will culminate in an exhibition, free and open to the public, at the Kala Art Gallery, showcasing works created during the residency.

Luna Kids Dance (aka Luna Dance Institute)

$20,000                      Berkeley, CA

Art Works – Arts Education

To support Professional Development: Dance Teaching & Learning Studies. This project will bring together teaching artists, specialists, and classroom teachers to improve their knowledge, skills, and understanding of how to engage students in dance learning based on National Core Art Standards. Participants will take a summer institute, receive sustained coaching throughout the academic year, and have access to ongoing workshops and consultations as members of communities of practice. Luna Kids Dance serves dancers, teachers, children, and families through inquiry based arts learning programs in schools, Head Start centers, and residential shelters.

Project H Design

$20,000                      Berkeley, CA

Art Works – Arts Education

To support Girls Garage, an arts, design, and building program for young girls. During the school year, students will participate in intensive summer and after-school sessions, as well as develop specific construction and life management skills. The project curriculum aligns with both the national core arts standards and the career technical education (CTE) standards. Participants enrolled in Girls Garage will participate in learning modules and earn skill badges in various areas including carpentry, welding, masonry, digital design, and leadership. The purpose of Girls Garage is to give participants the tools to communicate ideas through their creative voice, transform their communities through active building, and go confidently into higher education and future careers.

Regents of the University of California at Berkeley (On behalf of Cal Performances)

$30,000                      Berkeley, CA

Art Works – Music

To support an artist-in-residence project by Cal Performances. The Seattle Symphony and Music Director Ludovic Morlot will participate in residency activities that will include performances, workshops, master classes, and community engagement events in the Bay Area. The residency will be part of Cal Performances' exploration of themes connected to "The Natural World"-a project initiated to celebrate the centenary of the U.S. National Park Service. Programming will feature works such as "Oceanides, Op. 73" and "Symphony No. 2" by Jean Sibelius, "Become Ocean" and "Become Desert" by John Luther Adams, and "Four Sea Interludes from Peter Grimes, Op. 33a" by Benjamin Britten. Project collaborations will include organizations such as The Trust for Public Land in San Francisco, the UC Berkeley Center for New Music and Audio Technology, and the San Francisco public school district.

West Edge Opera (formerly Berkeley Opera)

$10,000                      Berkeley, CA

Art Works – Opera

To support performances of "Frankenstein, or The Modern Prometheus" by composer Libby Larsen. The libretto was adapted from the 1818 novel by Mary Shelley and performances will occur on the cusp of the 200th anniversary of its publication. Scored for fewer than 20 orchestra players, seven singers, and an actor, the work has major electronic and video elements. The creative team will include video design collaborator Jeremy Knight, music director Jonathan Khuner, and director Matthew Ozawa. Performances will take place in summer 2017 at Oakland's historic Pacific Pipe Warehouse in Oakland.

Art Works – Dance

To support Dance @ The Wallis. An array of dance companies will be presented, several of which will be based in Los-Angeles, such as Daniel Ezralow's Ezralow Dance and Benjamin Millepied's L.A. Dance project. Performances will take place in the Bram Goldsmith Theater, and the Wallis will partner with local schools to arrange for K-12 students to attend weekday matinee performances. In addition, free tickets will be offered to local social service organizations.

ETM-LA, Inc. (aka Education Through Music-Los Angeles)

$25,000                      Burbank, CA

Art Works – Arts Education

To support weekly, year-long music instruction for students in Los Angeles public schools. Teaching artists will provide general music and instrumental music instruction to students through in-school classes in strings, ukulele, band, guitar, recorder, and chorus. Students will perform in mid-year and year-end student concerts at school as well as in the community. The program will include professional development for classroom teachers to learn how to integrate the arts into the curriculum. Participating schools host community events and festivals, and students will have the opportunity to attend events such as professional symphony concerts.

Engage Inc. (aka EngAGE: The Art of Active Aging)

$15,000                      Burbank, CA

Art Works – Presenting & Multidisciplinary Works

To support Engage in Creativity, a community-based multidisciplinary arts program focused on seniors. Professional artists will provide free college-level classes and events to low-income seniors, delivered on-site at affordable senior apartments. The program will provide weekly access to arts programs for thousands of underserved seniors in Southern California, catalyzing the creation of new works of visual art, literature, film, music, and dance. Engage in Creativity will culminate in numerous public arts events such as art shows, performances, readings, and radio show segments.

Latino Public Broadcasting (aka LPB)

$50,000                      Burbank, CA

Art Works – Media Arts

To support production and related costs for "Voces," a four-part public television series presenting Latino arts and culture. Aired nationally on PBS during Hispanic Heritage Month, the series showcases the works of independent Latino producers and foster informed discourse on Latino history, identity, and social issues. Works previously featured on "Voces" include "Pedro E. Guerrero: A Photographer's Journey" by Yvan Iturriaga and Ray Telles, Andrea Meller's "Now En Espanol," and "Children of Giant" by Hector Galan. Following the broadcast, the series will be made available for streaming on www.pbs.org and presented at community screenings across the country.

Scripps College

$10,000                      Claremont, CA

Art Works – Music

To support a commissioning, performance, and recording project. The new work will be written by Cambodian-American Composer Chinary Ung, who will set texts from the ancient Buddhist collection of women's scriptures, the Therigatha (Verses of the Elder Nuns), dating from approximately 500 BCE. The composition will be written for two sopranos, clarinets, viola and voice, and percussion in three languages: Pali, Khmer, and English. The project will be curated by soprano Dr. Anne Harley, with performances at California State University, San Bernardino, Chapman University, and University of California, San Diego. A compact disc recording of the new work will be released on the Voices of the Pearl record label.

$10,000                      Los Angeles, CA

Art Works – Folk & Traditional Arts

To support a series of workshops celebrating the state of Oaxaca, Mexico. Master artists will offer instruction for using colored sawdust and sand to make traditional mats that are displayed in the Oaxacan version of the Day of Dead celebration. Participants also will learn how to perform the "Zancudos Dance," as well as make costumes and stilts used in the dance. These dance traditions will be featured in the 2017 Festival Guelaguetza ORO.

Renaissance Arts Academy (aka RenArts)

$50,000                      Los Angeles, CA

Art Works – Arts Education

To support RenArts Conservatory. The project is a tuition-free after-school and summer program of daily professional arts instruction in a diverse Title I charter public school in northeast Los Angeles. Experienced teaching artists from local universities will teach dance, instrumental and vocal music, music theory and analysis, sight singing, percussion, principles of music, and choreographic composition. Parents will sign contracts agreeing to support their children in practicing at home, attending rehearsals, and responsible treatment of their musical instruments. The curricula will build sequentially on student in-school arts coursework. RenArts' elementary, middle, and high school students are diverse, including English language learners, and more than half come from economically disadvantaged families. RenArts has a 100 percent graduation rate and 97 percent of graduates attend universities.

Rogue Artists Ensemble

$10,000                      Los Angeles, CA

Art Works – Theater & Musical Theater

To support the development and performance of the Kaidan Project. Created in partnership with East West Players, the work will be an immersive, site-specific piece inspired by the Japanese ritual of Hyakumonogatari Kaidankai, or the telling of 100 ghost stories. The script will be created by playwright Naomi Iizuka, and directed by Artistic Director Sean Cawelti. Audiences will experience the performance in small groups as they are led on a "ghost tour" of Los Angeles' Little Tokyo neighborhood. Performances will be augmented by talkbacks and workshops with community and audience members focused on the Japanese art forms explored, the tradition of ghost stories, and their greater significance in theater and society.

Santa Cecilia Opera and Orchestra Association (aka Santa Cecilia Orchestra)

$10,000                      Los Angeles, CA

Art Works – Music

To support Discovering Music, an educational and community engagement project. Directed by Artistic Director Sonia Marie De Leon, the project will feature orchestral performances and educational programs at venues ranging from elementary schools to community centers. Discovering Music will introduce children to classical music through concerts and string instruction. The neighborhood concerts will enable families to join their children in a shared musical experience. Founded in 1993, the organization brings orchestral music to new audiences in underserved communities in Los Angeles.

Show Box L.A.

$10,000                      Los Angeles, CA

Art Works – Dance

To support the Show Box L.A. Residency Program. The program's primary function is to provide creative space for dance makers that is fully functional and equipped with technical equipment necessary for the development of works that meet the professional standards of contemporary dance presenters, venues, and audiences. The residency will support as many as five dance artists and will serve as a place of incubation and development for contemporary dance works. As part of the residency, artists will share their creative processes and/or teaching with the community in the form of open rehearsals, workshops, free performance events, and classes.

Street Poets, Inc. (aka Street Poets)

$30,000                      Los Angeles, CA

Art Works – Arts Education

To support Street Poets Poetry Project. The project will comprise poetry-writing classes for youth in juvenile detention centers, continuation schools, public high schools, and community centers. Through writing workshops, field trips to live poetry performances, discussion groups, and publication of their own work, youth will be introduced to a wide range of poetry and creative writing by professional artists. Workshop participants will develop their artistic voices and use the creative process for personal transformation.

Strindberg Laboratory

$10,000                      Los Angeles, CA

Art Works – Theater & Musical Theater

To support the development and presentation of an original theatrical production with formerly incarcerated individuals in Los Angeles. Development will begin with a series of workshops in which an ensemble-based work will be created, followed by a rehearsal period, and the public presentation of the resulting work at the Freedom Festival. The festival is a two-day showcase of art by inmates in corrections facilities and by formerly incarcerated individuals in the community. The event will be designed to enrich the public's understanding of the incarcerated population while assisting former inmates with successful reintegration into the community.

The Gabriella Foundation

$20,000                      Los Angeles, CA

Art Works – Arts Education

To support Everybody Dance! Project activities will include free ballet, choreography, creative movement, theater dance, tap, jazz, modern, contemporary, and hip-hop dance instruction to children and youth living in underserved communities in Los Angeles. Throughout the academic year students will receive daily dance instruction taught by professional dance instructors, see professional dance performances, and perform in culminating recitals. The students attend Gabriella Charter School, a dance-themed public elementary and middle charter school in Los Angeles.

University of Southern California

$20,000                      Los Angeles, CA

Art Works: Research – Research

To support a study comparing hand coordination and inter-brain communication skills in musicians. The study will comprise three distinct groups: non-musicians; musicians with symmetrical hand use (e.g., piano-players); and musicians with asymmetrical hand use (e.g., string-players). Researchers will conduct several task assessments among these groups to understand the relationship between bimanual coordination and inter-hemispheric inhibition—a cortical mechanism underlying most forms of motor control. The study asks whether the functional inter-hemispheric interactions and bimanual motor coordination acquired by musicians who have trained intensively with a musical instrument can generalize to other bimanual skills.

University of Southern California

$90,000                      Los Angeles, CA

Art Works: Research – Research

To support randomized, controlled studies examining the psychosocial impact of an intergenerational storytelling program for teenagers and older adults. Titled "Sages and Seekers," the eight-week program will pair participants to share life experiences through storytelling in an effort to promote healthy psychosocial development. Researchers will use a waitlisted-control design, including pre- and post-assessments, to test whether program participants show improvements in various self-reported outcomes, such as emotional well-being and purpose, cultural identity, values, and possible future selves (for teenagers); and generativity and cognitive processing (for older adults). Participants will be recruited from neighborhoods in Los Angeles and Boston.

Bay Area Children's Theatre (aka BACT)

$10,000                      Oakland, CA

Art Works – Theater & Musical Theater

To support The Perspectives Project. A playwright will be commissioned to devise a piece based on interviews with children from the Bay Area representing different socioeconomic statuses, religions, ethnicities, and who may speak different languages at home. Inspired by the storytelling model of "Storycorps" and the interview-based style of theater artist Anna Deavere Smith, the project is designed to give voice to children whose stories are not being told through current theater for young audiences scripts. Youth participants will be asked the same set of questions and the playwright will create an original piece of theater based on their answers. The show will be developed for family audiences, include student matinees, and have an interactive audience participation activity.

Cantare Con Vivo

$10,000                      Oakland, CA

Art Works – Arts Education

To support the Children's Choirs of Oakland program. Program components will include tuition-free, in-school music classes for students of all grade levels in the Oakland Unified School District. Teaching artists will teach fundamental music skills and integrate music into language arts and social studies, covering topics such as Native American and early colonial music, sea shanties, spirituals, and music of the Civil Rights Era. In after-school choir classes, students will learn vocal music concepts and sing in a variety of languages such as Hebrew, Arabic, Spanish, Italian, Latin, Mandarin, and Japanese. The program will also feature the Honor Choir, the Spira Choir, and the Nova Choir for middle and high school students, who will have multiple opportunities to perform in concerts and community events.

Community Works West, Inc. (aka Community Works)

$20,000                      Oakland, CA

Art Works – Visual Arts

To support the exhibition and catalogue, "Piqua Shawnee: Cultural Survival in Their Homeland," by photographer Ruth Morgan. The exhibition will feature color portraits of members of the Piqua Shawnee Tribe along with contextual photographs and texts documenting cultural activities at key sites in their traditional homeland; including a 16th-century village in Cumberland Falls, Kentucky, a burial site in Mariemont, Ohio, and a battle site at Fort Recovery, Ohio. A collaboration with the Piqua Shawnee Tribal Council, the exhibition, catalogue and accompanying educational programming will help to preserve the cultural resources of the tribe while highlighting the history of locations and ceremonies relevant to maintaining their heritage. Tribal members and artists will host public discussions and other relevant concurrent public programming. A project-specific website featuring the photographs, complete interviews, a reading list, and commentary will be available for download as an e-book.

Creative Growth, Inc. (aka Creative Growth Art Center)

$20,000                      Oakland, CA

Art Works – Visual Arts

To support programming for artists with disabilities. In an effort to integrate artists with disabilities into the larger arts community, the program will continue to nurture artists through a series of studio workshops, a visiting artists program and lecture series, and educational activities for youth. Led by trained professional artists, participants will receive instruction in a range of media, including painting, ceramics, printmaking, and video production. Creative Growth Art Center will extend its reach to new audiences by exhibiting participating artists' work at local and national venues and by displaying the work within Bay Area businesses.

Diamano Coura West African Dance Co. (aka Diamano Coura)

$20,000                      Oakland, CA

Art Works – Folk & Traditional Arts

To support Collage des Cultures Africaines. In its 23rd year, the festival will present a series of performances, lectures, and workshops celebrating various styles of traditional African dance. In addition to workshops, master artists from Congo, Cote d'Ivoire, Guinea, Liberia, Mali, and Senegal will perform with local dance groups. The performances will explore the influence of African cultures in music and dance.

Dimensions Dance Theater, Inc.

$20,000                      Oakland, CA

$10,000                      San Francisco, CA

Art Works – Theater & Musical Theater

To support the premiere of "The Mathematics of Love" by Cherrie Moraga. The work is a meditation on death and dying and examines the role of "spirit" as told through the bodies of people forgotten by history. Moraga will be in residence to work with her artistic team to finalize the script and participate with the play's director in production meetings with designers, the stage manager, and Brava personnel. To encourage exchange with the community, the project also includes public artist talks and presentations.

Center for Asian American Media (aka CAAM)

$65,000                      San Francisco, CA

Art Works – Media Arts

To support the multimedia storytelling project "Changing Chinatown," including production of a virtual reality film by Wayne Wang. Focused on the shifting landscape of San Francisco's Chinatown neighborhood, the project will feature a virtual reality work by Wang that revisits the director's 1982 place-based documentary "Chan is Missing." Through public programming such as site-specific screenings, installations, and events at the Chinatown locations featured in the film, audiences will be able to participate in interactive tours of the neighborhood and engage with the contemporary Chinatown community.

Chinese Culture Foundation of San Francisco (aka Chinese Culture Center)

$20,000                      San Francisco, CA

Art Works – Visual Arts

To support "Xian Rui: Ten Years" a multi-state exhibition initiative focusing on presentations by contemporary visual arts. To celebrate the tenth anniversary of Xian Rui, the Chinese Culture Center's flagship solo exhibition series, the organization will collaborate with Asia Society Texas in Houston, and the Minneapolis Institute of Art to present solo shows of new work, with an emphasis on presentations by Asian-American visual artists. "Xian" meaning "new" and "Rui" meaning "sharp" will offer a thought-provoking look at contemporary Chinese culture by highlighting artists who use Chinese art forms and techniques, or derive inspiration from Chinese heritage. Ancillary programs will include artist talks and panel discussions.

Circus Center

$10,000                      San Francisco, CA

Art Works – Presenting & Multidisciplinary Works

To support Clown Conservatory. The project will be a multidisciplinary professional training program in physical comedy, clowning, and vaudeville. The 24-week symposium, taught by master clowns, circus artists, and circus historians, will train professional and professional-track performing artists in narrative clowning, character creation, circus arts, and performance. The training will help prepare artists to meet the demands of today's international circus, film, and theater job market. The conservatory will culminate with an agent showcase, as well as the development and performance of a full-length, fully-scored circus show that will be recorded so that participants obtain audition materials.

City and County of San Francisco, California (aka San Francisco Arts Commission) (On behalf of WritersCorps)

$34,000 San Francisco, CA

Art Works – Arts Education

To support San Francisco WritersCorps. The project is a creative writing program that serves youth from underserved communities. Working primarily in language arts classrooms and using creative writing activities thematically linked to literature, writers will work in schools for approximately eight months to supplement the curricula and strengthen students' writing skills. Activities will take place during and after the school day, primarily in underserved public schools, juvenile halls, arts and social service organizations, and public libraries. Support for teaching artists includes monthly cohort meetings and professional development trainings. Students' work will be published in anthologies, chapbooks, and broadsides; recorded for social media; and performed at a variety of poetry events, including the annual literary festival WordStorm.

Contemporary Jewish Museum (aka The CJM)

$40,000 San Francisco, CA

Art Works – Museum

To support the exhibition, "Jewish Folktales Retold: Artist as Maggid." The exhibition will focus on newly commissioned work by approximately 15 contemporary artists created in response to fairy tales, folktales, tales of mysticism, and the supernatural from the 16th century to the present. A few selected artists for the commissions are sculptor, Michael Arcega (b. 1973), photographer, Dina Goldstein (b. 1969), new media artist, Mads Lynnerup (b. 1976), and painter, Vera Iliatova (b. 1975). The exhibition, its online catalogue, and public programs such as gallery talks, educator-led tours, lesson plans and teacher trainings, art making for families, and storytelling performances, will engage diverse artists and audiences in a shared exploration of storytelling and its enduring power to inspire creativity in the visual arts. A national and international exhibition tour is anticipated.

$30,000 San Francisco, CA

Art Works – Media Arts

To support the creation of a web portal. Features of the portal may include a searchable, sortable media catalogue, how-to videos, composer interviews, and distribution of sheet music. Made in conjunction with a five-year initiative to commission 50 new works for string quartets, the online platform will allow users to access the program's multimedia library and provide tools to support music education. Once the online portal has been completed, the content will be available to the public free-of-charge.

Margaret Jenkins Dance Studio, Inc. (aka Margaret Jenkins Dance Company)

$15,000 San Francisco, CA

Art Works – Dance

To support the creation of "Glasstales & Threadsongs," a new work by Artistic Director Margaret Jenkins. The company will perform one part of the work in an intimate setting and the other part will take place in a traditional theatrical environment. After a four-decade history of performing mostly large-scale works in formal proscenium theaters, Jenkins' recent work, "Site Series (Inside Outside)" was created for living rooms, galleries, and more intimate spaces. "Glasstales & Threadsongs" will connect the two different ways of experiencing Jenkins' work in an atmosphere conducive to shifting one's perspectives to see dance differently. The company plans to offer several showings at their Lab and in local high schools.

Merola Opera Program

$30,000 San Francisco, CA

Art Works – Opera

To support a professional training program for singers, apprentice coaches, and an apprentice stage director. Participants will receive private coaching and attend master classes with veterans in the opera field. The 12-week training program will include language study, ensemble work, vocal technique, and stagecraft. Additional training for the apprentice coaches and apprentice stage director will focus on accompaniment, orchestral reduction, conducting for singers, and performing in a particular composer's style. In 2017, participants will perform in Rossini's "La Cenerentola" and a triple bill of Pergolesi's "La Serva Padrona," Hoist's "Savitri," and Walton's "The Bear."

Art Works – Media Arts

To support visiting artist travel and honoraria for "The New Black Cinema," a public symposium series focused on works by African-American and African Diaspora filmmakers. Artists such as Barry Jenkins, Terrance Nance, and Jason Jeffers will present their work at public programs intended to serve the South Florida artistic community and greater regional audiences. The programs will be accompanied by panel discussions and forums, covering topics such as the role of film in hip-hop culture and Afro-Caribbean cinema.

DeEtte Holden Cummer Museum Foundation, Inc. (aka Cummer Museum of Art & Gardens)

$10,000 Jacksonville, FL

Art Works – Museum

To support the traveling exhibition, "Augusta Savage: Artist-Community-Activist," and accompanying catalogue. The exhibition will explore the legacy of African-American sculptor, Augusta Savage (1892-1962), a Jacksonville native and leader in the Harlem Renaissance. Drawing from the museum's collection and other institutions, the exhibition will include works by Savage and those she influenced and interacted with such as Romare Bearden (1911-88), Jacob Lawrence (1917-2000), Gwendolyn Knight (1913-2005), Norman Lewis (1901-79) and Robert Blackburn (1920-2003). A catalogue will be produced and it is anticipated that the exhibition will travel to several other venues.

Museum of Contemporary Art Jacksonville Inc. (aka MOCA Jacksonville)

$30,000 Jacksonville, FL

Art Works – Museum

To support Project Atrium, a commissioning opportunity for artists. Featured artists for the series include Anila Quayyum Agha, Gabriel Dawe, and Juan Fontanive. The unique placement, dimensions and scale of the Atrium Gallery will challenge the artists, a call to reinvention and active collaboration with the architecture of the museum on a monumental scale. Artists will install their artworks in view of the public, revealing what is usually a behind-the-scenes process to visitors. Each exhibition introduces contemporary artists from around the globe to the greater Jacksonville region and fosters the growth of artists and audiences through a series of compelling exchanges.

Florida Grand Opera, Inc.

$20,000 Miami, FL

Art Works – Opera

To support performances of "Flores en el Amazonas" ("Flores in the Amazon") by composer Daniel Catan and librettist Marcela Fuentes-Berain with related outreach activities. Inspired by the writings of Gabriela Garcia Marquez, the opera of magical realism takes place in 1910 when seven people on a small steamboat voyage down the Amazon River find themselves on a surreal journey of exploration into the mysteries of the human heart, love, and love lost. Outreach programs highlighting connections to South Florida's diverse communities will include readings of work by Garcia Marquez, concerts with narrative of the composer's vocal and orchestral works, and a program at the botanical gardens exploring rain forest preservation. As many as seven performances will occur at the Adrienne Arsht Center for the Performing Arts in spring 2018.

Florida International University (On behalf of Patricia & Phillip Frost Art Museum)

$20,000 Miami, FL

Art Works – Museum

To support an exhibition of Brazilian art at the Frost Art Museum. The exhibition will feature works by Brazilian artists that address competing ideologies in art, architecture, and design in Brazil, from the 1950s to today. Artists may include: Oscar Niemeyer (1907-2012), Sergio Rodrigues (1927-2014), Jose Zanine Caldas (1919-2001), Lina Bo Bardi, (1914-92) and Jorge Zalsupin (b. 1922). Hallmarks of Brazilian design from that period include smooth, sculptural forms derived from European architecture and design as well as a robust use of native materials. Programming will be developed to engage the local and regional audience, including the university community and the Brazilian communities in South Florida. It is anticipated that the exhibition will travel to two additional venues.

Jorge M. Perez Art Museum of Miami Dade County (aka Pórez Art Museum Miami)

$35,000 Miami, FL

Art Works – Museum

To support the exhibition, "Dara Friedman: Perfect Stranger." The exhibition will be the first mid-career survey of Miami-based video and film artist Dara Friedman (b.1968), best known for experimental, non-narrative works that deconstruct the techniques of conventional filmmaking. Drawn from local and international, private and institutional collections, the selection comprises approximately 19 film and video installations spanning more than 20 years of Friedman's creative production. Featuring several works on 16mm film, "Mother Drum" testifies to Friedman's emphasis on the materiality and mechanics of her primary medium, and will expose thousands of local residents and visitors to the artist's groundbreaking work.

Locust Projects Inc (aka Locust Projects)

$25,000 Miami, FL

Art Works – Visual Arts

To support an exhibition series and public art commissioning program for emerging and mid-career artists. Artists will create and install large-scale works for Locust's gallery space in Miami's Design District during month-long residencies. They will be provided with fabrication support, a residence, production budget, and a stipend. The project will include the development of a 20th anniversary catalogue that will record the history of one of Miami's longest running experimental exhibition spaces.

Miami Dade College (On behalf of Center for Writing and Literature)

$10,000 Miami, FL

Art Works – Literature

To support the Center for Writing and Literature in presenting Generation Genius Days at the Miami Book Fair. Designed to nurture the next generation of readers, programming will include author events for children, tweens, and teens; hands-on learning activities; storytelling; and music and dance. In addition to taking place at the Miami Book Fair, programming will be offered in locations such as schools throughout Miami-Dade County and at community centers.

Miami Dade College

$30,000 Miami, FL

Art Works – Presenting & Multidisciplinary Works

To support a multidisciplinary performing arts series. Artists in a range of disciplines including dance, music, spoken-word, and theater, will perform and participate in engagement activities including discussions and workshops. The series will highlight the intersections and influences of Spanish-American and Muslim cultures as a way to build common ground.

Miami Dade College (On behalf of Teatro Prometeo)

$15,000 Miami, FL

Art Works – Theater & Musical Theater

To support the production of "Dark Matters/Materias Oscuras" at Teatro Prometeo. Oliver Mayer, winner of a Sloan Initiative Award for plays about science, portrays the interconnected lives of three Latino intellectuals. Two particle physicists and one performing artist strive to create a breakthrough in the scientific "Theory of Everything" while cultivating the fragility of love and the mysteries of the human heart. Their identities are rich with the language, culture, and history of Latin America. Mayer and Teatro Prometeo have created a Spanish version of the play. The production will include scientific theory with old-world poetry and will premiere in Spanish and English on alternate evenings with the same cast.

Miami Light Project, Inc.

$25,000 Miami, FL

Art Works – Presenting & Multidisciplinary Works

To support Global Cuba Fest. The festival will celebrate live Cuban music by exploring genres including jazz, bolero, trova, son, and Afro-Cuban rhythms. Artists from the United States and around the world will perform and participate in engagement activities including master classes, lecture-demonstrations, open dress rehearsals, and post-show question-and-answer sessions. A documentary film and photography exhibition about Cuban music also will be presented during the festival.

Miami Music Project, Inc.

$25,000 Miami, FL

Art Works – Arts Education

To support Children's Orchestras, a free after-school instrumental music program for students in Miami-Dade County, Florida. Inspired by El Sistema, Venezuela's youth orchestra movement supporting social change through music, the program includes professional musicians teaching students through year-round orchestra rehearsals and individual lessons, while building students' self-confidence and leadership skills for academic and social success throughout their lives. All students will receive a free musical instrument, will have the opportunity to perform, and advanced students will mentor their peers. The program adheres to the philosophical fundamentals of El Sistema's rigorous, ensemble-based music program with a youth development focus, serving children from some of Miami's lowest income communities.

Miami-Dade County Department of Cultural Affairs (On behalf of Department of Cultural Affairs)

$35,000 Miami, FL

Art Works – Local Arts Agencies

To support a multicultural performance series in Little Havana, with related outreach activities. The On.Stage Black.Box performance series will present music, dance, theater, and film events in both Spanish and English, as well as related outreach activities such as educational workshops and master classes. Proposed programming includes a commissioned performance of work by Grammy-winning singer and composer Albita, the presentation of works by Companhia Urbana de Danca from Brazil, and works directed by Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright Nilo Cruz.

Performing Arts Center Trust, Inc. (aka Adrienne Arsht Center for the Performing Arts)

$25,000 Miami, FL

Art Works – Presenting & Multidisciplinary Works

To support the Breakin' Miami festival. The Arsht Center will collaborate with Breakin' Convention to present a multidisciplinary hip-hop festival featuring performances by international and local dance and spoken-word artists. Related engagement activities will include panel discussions, dance workshops, freestyle challenges, and events at Miami public schools.

Teatro Avante, Inc.

$25,000 Miami, FL

Art Works – Theater & Musical Theater

To support the International Hispanic Theatre Festival of Miami. Plays from theater companies throughout the United States, Latin America, and Europe will be presented at venues throughout Miami-Dade County. In collaboration with the Center for Literature and Theatre at Miami Dade College, a comprehensive educational component will be produced that may include an international theater conference, post-performance forums, a theater directors' roundtable, workshops, staged readings, exhibits, and book presentations. Programming also will include a free International Children's Day, an all-day event for children and their families in Little Havana featuring performing arts workshops and the presentation of a bilingual children's play.

University of Wynwood, Inc. (aka O, Miami)

$10,000 Miami, FL

Art Works – Literature

To support the O, Miami Poetry Festival. With a special focus on the rural and agricultural areas of south Miami-Dade County, the month-long festival will offer a variety of site-specific events and poetry-in-public-spaces projects designed to create chance encounters and develop new audiences for poetry. Past festivals have featured poems on the rooftops of buildings in the flight path of Miami International Airport; a literary reading projected onto a 7,000-square-foot screen in Miami Beach's Soundscape Park; and a poet-led boat tour of the Miami River.

City of Miami Beach, Florida (On behalf of Department of Tourism, Culture & Economic Development)

$20,000 Miami Beach, FL

Art Works – Local Arts Agencies

To support an outdoor performance and film series. A series of short animated films by William Kentridge (South Africa) will be screened on the exterior wall of the Frank Gehry-designed New World

Symphony building in SoundScape Park. The opening screening event will feature live music accompaniment, with works performed by the New World Symphony and directed by Kentridge and composer Phillip Miller (South Africa). Subsequent repeat screenings will feature a recording of the original music performance. This event is presented as part of the city's annual Art in the Parks performance season.

Miami Theater Center

$10,000 Miami Shores, FL

Art Works – Theater & Musical Theater

To support the Sand Box Series. The Series supports artists in the development of new works with producing, marketing, and performance experience.

City of Miramar, Florida

$40,000 Miramar, FL

Art Works – Local Arts Agencies

To support new Music Artistic Residencies at Miramar Cultural Center. As many as four residencies will be offered to individual musicians and music organizations. The residency program will provide participants with a variety of services and support, including free rehearsal space, performance space, technical crew support, box office services and revenues, marketing support, and advertising. The residents will participate in public events, such as evening performances, student or senior matinees, and master classes.

Atlantic Center for the Arts, Inc.

$25,000 New Smyrna Beach, FL

Art Works – Presenting & Multidisciplinary Works

To support artist residencies and related activities. Interdisciplinary residencies will provide emerging and mid-career artists a chance to work with master artists. The master artists will set the review criteria for the competitive application process selecting resident artists and then determine the focus of the residency. Former master artists have included poet Richard Blanco, visual artist Mildred Howard, and writer Rick Moody. In addition, the center will support a summer creative writing residency for teens with mentorship from veteran writers of varied genres.

M Ensemble Company, Inc. (aka M Ensemble)

$10,000 North Miami, FL

Art Works – Theater & Musical Theater

To support a production of "Flyin' West" by Pearl Cleage. A small group of African-American women's lives are changed when the American West was opened up in 1862 for people willing to settle in a harsh and untested region. Cleage seeks to inform audiences about the Homestead Act that enabled people from all races and genders to own land and to use that land to support themselves, or to develop it and sell it for a profit. The themes of determination, racism, feminism, and pride are reflected in the play's four women and two men who leave the South to find freedom.

Village of Pinecrest, Florida (aka Pinecrest Gardens)

$10,000 Pinecrest, FL

Art Works – Music

To support the Jazz at Pinecrest Gardens concert series and Gen-Next Jam Jazz educational outreach. The concert series will include as many as seven performances at the Banyan Bowl, located at the historic Pinecrest Gardens. In addition, the project will feature educational residencies for youth from the jazz magnet program at Miami-Dade County's New World School of the Arts. The educational component will allow a select number of students to receive coaching from, and play alongside, artists such as NEA Jazz Master Ellis Marsalis, Brian Lynch, Nestor Torres, and Spyro Gyra in a free public concert on the day following the ticketed performance. Other confirmed performers include Janis Siegel with the South Florida Jazz Orchestra, the Glen Miller Orchestra, and Sammy Figueroa & Claudia Nasser.

City of Pompano Beach, Florida

$100,000 Pompano Beach, FL

Our Town – Design

To support Pompano Beach Crossroads. This multidisciplinary program will include temporary and permanent public art projects, performances, artist residencies, and literary events to activate a one-mile public art trail that links three disconnected arts and cultural facilities. The program is a partnership between the City of Pompano Beach, the Community Redevelopment Agency, and the Cultural Arts Creatives, a local nonprofit arts organization. The project will take place in Pompano Beach's newly designated Creative Arts District downtown, an area that is designated as the city's prime zone for economic redevelopment and is home to some of the city's low-income, underserved neighborhoods.

City of Sarasota, Florida (aka Van Wezel Performing Arts Hall)

$20,000 Sarasota, FL

Art Works – Presenting & Multidisciplinary Works

To support the Art Works for Schooltime at the Van Wezel Performing Arts Hall. Pre-K to third-grade students will benefit from drama and movement activities, early literacy lessons, and student matinee performances. Educators will receive free professional development workshops instructing them on the most effective use of arts integration strategies in the classroom.

Florida West Coast Symphony, Inc. (aka Sarasota Orchestra)

$10,000 Sarasota, FL

Art Works – Music

To support the Sarasota Music Festival. The Sarasota Orchestra will present the residential training festival for college music students. Plans for the festival include individual and ensemble training, coaching, and mentoring from the faculty of instructors, scholars, and orchestra musicians. Performance opportunities will consist of weekly orchestra concerts, student chamber recitals, and chamber concerts featuring faculty alone as well as together with students.

Sarasota Opera Association, Inc. (aka Sarasota Opera)

$20,000 Sarasota, FL

Art Works – Opera

To support a commissioned work for the Youth Opera Program. The opera will be fully staged and performed with chamber orchestra. American storyteller Carl Sandburg wrote "Rootabaga Stories" in 1922 for his daughters, providing a collection of whimsical tales set not in the European fairy tale tradition, but instead set in the American Midwest amidst farms, trains, and corn fairies. Composer and librettist Rachel J. Peters will adapt the story for the opera stage. Performances in fall 2017 will mark the sixth commissioned work for the Youth Opera Program, which has been integral to the company's mission since 1984.

Westcoast Black Theatre Troupe of Florida, Inc. (aka WBTT)

$10,000                      Sarasota, FL

Art Works – Theater & Musical Theater

To support a production of "The Mountaintop" by Katori Hall. Set in the motel room of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., on the eve of his assassination, the play's title refers to King's "I Have Been to the Mountaintop" speech. The theater will offer several free performances of the production in conjunction with Martin Luther King, Jr. Day, including one for schoolchildren. Talkback conversations will be offered during the production run, and a free community forum called WBTT Voices will be designed to spark conversation around the themes of the play. Panelists for the forum typically include theater critics, playwrights, directors, historians, and community leaders.

County of Martin, Florida (aka Martin County Community Redevelopment Agency)

$50,000                      Stuart, FL

Our Town – Design

To support Martin County Community Redevelopment Agency's (CRA) Phase II of the Old Palm City Ripple Eco-Art Project. Martin County will reconnect the historic Old Palm City neighborhood with the St. Lucie River at three distinct sites using a series of artist designed rain gardens, hydro sculptures, and other interventions to manage polluted stormwater. The project is a partnership between Martin County CRA and the Arts Council of Martin County, and will engage artist Lucy Keshavarz of Art & Culture Group and other design and engineering professionals to complete the project design drawings. Ripple will make visible the community's connection to water and the water quality impacts of humans on the St. Lucie River.

Florida Department of State, Division of Historical Resources

$37,500                      Tallahassee, FL

Art Works – Folk & Traditional Arts

To support the Florida Folklife Program's (FFP) core annual programs. FFP will identify, document, and present folk artists through its annual programs, including a fieldwork survey, the Folklife Apprenticeship Program, Florida Folk Heritage Awards, and the area of the Florida Folk Festival featuring apprenticeship teams and tradition bearers documented during the survey. The project also will include the Folklife Artist Residency Series.

Florida Department of State/Division of Cultural Affairs

$793,800                      Tallahassee, FL

Partnerships (State & Regional)

To support Partnership Agreement activities associated with carrying out your NEA-approved State strategic plan.

Florida State University (On behalf of Maggie Allesee National Center for Choreography)

$40,000                      Tallahassee, FL

Art Works – Dance

To support developmental residencies for dance artists and their collaborators at the Maggie Allesee National Center for Choreography (MANCC). Each residency will be tailored to the artist's and collaborator's needs, in part by allowing them to fully research their ideas surrounding areas such as conceptual concerns, movement vocabulary, and production design, which will improve the quality of final productions/premieres and increase touring possibilities. Onsite, artists and collaborators will have 24/7 access to a black box theater and a dance studio. MANCC staff will help augment the residencies beyond time, space, and financial support, with in-depth research assistance and documentation. A writers-in-residence program will support more informed writing on choreographers' creative processes.

Tallahassee Symphony Orchestra, Inc.

$15,000                      Tallahassee, FL

Art Works – Music

To support activities of the Tallahassee Symphony Jazz Orchestra. The orchestra's 50-piece big band and strings ensemble TSO Jazz aims at re-creating the sounds of the Glen Miller and Tommy Dorsey orchestras by performing a program featuring both traditional and modern big band standards.

Tampa Museum of Art Inc

$10,000                      Tampa, FL

Art Works – Museum

To support the exhibition "Skyway: A Contemporary Collaboration" and related activities. The exhibition will feature the work of approximately 50 artists from four Central Florida counties at three venues: the Tampa Museum of Art; the Museum of Fine Arts, St. Petersburg, and the Ringling Museum of Art, Sarasota. Activities surrounding the exhibition will include: docent training, extended museum hours, evening and lunchtime lectures, family days, and a summer art camp. Collaborative exhibitions and programming will allow the three museums to broaden their reach and access beyond their immediate communities. Skyway offers the opportunity to engage with new audiences within the Tampa Bay Area who might not visit neighboring museums.

Norton Museum of Art (aka Norton Museum of Art)

$20,000                      West Palm Beach, FL

Art Works – Museum

To support the exhibition, "Earth Works: Mapping the Anthropocene - Photographs by Justin Brice Guariglia," and an accompanying catalogue and programs. The exhibition merges art and creativity with science and technology, made possible through an unusual collaboration with the scientists and geophysical experts of NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratories. The first solo exhibition of Guariglia (b. 1974), will include approximately 40 art works that reorient the viewer's relationship to the planet. The art works combine photography, painting, printmaking, and sculpture resulting in a richly textured polymer print, constructed from a 2D image, and rendered using a newly devised technology that makes the final products 3D as well as resistant to light and heat. The exhibition will include educational programming such as docent led tours, curator talks, expert lectures, and the creation of a STEAM curriculum developed in collaboration with NASA.

Palm Beach Opera, Inc. (aka Palm Beach Opera)

$10,000                      West Palm Beach, FL

Art Works – Opera

To support performances of Mozart's "Le Nozze di Figaro" ("The Marriage of Figaro"). The new production is a co-production with Lyric Opera of Kansas City, Opera Philadelphia, and San Diego Opera. Related education and community engagement programs will include Lunch and Learn (interactive lectures), Curtain Warmers (pre-performance talks), Sunday Matinee Q&A, and Opera Rehearsal 101 (for students grades 6-12).

Center for Contemporary Dance (aka CCD)

$19,000

Winter Park, FL

Art Works – Presenting & Multidisciplinary Works

To support inclusive dance-puppetry residencies for intergenerational participants of all abilities. Delivered in partnership with MicheLee Puppets, approximately 32 weeks of dance-puppetry and stagecraft classes will be available for students. Professional teaching artists will offer classes at the center and two Central Florida charter schools whose student body includes those with special needs. In the final performance, participants will perform dance-puppetry works alongside emerging and professional artists. Project oversight will be provided by Very Special Arts Florida, United Cerebral Palsy of Central Florida, and the Down Syndrome Foundation of Florida.

Indiana University-Purdue University Indianapolis (Trustees of)

$90,000 Indianapolis, IN

Art Works: Research – Research

To support a series of studies examining higher education investments in physical and programmatic arts infrastructure in the United States. The quasi-experimental studies will consider the link between arts infrastructure investments in colleges and universities and various student-, school-, and community-level outcomes. The project will involve pre- and post-surveys of Indiana University-Bloomington students, to track the potential effects of the school's recent arts infrastructure initiative, and of expanded arts programming. Researchers also will use nationally representative data sources such as McGraw-Hill Construction building permit data (to review trends in physical infrastructure spending at places of higher education), the Integrated Postsecondary Education Data System (to mine administrative data from schools participating in federal student financial aid programs), and U.S. Census Bureau and Bureau of Labor Statistics datasets (to assess socioeconomic indicators at the community level). Among outcome variables to be measured in relation to schools' arts investments are: students' rates of enrollment, majors, graduation, and participation in arts and cultural activities; charitable donations; and creative sector employment at the community level.

Tippecanoe Arts Federation (aka TAF)

$10,000 Lafayette, IN

Total Dollar Amount: $1,511,700

Arts Alliance

$40,000                      Ann Arbor, MI

Art Works – Local Arts Agencies

To support Creative Voice, an arts journalism social media content tool. A previously developed tablet app that gives users the ability to film, edit, add graphics, and upload video content to social media sites will be marketed to local arts agencies nationwide. The app is currently in use in southeast Michigan by arts organizations as a tool to develop their own digital content, such as promotional previews and arts criticism features. Arts Alliance will add new app enhancements, conduct a beta test, and initiate a training program involving as many as eight local arts agencies. It will develop a sustainable business plan to market the app for retail, accompanied by training and technical support, to local arts agencies across the country.

Neutral Zone (aka Ann Arbor Teen Center, Inc.)

$15,000                      Ann Arbor, MI

Art Works – Visual Arts

To support Ann Arbor Teen Center's artist-in-residence program. With a focus on youth from underserved communities, a series of after-school studio art classes will be offered by professional artists selected with input from a teen visual arts advisory council. In addition, students will learn a variety of artistic methods, technical skills, and take classes on art history and contemporary art practice. Youth participants will have the opportunity to create art through open studio and workshop sessions, and will assess their skills and the artistic work of their peers. Works created under the guidance of resident artists will be featured in a culminating exhibit for the community.

University of Michigan at Ann Arbor (aka Regents of the University of Michigan)

$20,000                      Ann Arbor, MI

Art Works – Visual Arts

To support "Between the Earth and the Sky: Intergenerational Interactions of Visibility," a collaborative community art-making project for teens and memory-impaired adults. In conjunction with lead artists, teens will be partnered with residents from a center for Alzheimer's and dementia to create two installations that revolve around the summer and winter solstices. The art-making activities will focus on the theme of light and growth, using traditional paint and paper as well as plants, mosses, and other natural materials. A public event will include lantern-making and a light festival for the residents and their families to be held on the darkest day of the year. Residents will have opportunities for social stimulation, expression, and discovery and teens will increase their understanding and sensitivity towards those living with memory impairment.

University of Michigan at Ann Arbor (aka Regents of the University of Michigan) (On behalf of University of Michigan Museum of Art)

$40,000                      Ann Arbor, MI

Art Works – Museum

To support the expansion of "Meet Me at UMMA," a guided, multi-sensory gallery experience for adults with memory loss at the University of Michigan Museum of Art. The project will include the hiring of a full-time staff person to facilitate and manage the expanded program and the training of volunteers. The museum will seek volunteers with a personal connection to or experience with memory-loss including caretakers, social workers, occupational therapists, arts therapists, nurses, and doctors, all of whom will receive extensive training. This expanded program will allow for more collaborative partnerships, more patients, and more integrated research on the role of the arts and the senses. Marketing efforts will increase participation and a program assessment will be developed while published lesson plans and training modules will provide a service to the field.

Allied Media Projects (aka Allied Media Projects)

$30,000                      Detroit, MI

Art Works – Media Arts

To support the Allied Media Conference. Held in Detroit, the conference hosts artists, educators, technologists, and media makers from across the country for hands-on workshops, panel discussions, performances, and interactive film screenings. Programming will include topics such as transmedia storytelling and ethics in documentary filmmaking, and include tours of Detroit's art organizations.

Chamber Music Society of Detroit

$15,000                      Detroit, MI

Art Works – Music

To support a concert series at Oakland University in Rochester, Michigan. The series, an expansion into Detroit's northern suburbs, will take place in the university's Varner Recital Hall. Artists will include the American Brass Quintet, the Aeolus Quartet, and Trio Solisti. Associated outreach activities may include master classes for college and pre-college students and off-campus lectures at the Rochester Public Library.

Detroit Institute of Arts (aka DIA)

$100,000                      Detroit, MI

Our Town – Design

To support the redesign of the Detroit Institute of Arts' plaza as a public arts space. The DIA will develop conceptual plans to reimagine its grounds into the "town square" of Midtown Detroit, creating a new space to show public art and a central gathering space for the neighborhood. The project will be a collaboration with the citizens of Metro Detroit and the City of Detroit Mayor's Office. Through financial investment and public participation, the project will have a positive effect on the neighborhood's 2.7 million annual visitors and residents in an area that has been at the center of Detroit revitalization efforts.

Detroit Symphony Orchestra Hall (aka Detroit Symphony Orchestra)

$50,000                      Detroit, MI

Art Works – Music

To support a series of performances. Scheduled to take place during the annual conference of the League of American Orchestras, the concert will be webcast live and feature the works by Sarah Kirkland Snider, Mason Bates, Mohammed Fairouz, and Jonathan Bailey Holland. Project plans also include a performance in the Mix at the Max series by musician Shigeto, who creates a blend of electronic, jazz, and hip-hop music.

InsideOut Literary Arts Project, Inc. (aka InsideOut or iO)

$35,000                      Detroit, MI

Art Works – Arts Education

To support Words Alive, multidisciplinary arts residencies in Detroit neighborhood schools. Teams of teaching artists will visit Detroit public elementary schools to present an interdisciplinary literature program that will enhance the schools' curriculum by integrating poetry and fiction, music and song, spoken word, and the visual arts. Program components will include year-long creative writing residencies and creative writing units developed with classroom teachers, a school literary anthology featuring students' work, mentoring, voice and performance workshops, and professional development for teachers. Each school will host a year-end gala that will showcase poetry and spoken-word. The project will focus on K-12 students from diverse neighborhoods.

Michigan Opera Theatre (aka MOT)

$35,000                      Detroit, MI

Art Works – Opera

To support performances of "The Summer King" by composer and librettist Daniel Sonenberg. The opera focuses on the life of legendary Negro League baseball catcher Josh Gibson, whose talent drew comparisons to Babe Ruth, earned him a place as the second Negro League ballplayer inducted into the Baseball Hall of Fame, and created the momentum for a new generation (led by Jackie Robinson) to integrate baseball. The opera will be the first in a proposed three-year series of productions that feature and explore sports stories through the opera medium. A co-production with Pittsburgh Opera, MOT will partner with the Detroit Tigers to develop programming to promote the opera and tell the story of this legendary baseball player. Activities will include as many as four performances at the Detroit Opera House, student dress rehearsals, and a live radio broadcast in spring 2018.

Millan Theatre Company (aka Detroit Repertory Theatre)

$10,000                      Detroit, MI

Art Works – Theater & Musical Theater

To support the Actors' Workshop project at Detroit Repertory Theatre. Workshop classes for adults will teach voice and diction, scene study, character development, movement and improvisation. The workshop will be offered at no cost to low-income people who reside in Detroit and to paying students from the greater metro area. Some students may go on to careers as actors, some may deepen their appreciation of theater, and some may discover their own creativity. Past participants have reported an improvement in their job interviews, the ability to express themselves, and in their reading skills. The theater will broaden student access to live theater by offering complimentary tickets.

Power House Productions (aka PHP)

$15,000                      Detroit, MI

Art Works – Media Arts

To support Biography of a Neighborhood, a multimedia storytelling project. Celebrating the centennial of the "Banglatown" neighborhood in Detroit, the program will engage filmmakers, sound artists, storytellers, designers, writers, and community members in as many as five creative projects exploring the history and contemporary stories of the neighborhood. The program will include initiatives such as an online video archive of neighborhood homes, site-specific audio works, and a documentary film, accompanied by free workshops, public screenings, and community conversations with participating artists. The completed works will be made available to audiences to view through online and social media platforms.

Sphinx Organization, Inc. (aka Sphinx Organization)

$60,000                      Detroit, MI

Art Works – Music

To support a national tour and community engagement project featuring the Sphinx Virtuosi and the Catalyst Quartet. In partnership with the National Guild for Community Arts Education of New York, a group of approximately 25 emerging young string players, laureates, and alumni of the national Sphinx Competition will tour and perform diverse repertoire by composers such as Antonio Vivaldi, Ludwig van Beethoven, Michael Abels, Ralph Vaughn-Williams, and Jimmy Lopez. The concerts and community activities with children and youth will be presented across the United States.

Michigan State University

$40,000                      East Lansing, MI

Art Works – Folk & Traditional Arts

To support the Michigan Traditional Arts Program (MTAP) at the Michigan State University Museum. MTAP will conduct ongoing fieldwork and documentation of traditional artists, as well as develop web-based resources, including social media tools, to bring more visibility for artists who have had their stories and work documented by the museum. The online material will also convey the breadth of MTAP's resources. Additionally, MTAP will manage and support archiving of this documentation as well as build a community of folk culture workers to conduct fieldwork, coordinate social media, and assist in writing new content.

Center for Land Reform, Inc. (aka Center for Community Progress)

$75,000                      Flint, MI

Our Town – Design

To support A Bridge Between Policy and Placemaking for Vacant Property Revitalization, a knowledge building project. The Center for Community Progress will partner with Rebuild Foundation to convene community development and creative placemaking practitioners for two learning exchanges. With a focus on sharing best practices on creative placemaking as a strategy for improving vacant properties, the learning exchanges will bring arts leaders from two cities challenged with vacant properties to a third city that has been successful in addressing similar challenges. Following each exchange, the partners will conduct assessments to identify challenges and opportunities in each city represented. Findings will be shared with the Center for Community Progress's network of policy makers, local government officials, and community development practitioners through its annual convening.

El Ballet Folklórico Estudiantil (aka E.B.F.E.)

$10,000                      Flint, MI

Art Works – Folk & Traditional Arts

To support instruction for students in traditional mariachi music and folkloric dance. Grand Rapids Art Museum (aka GRAM)

$35,000                      Grand Rapids, MI

Art Works – Museum

To support the exhibition, "Alexis Rockman: The Great Lakes Cycle," and accompanying catalogue. A new body of work by artist Alexis Rockman (b. 1962), will feature five mural-sized paintings that depict themes relating to the past, present, and future of the Great Lakes. The exhibition highlights Rockman's artistic range by including large-scale watercolors, and 60 "Field Drawings," created from organic materials collected at various Great Lakes sites. The exhibition, together with a catalogue, children's book, interpretation plan, and learning curriculum, will challenge and inform a broad audience in the Midwest concerning the history, challenges and future of the Great Lakes. The exhibition is anticipated to travel to the Chicago Cultural Center, the Museum of Contemporary Art Cleveland, and the Weisman Art Museum at the University of Minnesota.

West Michigan Center for Arts and Technology (aka WMCAT)

$20,000                      Grand Rapids, MI

Art Works – Arts Education

To support the Teen Arts and Tech program, a tuition-free visual arts education program focused on design thinking and social change. With guidance from professional teaching artists, teens from underserved communities will explore community and social issues using arts and technology as the basis for critical thinking and practical application. During the school year, students will address these issues by creating art works in several studios including video game design, fashion design, sculpture, coding, and photography. Studio instruction is enhanced through college pathways programming, a leadership retreat, and year-end travel opportunities. The project activities align with the Grand Rapids Public School District strategic plan priorities to develop arts and after-school programs that reflect best practices, build community partnerships to support extracurricular arts, and foster a digitally literate community of learners who are ready for careers of tomorrow.

Detroit Jazz Festival Foundation (aka Detroit Jazz Festival)

$40,000                      Harper Woods, MI

Art Works – Music

To support the commission and world premiere of Legends and Legacy: An Ode to Michael Brecker. The festival will commission jazz pianist and arranger Gil Goldstein to create and present a multi-movement orchestral piece dedicated to the late Brecker to be introduced to youth and underserved audiences at the admission-free 2017 Detroit Jazz Festival. Artists participating in the performance may include world-renowned saxophonists including NEA Jazz Master Wayne Shorter as well as Joe Lovano, Donny McCaslin, and Rick Margitza. Ancillary events may include instructional workshops and master classes with local high school and university students and pre-festival community engagements. Students will also be able to participate in compositional teaching sessions facilitated by Goldstein and other professional musicians.

Interlochen Center for the Arts

$15,000                      Interlochen, MI

Art Works – Arts Education

To support the Arts Academy guest artists and artists-in-residence program. Professional artists from a variety of arts fields will go to the rural campus to teach, mentor, and inspire students. Master classes may teach students a new technique not covered by the core curriculum (e.g., music composition, filmmaking, or specific choreography) or broaden and deepen students' skills in their chosen instrument or arts medium. Guests also will share their own past works or works-in-progress with students through readings, recitals, concerts, film screenings, exhibits and performances broadcast on Interlochen Public Radio. The project will benefit dozens of guest artists and high school students majoring in creative writing, dance, media, music, theater, and visual arts at the academy.

Arts Council of Greater Lansing, Inc.

$20,000                      Lansing, MI

Art Works – Local Arts Agencies

To support the Third Annual Creative Placemaking Summit. Featuring a keynote address by Kimber Lanning, of Local First Arizona, the summit will provide an opportunity for attendees to exchange ideas, seek advice, and make connections related to placemaking. The event will gather as many as 400 representatives from local, municipal, business, and artistic sectors. Activities such as case study presentations, round table discussions, and panel presentations will showcase best practices from successful nationwide placemaking initiatives, while highlighting the role of arts and culture as a driver for neighborhood revitalization.

Dartmouth College

$35,000                      Hanover, NH

Art Works – Museum

To support the exhibition "Feedback: Art, Africa, and the Eighties, the Hood Museum of Art." The exhibition will present nearly 70 works including painting, sculpture, video, photography, installation, sound, textile, prints, and drawings, organized around three themes-Postcolonial Dystopia and Artists' Visions, New Realisms, and The Weight of History. This exhibition is the first art-centered study of the 1980s in Africa, a time when artists began to address the true failures of the continent's postcolonial state. This includes social, political, and economic changes in many African countries and their impact on artistic practices, cultural production, and ultimately Africa's post-colonial history. Some of the artists under consideration are Monsengwo "Moke" Kejwamfi, Obiora Udechukwu, Wosene Worke Kosrof, and Atta Kwami. The new commissions will allow audiences to understand the artistic links and ruptures between 80s modernism and contemporary African art today. It is anticipated that the exhibition will travel to three U.S. venues, with a satellite at Iwalewahaus Museum at the Bayreuth University in Germany.

To support the Saturday Matinee weekly radio broadcasts of full-length opera performances. The broadcasts will be paired with live commentary from on-air hosts Mary Jo Heath and Ira Siff, who also lead the program's intermission features. During intermission, the broadcast will incorporate live and recorded interviews with directors, singers, costume designers, and others involved in the creative process, as well as the Opera Quiz, which features quiz questions from the listening audience. The Met broadcasts are the longest-running continuous classical music program in radio history, and the series has won several Peabody Awards for excellence in broadcasting. In addition to playing the live broadcasts through the airwaves, many radio stations will offer the chance to stream the broadcasts through their websites. Previously broadcast performances include the operas "The Rake's Progress," "Elektra," and "Aida."

Metropolitan Opera Guild, Inc. (aka Metropolitan Opera Guild)

$60,000 New York, NY

Art Works – Arts Education

To support opera-based teaching and learning in public elementary schools in New York City and New Jersey. Composers, librettists, and other opera professionals will collaborate with classroom teachers to guide students through writing, composing, staging, and performing their own operas at a culminating event. The project emphasizes partnerships between classroom teachers and Metropolitan Opera Guild teaching artists, who collaborate to design and deliver a year-long program of arts instruction that is integrated with classroom curriculum. Classroom teachers and music specialists will receive professional development in the principles of opera-based training, build their own music skills and knowledge of opera, and learn to facilitate the creative process with students. Many of the students and teachers will have an opportunity to attend a final dress rehearsal at the Metropolitan Opera.

Midori Foundation, Inc. (aka Midori & Friends (M&F))

$35,000 New York, NY

Art Works – Arts Education

To support Learning with Music, year-long music instruction and enrichment programs for students in New York City public schools. Programs are customized to align with each partner school's needs and vision for arts learning, expanding the schools' existing music programs. Offerings will include the 12 Notes residency program, in which professional teaching artists will provide strings, woodwinds, guitar, brass, percussion and voice lessons in small group classes and instrumental ensembles during and after school. 12 Notes students will have opportunities to perform in the community at events such as CityMusic, a free event at Lincoln Center. Partner schools may also subscribe to the Signature Concert & Workshop Series, in which professional artists will provide interactive concerts and workshops at the schools, and introduce students to varied genres including classical, jazz, blues, gospel, and global music traditions. The program will include a five-part professional development series for teaching artists that will guide instructors in implementing the Milestones of Student Learning curriculum in their lesson plans.

Museum of Chinese in the Americas (aka Museum of Chinese in America (MOCA))

$10,000 New York, NY

Art Works – Folk & Traditional Arts

To support the Chinese Holiday Festival Series. The traditions of Chinese Americans will be celebrated through events connected to significant Chinese holidays, including the Lunar New Year, Qing Ming or Tomb Sweeping Day, Dragon Boat Festival, and Mid-Autumn Moon Festival. The celebrations will preserve Chinese cultural traditions by featuring performances and craft workshops appropriate to the holiday.

Music for Autism, Inc. (aka Music for Autism)

$20,000                      New York, NY

Art Works – Music

To support a community engagement performance project. The programming of live performances by various artists, such as violinist, vocalist, and composer Caroline Shaw and Grammy Award-winning saxophonist Chad Lefkowitz-Brown, will engage underserved families, particularly those affected by autism spectrum disorder in states such as California, Maryland, New York, and Texas. Through research-based methodology developed by founder and child psychiatrist Dr. Robert Accordini, the interactive "autism-friendly" concerts will be designed specifically for individuals on the autism spectrum. Repertoire will range from jazz to Broadway classics and Western classical music. Venues will be open spaces to allow audience members to move around freely. Due to the interactive nature of the performances, audiences will be limited to 150 members per concert.

National Guild for Community Arts Education, Inc. (aka National Guild for Community Arts Education)

$100,000                      New York, NY

Art Works – Arts Education

To support the implementation of the National Blueprint for Creative Youth Development (CYD), a collective impact project. The project will support implementation of the Blueprint's strategies for achieving shared goals to increase access to arts education for youth during out-of-school time. Strategies include adopting effective business models; developing revenue sources; documenting and communicating the benefit of CYD programs for youth; using shared terminology, data, and assessment tools; and connecting programs with in-school arts education and non-arts community development initiatives. Under the leadership of the Guild as the backbone organization, the National CYD Partnership, with key stakeholders from the arts, humanities, youth development and CYD-related sectors such as community development and workforce development, will coordinate and foster participation and engagement of local and national community stakeholders through active working groups and online platforms that promote collaboration, knowledge sharing, and data collection.

National Jazz Museum in Harlem

$20,000                      New York, NY

Art Works – Music

To support The National Jazz Museum in Harlem Celebrates James Reese Europe project. Project plans will include an exhibit, concerts, public programs including as many as 15 guided exhibit presentations for underserved Harlem-based public school groups; and educational workshops celebrating composer and bandleader James Reese Europe on the centenary of his death at the Museum and partnering venues in the San Francisco Bay Area. Programs will be created by leading musicians, scholars, and writers-including NEA Jazz Master Dan Morgenstern, who will contribute to the exhibit notes. Concerts will be curated by the museum's co-artistic directors Jonathan Batiste and Christian McBride. Access to the educational exhibit will be free and select events will be live web streamed.

New York Baroque Dance Company, Inc.

$10,000                      New York, NY

Art Works – Dance

To support a series of workshops exploring Vaslav Nijinsky's "Sarabande." The workshops will create an historical and cultural context in which to explore Nijinsky's unfinished dance. Workshop events may include dance classes and lectures in baroque ballet, Nijinsky's dance technique, and popular social dance of the time (circa 1910). This professional training and further artistic exploration into dance heritage is intended to inspire a cultural perspective for future re-stagings of master works. Millicent Hodson, international expert on Nijinsky's choreography and that of the Ballets Russes, will lead discussions on Nijinsky's personal notation system and notebooks. Many of the workshop events will be documented on video and then posted online, free to the public.

New York City Board of Education-District 75 (On behalf of District 75)

$15,000                      New York, NY

Art Works – Arts Education

To support Teaching Artists Training Institute Program. Special education teachers will receive professional development training in music, theater, and visual arts instruction for students on the autism spectrum. Through a series of professional development seminars, classroom observation, and residencies, teaching artists from partner Marquis Studios will teach classroom teachers, and physical therapists to employ appropriate arts education teaching strategies. In addition to gaining arts experiences, students will develop social, communicative, sensory-motor, and critical thinking skills. District 75 is a specialized school district within the New York City public school system that provides citywide educational, vocational, and behavioral support programs for students who are on the autism spectrum, emotionally challenged, or living with multiple disabilities.

New York City Center, Inc.

$30,000                      New York, NY

Art Works – Theater & Musical Theater

To support the Encores! Off-Center series. The program will engage contemporary artists and audiences with concert stagings of Off-Broadway musicals from the past three decades. Musicals will be presented alongside The Lobby Project, a series of free pre-show events exploring the works' themes and promoting artist-audience exchange. The productions will include landmark shows that pushed the creative boundaries of their times, and call attention to contemporary social, cultural, or political realities.

New York Live Arts Inc. (aka New York Live Arts)

$75,000                      New York, NY

Art Works – Dance

To support commissioning, residency, and producing programs, as well as the national repertory tour of the Bill T. Jones/Arnie Zane Dance Company. Each program will be tailored to artists at various points in their careers, from early and emerging, to mid-career and established. These programs may include pre- and post-show talks, studio discussions, public showings, and participatory workshops, as well as programs for artists, students, families, and youth. The Bill T. Jones/Arnie Zane Dance Company tours nationally and internationally as a program of Live Arts. The company will travel to several American cities with a new evening-length dance work, accompanied by youth and community engagement programming.

New York Public Library, Astor, Lenox and Tilden Foundations (aka The New York Public Library)

$35,000 New York, NY

Art Works – Presenting & Multidisciplinary Works

To support the documentation and preservation of theater and dance performances. The library will record oral histories of important figures in the field of dance, as well as preserve previously documented oral histories about dance. Once recorded and preserved, the documentations of live performances will be added to the collections of the New York Public Library for the Performing Arts' Theatre on Film and Tape Archive (TOFT) and the Jerome Robbins Archive of the Recorded Moving Image (JRA). TOFT and JRA will make the documentations available to arts professionals, artists, scholars, and the public free-of-charge.

New York Shakespeare Festival (aka The Public Theater)

$100,000 New York, NY

Art Works – Theater & Musical Theater

To support performances of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" by The Public Theater. Performances will take place outdoors at Central Park's Delacorte Theater, bringing together a diverse audience with renowned classical performers and young, emerging actors of all backgrounds and experience.

New York Studio School of Drawing, Painting and Sculpture, Inc. (aka New York Studio School)

$15,000 New York, NY

Art Works – Visual Arts

To support the Evening Lecture Series. The free program enables artists, scholars, critics, philosophers, curators, and art historians to engage the public in a discussion of critical issues in the visual arts. First presented more than 50 years ago, the series has featured such luminaries as Louise Bourgeois, John Cage, Kiki Smith, R. Buckminster Fuller, Philip Guston, Willem de Kooning, Joan Snyder, Hilton Kramer, Lee Krasner, Joan Mitchell, Robert Rosenblum, and William Kentridge. Each lecture, panel discussion, and dialogue is recorded and entered into the school's library and archives. In an effort to make the lecture series accessible to national and international audiences, the project includes expansion of the digital archive, making both historic and new lectures accessible online.

New York University (On behalf of The Drama Review)

$10,000 New York, NY

Art Works – Theater & Musical Theater

To support issues of "TDR: The Drama Review," a quarterly journal of live performance. The publication is read by artists, scholars, and higher education students across the country and around the world. The journal includes essays, original scripts, interviews, reviews by significant scholars and artists, and photographs by renowned performing arts photographers. Each issue also includes special sections, such as the "Books" section for reviews of influential books in the field, and "Provocation," a two-page spread for authors, activists, and artists to initiate discussion about performance or visual arts.

New York University (On behalf of Grey Art Gallery)

$30,000 New York, NY

Art Works – Museum

To support the Grey Art Gallery's exhibition, "Partners in Design: Alfred H. Barr and Philip Johnson." The exhibition will focus on a pivotal, yet little-known, development in the evolution of American design and modernism-the collaboration between Alfred H. Barr, the first director of the Museum of Modern Art, and architect Philip Johnson. The exhibition, installed at the Johnson designed library at New York University, will juxtapose the traditional display of iconic design objects alongside digital projections to create an immersive experience that provides important historical context for Barr and Johnson's activities. The exhibition will include ephemera, furniture, and smaller household objects from a variety of public and private collections. Materials from the library's archives include Johnson's specifications for the original furnishings, design documents, and a master plan for Washington Square, also will be included. Public programs designed to engage audiences from a wide range of backgrounds will complement the exhibition.

No Longer Empty (aka NLE)

$15,000                      New York, NY

Art Works – Visual Arts

To support the Curatorial Lab, a professional development residency program for curators. The program will provide opportunities for participants to develop skills in presenting site responsive and socially engaged art projects. Participants will interact with established curators, artists, critics, scholars, and community stakeholders to present art work and artists that respond to issues and aspirations relevant to the community. In an effort to combine a theoretical foundation with practical experience, the residency will result in a culminating exhibition with corresponding public programming giving emerging curators hands-on experience while expanding the field of social practice.

Nuyorican Poets Cafe Inc. (aka Nuyorican Poets Cafe)

$15,000                      New York, NY

Art Works – Literature

To support the Poetic Outreach Project. Nuyorican Poets Cafe will teach arts managers, educators, and community leaders from across the country how to create slam poetry programs that empower adolescent artists and give voice to students and young adults who do not otherwise have access to literary or performance opportunities. A teaching artist will lead each weekend-long session and will train participants on topics such as event management; publicity; and how to coach students in writing and performing original work.

On Site Opera, Inc.

$10,000                      New York, NY

Art Works – Opera

To support the U.S. premiere of "La mere coupable" ("The Guilty Mother") by composer Darius Milhaud and librettist Madeleine Milhaud. The 1966 opera is based on the final installment of Pierre-Augustin Caron de Beaumarchais' trilogy of Figaro plays. In it, the familiar characters of Figaro and Rosina must grapple with the destructive impact of their earlier decisions in Mozart's "The Barber of Seville" and "The Marriage of Figaro." The proposed creative team includes conductor Geoffrey McDonald and stage director Eric Einhorn. The company will partner with the International Contemporary Ensemble and with the Darius Milhaud Society on the production that will commemorate the 125th anniversary of Milhaud's birth.

Opera America

$90,000

New York, NY

Art Works – Opera

To support services to the opera field. Activities include national convenings such as Forums, the Women's Opera Network, Opera Conference, Regional Symposia, New York Producers' Symposium, and the Strategy Committee. Forums will serve as think-tanks for the industry, and will provide ways to address fieldwide issues through facilitated discussions. The Women's Opera Network Meeting convening in fall 2017 will advance efforts of ensuring equitable opportunities for women as leaders and creators. The 2018 annual conference in St. Louis will offer learning opportunities for the field through a convening of experts from within and outside the field. Regional Symposia will serve smaller opera organizations through events in Atlanta and Seattle that provide collaborative learning and facilitated discussion on regional issues. The New York Producers' Symposium in partnership with the New York Opera Alliance provides a two-day convening in fall 2017 for independent opera producers. Strategy Committee meetings convene members from both the functional and creative areas of opera with a focus on identifying ways to assess progress for goals from the 2017 strategic plan.

Orpheus Chamber Orchestra, Inc. (aka Orpheus)

$40,000

New York, NY

Art Works – Music

To support a performance touring project. During a national tour, the chamber orchestra will present diverse programming and be joined by guest artists such as pianist Andre Watts, violinist Lisa Batiashvili, cellist Truls Mork, and trumpeter Tine Thing Helseth. Pace University

$20,000

New York, NY

Art Works: Research – Research

To support two studies examining the outcomes of high-quality, intensive theater education for adolescents. The project will include an in-depth qualitative analysis of high school-level theater education in several communities in the United States. Classes will be filmed and teachers interviewed to discover how theater classes promote students' cognitive, social, and emotional skills. In addition, through a large-scale survey using Delphi methodology, the researchers will ask theater educators in the United States, Canada, the United Kingdom, and Australia to reflect on the types of skills that students receive from engaging in theater, and on plausible mechanisms for achieving those outcomes.

Pan Asian Repertory Theatre, Inc. (aka Pan Asian Rep)

$30,000

New York, NY

Art Works – Theater & Musical Theater

To support the development and New York premiere of "Daybreak," a new play by Joyce Van Dyke. First discovered through the Unmuted Voices series, which expands the scope of the theater's focus to include Eurasian communities, the play is inspired by the true story of two women friends who are both survivors of the Armenian Genocide. Fusing dream, memory, storytelling, music, and Armenian dance, the play carries the story of the women into the 21st century, and celebrates the endurance of the human spirit.

Paper Bag Players, Inc. (aka The Paper Bag Players)

$20,000

New York, NY

Art Works – Theater & Musical Theater

To support Theater for All, an integrated program of performances, workshops, and educational materials for elementary students throughout New York City. Performances of the company's new work "Playing with Time" will be given at theaters, schools, and community centers. Based on the concepts of clock time, historical time, and musical time, the work includes a time travel adventure that leads to surprising encounters with historical figures such as Abraham Lincoln, Harriet Tubman, and Pablo Picasso. An eight-week workshop called "The Art and Fun of the Paper Bag Players," led by company artists, will give children the opportunity to develop stories, design production elements, and perform. A study guide integrated with the production of "Playing with Time" will be provided to participating teachers.

Paris Review Foundation, Inc. (aka The Paris Review)

$10,000                      New York, NY

Art Works – Literature

To support updates to theparisreview.org and associated activities. The Paris Review digital archive, which features content from the magazine's last 64 years, will be indexed to make every work easily searchable online. In addition, it will be expanded to include more visual art from the magazine's issues. New content online will include segments of "My First Time," an original video series in which writers discuss how they got their start. "The Paris Review" will promote its literary content through newsletters and social media.

Paul Taylor Dance Foundation, Inc. (aka Paul Taylor American Modern Dance)

$75,000                      New York, NY

Art Works – Dance

To support the presentation of dance works on a national tour. The company will present some of Paul Taylor's master works, as well as his most recent dances, to audiences across the United States. Touring is a vital part of the foundation's mission to preserve and proliferate the modern dance art form and to celebrate the artistry of Taylor. National tour activities will include performances in theaters and performing arts centers, as well as master classes, open rehearsals, talkbacks, and other forms of community engagement.

Art Works – Media Arts

To support the weekly public radio broadcast, "The New York Philharmonic This Week." Hosted by Alec Baldwin, the program will feature performances, intermission segments, and interviews with Maestro van Zweden, composers, scholars, and guest artists and conductors. The broadcasts will reflect the New York Philharmonic's commitment to both contemporary works and historic masterpieces and feature works from such artists as Esa-Pekka Salonen and Leonard Bernstein. In addition, previous broadcasts, live performances, and program notes will be available for free on the Philharmonic's Watch & Listen website.

Philharmonic-Symphony Society of New York, Inc. (aka New York Philharmonic)

$40,000                      New York, NY

Art Works – Arts Education

To support the New York Philharmonic's Philharmonic Schools program, a music education program in New York City public schools. The program will engage elementary students at partner schools through year-long, in-school residencies. Students will build skills and knowledge in music through structured listening activities, playing recorders and percussion, and participating in group music composition. Participants will have the opportunity to attend in-school Teaching Artist Ensemble performances as well as a Young People's Concert for Schools at Lincoln Center. Philharmonic teaching artists will design and deliver the program in close collaboration with classroom teachers, who will receive extensive professional development and curriculum resources.

Pierpont Morgan Library (aka Morgan Library & Museum)

$25,000                      New York, NY

Art Works – Museum

To support a traveling exhibition and catalogue examining the cultural importance of monsters and monstrosities as depicted by artists in the Middle Ages. Comprising more than 50 illuminated manuscripts from Europe and Iran, along with selected sculpture, metalwork, ivory, and one tapestry, the exhibition will lead visitors through three sections, "Terrors," "Aliens," and "Wonders." Each section will examine the way in which monsters engendered fear among the elites, marginalized certain segments of the population, and awed everyday people. Programs for adults will include a joint lecture by the guest curators, an art workshop, tours, and films screenings. School children will attend tours outside of school hours, participate in a mask-making workshop, and create activity sheets for an in-gallery experience. It is anticipated that the exhibition will travel to the Cleveland Art Museum and the Blanton Museum of Art.

Playwrights Realm Inc (aka Playwrights Realm)

$15,000                      New York, NY

Art Works – Theater & Musical Theater

Prospect Theater Company Inc. (aka NA)

$10,000 New York, NY

Art Works – Theater & Musical Theater

To support the development of "The Hello Girls," a new musical by composer and lyricist Peter Mills and book writer/director Cara Reichel. Set primarily during World War I, the musical will tell the story of the first women to officially serve in the United States military during the war. Answering a recruiting call for American telephone operators who could speak French, the women served in the Signal Corps of the American Expeditionary Forces, but among the American soldiers and officers who relied on them, they quickly became known as the "Hello Girls," and were generally regarded as a crucial part of the war effort. Development activities will include readings and workshops, and a culminating public reading in the spring of 2019.

Publicolor Inc. (aka Publicolor)

$15,000 New York, NY

Art Works – Arts Education

To support the Summer Design Studio, a design education project. Through the lens of design thinking, students will gain skills in literacy, mathematics, and entrepreneurship. Students also will create a business plan and create mock-ups to scale their products for market. In the project component Civic Engagement through Design Academy, students will take a hands-on approach to transform community environments through design principles and further promote the value of civic engagement. At the end of the program, the student-produced art work will be exhibited at the Pratt Institute's Steuben Gallery.

Rattapallax, Incorporated

$10,000 New York, NY

Art Works – Visual Arts

To support the exhibition of the augmented reality comic book and art project, "Priya's Mirror." The exhibition features the work of artist Dan Goldman, who created the character of Priya, an Indian superhero and rape survivor who uses her power of persuasion to motivate societal change. The exhibition will showcase interactive artwork from the comic book using augmented reality technology. Viewers will scan the artwork in the exhibition using an app which allows them to see animation, videos, and interactive elements. Animated videos featuring the voices of acid attack survivors will be shown on large video monitors and animation of the comic book will be projected on a 50-foot wall. Although the comic book resonates with audiences all over the world, it has particular connection with Asian-American and Indian American youth who are likely familiar with similar mythological tales. Initially funded by the Tribeca Film Institute and the Ford Foundation, the comic book was launched at the Mumbai Comic and Film Convention in 2014.

Rhizome Communications, Inc. (aka Rhizome, Rhizome(dot)org)

$25,000 New York, NY

To support a tour of children's theater in Spanish by Teatro SEA. The tour to underserved Latino neighborhoods in New York and Puerto Rico will provide Spanish-speaking youth and family audiences with performances designed to instill cultural pride and build self-esteem and identity. Through new partnerships with libraries, schools, museums, and community theaters in predominantly Latino neighborhoods, the company will increase its audience development efforts for its home-base theater. Performances will be augmented by post-performance workshops and resource guides.

Soho Repertory Theatre, Inc. (aka Soho Rep.)

$30,000                      New York, NY

Art Works – Theater & Musical Theater

To support a new play by Jackie Sibblies Drury, directed by Sarah Benson. Inspired by Drury's experience living abroad with her husband, the play will explore the impact of living within a culture that is foreign to one's own, and the paranoia and self-policing that emerge when individuals feel they are being watched. The production will feature a diverse cast of intergenerational actors, and will explore ways of disrupting the "fourth wall" to enhance the experience of the show for audience members. The theater also plans to support an active off-stage dialogue about the social themes and issues raised by the play through live events, video, and other online content.

Solomon R. Guggenheim Foundation (aka Solomon R. Guggenheim Museum)

Arts Resources in Collaboration, Inc. (aka ARC)

$10,000                      New York, NY

Art Works – Dance

To support the Eye on Dance Legacy Archive project. The project will systematically organize, assess, identify, and safeguard elements of the archive for full public access. Archival measures are guided by the Archive Assessment Report action list that prioritizes the identification, assessment, and transfer of time-sensitive analog videotape. The current phase builds on the inspection and transfer of at-risk videos and paper records related to artists with AIDS.

Mountain Lake Public Telecommunications Council Inc. (aka Mountain Lake PBS)

$10,000                      Plattsburgh, NY

Art Works – Opera

To support the staged reading and digital media pieces of "Promised Land: An Adirondack Folk Opera" by composer Glenn McClure through Mountain Lake PBS. The opera explores the overlooked history of African Americans in the Adirondack Mountains during the 1850s-when abolitionists advocated for land to be distributed to freed slaves as a means to securing the right to vote. The libretto will be drawn from the diaries of Timbuctoo settlers, and musical content will be drawn from hand-written manuscripts of 19th-century musicians from northern New York. The proposed creative team includes producer Paul Larson, baritone Jorell Williams, and Marian Anderson Vocal Award-winning soprano J'nai Bridges. Activities include score preparation, a staged reading (spring 2018), and a series of videos for television and on-line distribution (summer 2018) that tell the story of a community using opera as a vehicle for civic dialogue.

Magic Box Productions, Inc.

$15,000                      Pleasantville, NY

Art Works – Arts Education

To support media arts residencies for students in underserved New York City schools. Teaching artists will lead sequential sessions in photography, video documentary, animation, and audio that align and integrate media arts learning across various classroom subjects. Students and teachers will examine the history and language of visual images and explore the use of media arts for creative expression. Addressing issues of equitable access to technology, project activities will occur in mobile media labs that will be outfitted with equipment such as cameras, computers, editing software, iPads, and iOS apps-providing what is often students' first encounter with a structured and enriching approach to media arts and technology. Student projects will be shared with the public at community screenings and exhibitions.

Long Island Traditions Inc.

$15,000 Port Washington, NY

Art Works – Folk & Traditional Arts

To support Changing Coastlines: Maritime Traditions of Long Island's North & South Shores. ### Asheville Art Museum Association, Inc. (aka Asheville Art Museum)

$20,000 Asheville, NC

Art Works – Museum

To support reinstallation of the permanent collection. The reinstallation will highlight the strengths of the museum's regional collection. Objects will be selected from more than 4,000 works of art and nearly 5,000 architectural drawings, many of which have never before been exhibited. Guiding themes such as Time and Place, Experiments in Material and Form and Collaboration and Interdisciplinary Dialogue will frame the interpretation of the collection. The galleries will be arranged in a chronological sequence from the late-19th century to the present? and will prioritize the impact of artists from Black Mountain College as well as Cherokee artists and studio craft artists.

Black Mountain College Museum and Arts Center (aka Black Mountain College Museum + Arts Center )

$25,000 Asheville, NC

Art Works – Presenting & Multidisciplinary Works

To support a multidisciplinary exhibition about visual artist Jacob Lawrence. The exhibition will focus on the summer of 1946, when Lawrence (1917-2000) was invited to teach painting at Black Mountain College by visual artist and educator Josef Albers (1888-1976). Among the artworks to be included are a series of Lawrence's early gouache (an opaque watercolor style) paintings and a series of photographs of Lawrence at the campus taken by Beaumont and Nancy Newhall. Beyond the historical materials, visitors will have the opportunity to experience newly commissioned works by as many as three contemporary multimedia artists who will create sound, video, and animation pieces in response to Lawrence's work.

Appalachian State University

$100,000 Boone, NC

Our Town – Design

To support Black and Global Banjo Roots concerts, workshops and documentation. Local and national traditional musicians, makers, and scholars will engage young Appalachian musicians, college students, local community members, and visitors in performances, mentoring, documentation, and cultural exchange. Appalachian State University will work with the Global South Seminar, University of North Carolina, and Duke University to facilitate cultural exchange through music across the state, providing economic support for artists and their communities in the process. Through the project, residents of Boone, Carrboro, and Chapel Hill will gain increased knowledge of their mountain heritage and present core traditional music programs for underserved mountain, African-American Piedmont, and other diverse communities.

Brevard Music Center, Inc. (aka Brevard Music Center)

$10,000 Brevard, NC

Art Works – Opera

To support a production of "Street Scene" by composer Kurt Weill. Based on Elmer Rice's Pulitzer Prize-winning play of the same name, the opera presents a window into the American melting pot: a Jewish socialist, an Italian violin teacher, and a Swedish family about to be evicted. Students of the summer institute and festival will have the opportunity to work alongside professional creative and performing artists for the production. Audience engagement activities include pre-opera lectures, a film screening, book club reading, and open rehearsals.

$50,000 Chapel Hill, NC

Art Works – Theater & Musical Theater

To support PlayMakers Repertory Company's productions of "The Christians" by Lucas Hnath and "Tartuffe" by Moliere, performed in rotating repertory. Written 350 years apart, both plays focus on charismatic religious figures and the individuals or communities who believe in them. The theater will facilitate a communitywide exploration of faith through theater, with the repertory productions at its center. Programming will be designed to spark community conversations, and may include panel discussions with religious scholars, moderated conversations with university religious organizations, post-show discussions exploring the parallels between theater and the church, and an engagement event with diverse interfaith community choirs.

Charlotte Symphony Orchestra Society, Inc. (aka Charlotte Symphony (CSO))

$12,500 Charlotte, NC

Art Works – Music

To support a performance of Stravinsky's "Rite of Spring" with related educational activities. In collaboration with the Charlotte Ballet, as many as 80 middle school non-dance students will dance the work along with professional ballet dancers. Performances will take place at Belk Theater at Blumenthal Performing Arts Center as well as in area high schools. Educational activities may include lectures on the work's controversial premiere performance in 1913. In addition, teacher's guides and supplemental materials including pre- and post-concert lessons and cross-curricular activities will be developed for classrooms.

McColl Center for Art & Innovation (aka McColl Center for Art Innovation)

$25,000 Charlotte, NC

Art Works – Visual Arts

To support residencies for visual artists. Participating artists will be selected by a process that includes recommendations from guest curators, alumni resident artists, an advisory board, and staff. Resident artists will be provided housing, workspace, technical assistance, transportation costs, and a materials budget. Opportunities to engage the community will include panel discussions, lectures, workshops, and family day activities.

McColl Center for Art & Innovation (aka McColl Center for Art Innovation)

$50,000 Charlotte, NC

Our Town – Design

To support artist residencies and community engagement projects. The project will include two artist residencies at the McColl Center for Art & Innovation. The artists will conduct community engagement projects, a series of public art interventions, and create a digital engagement strategy. Project partners will include the City of Charlotte and more than 18 other public and private entities. Project activities will be focused on the North Tryon corridor in Charlotte's North End neighborhood. The goal is to use art and artist-led activities and projects to bring together the community of about 830,000 residents.

Mint Museum of Art, Inc. (aka Mint Museums)

$30,000 Charlotte, NC

Art Works – Museum

To support the exhibition and accompanying catalogue, "Southern/Modern: American Art in the South, 1900-1950." The exhibition will feature more than 150 paintings, works on paper, and sculptures created by the leading artists of the American South during a dynamic period of growth and change in the region. Artists will range from Elliot Daingerfield and Eugene Thomason to Will Henry Stevens, Romare Bearden, and Gregory Ivy. The project will demonstrate these artists' sophisticated means of engagement with the latest trends in modern art and their rapidly changing social and cultural environment. The Mint Museum will lead a team of scholars from the South, each examining artistic activity in a specific city or region, whose research will be brought together to create the final exhibition. Interactive programmatic and community and Internet-based initiatives will extend the reach of the exhibition. It is anticipated that the exhibition will travel to three additional venues in the Southeast.

Western Carolina University

$25,000 Cullowhee, NC

Art Works – Museum

To support the exhibition, accompanying catalogue, and symposium, "Return From Exile." The exhibition will present more than 40 works by approximately 30 artists from the five tribes removed from the Southeastern United States in the 1830s, the Creek, the Cherokee, the Choctaw, the Chickasaw and the Seminoles, a result of the Indian Removal Act. Jointly curated by Tony Tiger (Muscogee Creek/Seminole/Sac & Fox), Bobby Martin (Muscogee Creek), and Jace Weaver (Cherokee), the exhibition will feature works in a variety of media such as painting, drawing, printmaking, basketry, sculpture, and pottery. The project includes the design of the redevelopment of an abandoned property into a center dedicated to performing arts education. Bring Back The Music has partnered with the City of Spencer, Oklahoma to establish this arts space and create new musical programming. The goal is to expand arts access for approximately 14,000 K-12 students in neighborhoods that traditionally have been underserved by arts organizations.

Oklahoma Arts Council

$724,500 Oklahoma City, OK

Partnerships (State & Regional)

To support Partnership Agreement activities associated with carrying out your NEA-approved State strategic plan.

Oklahoma State University

$20,000 Stillwater, OK

Art Works – Museum

To support "J. Jay McVicker: Oklahoma Modernist," a retrospective exhibition on artist McVicker (1911-2004). The exhibition is the first scholarly study of McVicker, a modernist painter, sculptor, and printmaker who was involved in a network of artists in search of a universal visual language after World War II. While acclaimed throughout the middle of the 20th century with exhibitions throughout the United States and abroad, McVicker saw his career waning by the late 1970s. The exhibition will include approximately 65 works by the artist and will explore "coastalization," a post-war phenomenon that focused on artists working in Los Angeles and New York, disregarding the presence of the avant-garde in other regions of the country.

For an Our Town project in Spencer, OK, see Bring Back The Music in Oklahoma City

Philbrook Museum of Art, Inc.

$20,000 Tulsa, OK

Art Works – Museum

To support a community outreach and arts engagement program for teens. Known as The Collective, the program will provide teenage museum visitors from low-to-moderate income households with hands-on art-making experiences that incorporate creative thinking, problem-solving, critical thinking, collaboration, and team work. The program will expose students to various art forms and introduce them to local practicing artists. Participants will create and exhibit their own art work and engage in critical dialogue at the Philbrook's location in downtown Tulsa.

Tulsa Foundation for Architecture

$75,000                      Tulsa, OK

Our Town – Design

To support a temporary public art installation at H.A. Chapman Centennial Green. The art installation will be a collaboratively produced sculpture by artist Patrick Dougherty, and will be accompanied by a series of activities, including urban design contests and forums, tours, and pop-up performances and events. The Tulsa Foundation for Architecture is partnering with the City of Tulsa and Urban Core Art Project, a sub-committee of the Tulsa Arts Commission dedicated to bringing temporary public art to downtown. The project partners intend to utilize public art as a catalyst for community engagement, economic development, and urban design, renewing interest in stalled plans for downtown rejuvenation around Chapman Green. The park lies within Tulsa's Deco District that includes many of the city's most historically and architecturally significant buildings.

Southwestern Oklahoma State University (aka SWOSU)

$10,000                      Weatherford, OK

Art Works – Folk & Traditional Arts

To support Touch and See Your Park. A series of events will commemorate the 150th anniversary of the Washita River Massacre. Southern Cheyenne artist George Levi will use ledger art, a traditional Native American art form, to create drawings interpreting the battle, as well as present a lecture on this art form. The ledger drawings will be transformed into tactile graphics with braille, motion graphics, and audio so they can be enjoyed by visually impaired people. A catalogue for the exhibit also will be created.

Lane Arts Council

$50,000                      Eugene, OR

Our Town – Design

To support Product of Eugene, a downtown innovation initiative focused on product design. The Lane Arts Council and the University of Oregon will host product design apprenticeship and entrepreneurship programs at the Innovation Hub in downtown Eugene. The programs pair students with professional designers and artists to build local youths' exposure to business aspects of artistic careers. Additional project elements include summer design camps for students, exhibitions, and public lectures. In total, the project is estimated to serve approximately 150 underserved youth. Partnerships with the City of Eugene, the Eugene Public Library, Lane Community College, and the Eugene Regional Accelerator and Innovation Network will ensure that the project enhances related downtown revitalization efforts.

Lane Arts Council

$25,000                      Eugene, OR

Art Works – Local Arts Agencies

To support Fiesta Cultural, a countywide celebration of Latino art and culture. Multiple events held throughout Lane County, Oregon, will provide an opportunity for artists to showcase their work through a variety of participatory artistic experiences, designed as an introduction to Latino history, art, and culture for the entire community. Proposed activities include a major kick-off event, as well as new activities integrated into existing events such as neighborhood art walks, library programs, and gallery and museum exhibits. Latinos are currently identified as the fastest-growing ethnic group in Lane County.

University of Oregon (On behalf of Oregon Folklife Network)

$40,000 Eugene, OR

Art Works – Folk & Traditional Arts

To support the Oregon Folklife Network's documentation and presentation of traditional arts and culture in the state's Willamette Valley. Experienced folklorists will identify and document folk arts of the cultural and occupational communities in the region. The collected information will be archived in the University of Oregon's Special Collections and used to develop exhibits and enhance existing local events. Additionally, the veteran folklorists will mentor emerging folklorists, teaching them best practices of fieldwork and documentation.

University of Oregon

$40,000 Eugene, OR

Art Works – Folk & Traditional Arts

To support activities at the Oregon Folklife Network (OFN) including an apprenticeship program, master artist presentations, and related staff salaries. Staff will administer programming that links community-based tradition bearers with arts, cultural, heritage, and academic organizations. Activities to support these efforts will include a folklife field school, as well as an apprenticeship program that supports participants' time, travel, materials, and presentations. Through Regional Collaboration Projects, OFN will collaborate with local cultural organizations or tribes to support traditional arts goals in four regions across the state.

BodyVox (aka BodyVox)

$10,000 Portland, OR

Art Works – Dance

To support BodyVox's tour. The company plans to tour to as many as ten Alaskan communities, which have little to no access to artistic performances by professional contemporary dance companies. In each community, BodyVox will engage in outreach activities that may include community conversations, student performances, open rehearsals, dance classes, film screenings, and choreography workshops.

Caldera (aka Camp Caldera)

$35,000 Portland, OR

Art Works – Arts Education

To support a year-round transmedia arts project for Oregon youth from underserved communities. The Geography of We program includes an overnight summer arts camp, in-school and after-school arts learning sessions, Saturday classes, spring break workshops, and professional development for teaching artists. Focused on storytelling techniques that range from traditional forms to digital media, professional artists in film, animation, photography, writing, music, painting, sculpture, and design will guide students to explore their identity through the central theme of air. Students will create and showcase both web-based and physical maps that link their art to a sense of place.

Literary Arts, Inc. (aka Literary Arts)

$45,000                      Portland, OR

Art Works – Literature

To support Portland Arts & Lectures, the Wordstock book festival, and other literary programming. The Portland Arts & Lectures series presents live, original talks by as many as five prominent authors; lectures will be broadcast statewide on Oregon Public Broadcasting and made available by podcast and online. In conjunction with their talks, authors will visit high school classrooms and conduct master classes for local published writers. The free, one-day book festival will feature conversations and readings with international, national, and regional authors.

My Voice Music

$10,000                      Portland, OR

Art Works – Music

To support AMP: Music Mentorship and Instruction for Marginalized Youth. Project activities are designed to encourage youth with and without prior musical training to create original music. Under the guidance of professional musicians from various genres as well as peer instructors, program participants receive one-on-one instruction or team up into bands, including hip-hop collectives, and learn how to play instruments and write songs, which may be recorded in the organization's professional-grade studio. Participants also will be able to perform their works and may even become members of the AMP Band. Instructional sessions vary in length from multiple-day camps to semester-long classes and workshops and are offered on a "Pay What You Can Afford" basis.

Network of Ensemble Theaters (aka NET)

$35,000                      Portland, OR

Art Works – Theater & Musical Theater

To support a touring and residency program for ensemble theater companies and artists. The program will create a national circuit for ensemble companies using an online platform to connect artists with performance venues, and resources for residency activities. Known as the Circuit of National Ensemble Collaborative Tours & Residences, or CoNECTR, the project is designed to empower artists in the ensemble field to invite each other to engage in touring and residencies, creating an artist-driven paradigm that can be shared with the broader field.

Northwest Photography Archive (aka NWPA)

$15,000                      Portland, OR

Art Works – Visual Arts

To support the publication "Enduring Spirit: Photographs of Northwest Native Americans, 1855-1934." The book will feature portraits and rarely seen photographs of people, places, and activities that portray the Native people of the region in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries—a time when most Northwest tribes were compelled to sign treaties with the federal government resulting in displacement and forced relocation. In coordination with members of Pacific Northwest tribes, "Enduring Spirit" will be published by the Northwest Photography Archive and Oregon State University Press. Rare images and unique prints will be uncovered and repatriated to the tribes while simultaneously offering the public a permanent visual record of the history of the region.

Portland Youth Philharmonic Association (aka Portland Youth Philharmonic)

$10,000                      Portland, OR

Art Works – Music

To support a performance of "Voices of Light" by Richard Einhorn. The project will feature the 1994 work for instrumentalists and vocalists by composer Richard Einhorn to accompany Carl Theodor Dreyer's silent film "The Passion of Joan of Arc." The performance will be presented at Arlene Schnitzer Concert Hall in downtown Portland as part of Northwest Film Center's 2018 Reel Music Festival. The Portland premiere will mark the 90th anniversary of the release of Dreyer's classic film and the 94th season of the Portland Youth Philharmonic. Collaborators will include Northwest Film Center (NWFC), the professional vocal ensemble In Mulieribus, professional vocal soloists, Portland State University choirs, and Portland Youth Philharmonic's chamber orchestra Camerata PYP. Portland Youth Philharmonic and NWFC plan complementary lectures and community events prior to and after the performance.

Regional Arts & Culture Council (aka RACC)

$30,000                      Portland, OR

Art Works – Arts Education

To support The Right Brain Initiative: Fostering Systemic Change and Equity in the Arts. Professional development for classroom teachers, arts specialists, principals, and teaching artists will provide strategies to ensure effective arts-integrated learning that is aligned with Common Core State Standards, promotes 21st-century skills, and creates environments where students thrive academically and artistically. The Right Brain Initiative will broaden access by reaching out to Title I Portland area schools with high free or reduced lunch percentages as well as those in rural communities with limited access to the arts.

Third Angle New Music Ensemble Inc. (aka Third Angle New Music)

$10,000                      Portland, OR

Art Works – Music

To support a performance project, A Fond Farewell. The project will celebrate the legacy of the late Portland-based American singer, songwriter, and musician Elliott Smith, who died in 2003 at the age of 34. Third Angle musicians will collaborate with the theater ensemble Hand2Mouth in a program inspired by Smith's songs from his six studio albums. Community engagement activities will involve a partnership with Outside In, the homeless youth shelter in Portland. Residents of the shelter will have an opportunity to assist with lighting, set design, and other technical elements relating to the production. Other activities will include post-concert question-and-answer sessions, panel discussions on the collaborative process, Smith's place in the history of American music, and a screening of "Heaven Adores You," the 2014 documentary film on Smith by director Nickolas Dylan Rossi.

Western Alliance of Arts Administrators Foundations (aka Western Arts Alliance)

$10,000                      Portland, OR

Art Works – Presenting & Multidisciplinary Works

To support professional development services for artists and presenters. WAA will create a training program designed to help performers and presenters break down barriers to cultural participation for marginalized groups. The training will be offered as a pre-conference day of training and discussion before WAA's annual conference. After the initial training session, WAA will develop resource materials for an online curriculum.

Wisdom of the Elders, Incorporated (aka Wisdom)

$15,000                      Portland, OR

Art Works – Media Arts

To support a filmmaker training program at the Native American Film Academy. As many as eight emerging Native filmmakers from the Pacific Northwest will have the opportunity to produce an independent film featuring their tribal community and ecosystem during a hands-on educational program for artistic and professional development. Films will explore Native American music, dance, stories, and traditional arts, as well as local environmental issues. In addition to submitting the completed films to festivals, each production will be broadcast on the public television series "Discovering Our Story" and made available for audiences through an online platform.

Brandywine Conservancy & Museum of Art (aka Brandywine River Museum of Art)

$40,000 Chadds Ford, PA

Art Works – Museum

To support the exhibition, "Andrew Wyeth: In Retrospect," and accompanying catalogue at the Brandywine River Museum. Co-organized with the Seattle Art Museum, the exhibition will be the first in-depth chronological examination of Andrew Wyeth (1917-2009) in more than 40 years. Selected works will illustrate the common threads and deviations in approach during Wyeth's long career, while also connecting him more fully to traditions and developments in American and European art. Aligned with the centennial of the artist's birth, this project will introduce Wyeth to new audiences as well as allow those familiar with his work to revisit his contributions to 20th-century American art. Professional development, public lectures, and collaboration with West Chester University and the Pennsylvania Writing and Literature Project will bring K-12 teachers to the museum for a week of interdisciplinary projects, using the Wyeth exhibition as source material. It is anticipated that the exhibition will travel to the Seattle Art Museum.

Pennsylvania Public Radio Associates, Inc. (aka Echoes)

$20,000 Chester Springs, PA

Art Works – Media Arts

To support "Echoes." The program is a daily, two-hour radio series featuring interviews, live performances, and specials exploring electronic, ambient, new classical, acoustic, and world fusion music. In the upcoming season, "Echoes" will dedicate as many as 13 of its episodes to the initiative "Signal Path," which explores the history of electronic sound by combining archived interviews from early pioneers with contemporary artists to create a virtual dialogue. Artists previously featured on the program include Moby, Laurie Anderson, and Yo-Yo Ma and the Silk Road Ensemble. "Echoes" is distributed by Public Radio International to stations across the country, and is available for free online through streaming programs and podcast on iTunes.

Ursinus College

$20,000 Collegeville, PA

Art Works – Museum

To support the exhibition "The Blob" and related public programming. The exhibition takes its name and inspiration from the 1958 sci-fi movie, filmed in nearby Phoenixville, Pennsylvania, and will feature work by more than a dozen emerging and established contemporary artists. Artists such as Kari Altmann, Nurit Bar-Shai, Jack Lavender, Rachel Maclean, Trevor Paglen, Jim Shaw, and Kirsten Stolle are under consideration. Organized by the Berman Museum of Art, the exhibition will examine some of today's most nebulous and "blob-like" elements such as "big data," "the cloud," and surveillance. Programming will include guest speakers and special tours geared toward college, high school, and middle school students.

Lafayette College

$10,000 Easton, PA

Art Works – Music

To support the Williams Center for the Arts Jazz Series. The project will comprise as many as four performances featuring musicians who will be appearing on the Williams Center stage either for the first time or returning as leaders of their own ensembles after having been presented as sidemen in the past. Ancillary activities may include master classes, open rehearsals, and lectures as well as pre- and post-performance discussions moderated by Lafayette College faculty.

Westmoreland Museum of Art (aka The Westmoreland)

$10,000 Greensburg, PA

Art Works – Museum

To support the exhibition "The Art of Movement: Alexander Calder, Tim Prentice, & George Rickey." More than 30 sculptures and a selection of works on paper will demonstrate how these 20th-century leaders of the kinetic art movement developed systems of motion for their sculpture. Using balance and counterweight activated solely by uncontrolled air movement, the exhibited works will contain no mechanical or electrical operating parts. Programming includes a talk by Prentice about his work; a studio workshop for adults; hands-on studio workshops for children that explore the connection between engineering and kinetic art? and summer art camps.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania Council on the Arts

$933,400 Harrisburg, PA

Paragon Ragtime Orchestra, Inc.

$10,000 Lewisburg, PA

Art Works – Music

To support the Paragon Live performance and outreach project. The Paragon Ragtime Orchestra will conduct performances showcasing works by American composers from the late 19th and early 20th centuries, presented in a show-style manner with narration, use of rare original orchestrations, and authentic instrumentation, in pre-1930s historic American theaters. Ancillary activities may include master classes and coaching of student ensembles by orchestra musicians, lectures, silent film viewings with live orchestral accompaniment, and performance programs adapted for school audiences.

Bucks County Community College

$15,000                      Newtown, PA

Art Works – Visual Arts

To support the mobile arts exhibition "Planting Seeds: The Art & Science of Pollination," with accompanying educational programming. Featuring work by regional artists, the exhibition will be presented in a 48-foot semi-tractor trailer that will travel to schools and public sites, serving both rural and suburban communities of Bucks County. The exhibition will integrate art and environmental science into an interactive experience through the presentation of artists whose work addresses the natural environment. A series of professional development opportunities for teachers will enhance the project's impact and assist teachers in integrating the exhibition into their science and math curricula. Exhibiting artists will offer demonstration workshops as part of the project.

Theatre Horizon, Inc. (aka Theatre Horizon)

$10,000                      Norristown, PA

Art Works – Theater & Musical Theater

To support a production of "Hero School," co-conceived and directed by Matthew Decker and Emmanuelle Delpech, and written by Jeremy Gable. The play is a new, immersive theater work for very young and family audiences that tells the story of a young Latina girl who is trying to earn her diploma from a school for superheroes. When the school's principal is captured by a villain, she enlists the help of the audience to rescue him. The production will emphasize sensory experience, bold visual design, and a participatory narrative. The theater will partner with the Willow School and the Latin American Action Committee of Montgomery County on outreach for the production.

African American Museum in Philadelphia (aka AAMP)

$20,000                      Philadelphia, PA

Art Works – Museum

To support the exhibition, "Garden of the Mind." The exhibition will present the work of African-American artists Martha Jackson Jarvis (b.1952), E. J. Montgomery (b. 1933), and Barbara Bullock (b. 1938) in an exploration of their symbolic use and references to the land and earth. Inherent in the work of these artists is the role of place and memory and how it can influence and loom large in the mind itself. The exhibition will be complemented by lectures and artist workshops presented in collaboration with Philadelphia institutions such as: The Colored Girls Museum, Moore College of Art, and The American Women's Heritage Society.

Ars Nova Workshop (aka Ars Nova Workshop)

$10,000                      Philadelphia, PA

Art Works – Music

To support the Brotzmann and Bennink: Still Quite Popular After All These Years festival. The multi-week event will feature European free improvisation pioneers saxophonist and clarinetist Peter Brotzmann (Germany) and drummer and percussionist Han Bennink (The Netherlands) in a series of performances and teaching engagements. The artists will perform alongside Philadelphia-based musicians such as legends Marshall Allen and Dave Burrell; established "next generation" performers such as Dan Blacksberg and Uri Caine; and emerging artists who will be able to learn from the masters by working with them in a large improvisational group setting. In a culminating performance, several of the students may perform with Bennink and Brotzmann. Ancillary activities may include pre-concert artist talks, a day-long symposium on free improvisation, as well as a pre-show audience workshop on the subject of listening to free improvisation.

Brandywine Workshop and Archives (aka Brandywine Workshop and Archives)

$20,000 Philadelphia, PA

Art Works – Visual Arts

To support an artist residency project. During the residency, visiting artist Hock E Aye Vi Edgar Heap of Birds (Norman, Oklahoma), will work with high school student interns in lithography and filmmaking. The interns also will assist the artist in the planning of a public lecture about the artist's work and creative process. Heap of Birds produces conceptual images and installations reflecting the experience of Native Americans through carefully honed artworks that pose questions about identity, power, and the meaning and value of contemporary art in a global culture. The project will include the development of lesson plans for area high schools to advance the understanding of traditional and contemporary Native American art and culture.

Center City District Foundation

$20,000 Philadelphia, PA

Art Works – Visual Arts

To support the fabrication and installation of "Pulse," a kinetic work of public art in Dilworth Park in Philadelphia. Designed by Boston-based artist Janet Echelman (b. 1966), the large-scale public art installation will use technology, light, and water to transform the park's 11,600-square-foot fountain into a multi-sensory interactive experience that mimics the public transit system underneath the plaza. The work uses four-foot tall curtains of mist, which glow at night when illuminated by multiple layers of colored light to physically and psychologically transform the way people view the city's central square. "Pulse" will be integrated within the landscape, lighting and fountain systems, and interpretive signage and imagery will be installed to educate visitors about the site's history.

Conservation Center for Art and Historic Artifacts (aka CCAHA)

$15,000 Philadelphia, PA

Art Works – Museum

To support a one-year postgraduate fellowship in paper conservation. Supervised by the Director of Conservation and trained by senior conservators, the fellow will treat works of art on paper, such as drawings, prints, photographs, and watercolors, and manuscripts, documents, maps, and parchment. The fellow also will participate in collection surveys and on-site treatment projects, and conduct a research project and prepare a written report for publication.

Crossing, Inc. (aka The Crossing)

$30,000 Philadelphia, PA

Art Works – Music

To support the Month of Moderns, a choral festival. Plans include the premieres of new works by composers Gregory W. Brown (an exploration of displaced communities in a collaboration with poet Todd Hearon); Michael Gordon (a work based on conversations with homeless men); and Joshua Stamper (part of a larger trilogy on environmental concerns). Performances will take place at a church and an art gallery in Philadelphia.

Cultural Data Project (aka DataArts)

$20,000 Philadelphia, PA

Art Works – Media Arts

To support a research project focused on the role and contributions of art house cinemas within local communities. DataArts will partner with organizations such as Art House Convergence to collect and analyze financial, programmatic, and geographic data about non-profit art house cinemas across the country and their role within the greater arts and cultural field. Research findings will be made available in a web-based format for use by art house cinemas, media arts organizations, researchers, and the greater cultural community.

Enchantment Theatre Company (formerly Landis & Co. Theatre of Magic, Inc.)

$10,000 Philadelphia, PA

Art Works – Theater & Musical Theater

To support the creation and national tour of "My Father's Dragon." Based on the book series by Ruth Stiles Gannett, the production will blend puppetry, masked actors, dance, and pantomime. The new work will be created in co-operation with Gannett who has granted Exclusive North America Live Stage Performance Rights for the production and access to archival materials. The U.S. tour of the play and accompanying educational materials will reach school and family audiences.

Folk Arts-Cultural Treasures Charter School (aka FACTS)

$20,000 Philadelphia, PA

Art Works – Arts Education

To support professional development workshops and mentoring for classroom teachers, residencies by folk artists, and student folk art ensembles. During monthly meetings by the Folk Arts Committee, partners identify art forms connected to the heritage of the students and select artists who have experience teaching in school settings to participate. Artists collaborate with teachers to explore authentic assessment focused on culturally specific aesthetics. Students learn how aesthetics and systems of shared values inform creation, performance, and assessment within particular art forms. Students also practice in ensembles, including West African dance and drumming, Chinese opera, and Indonesian dance.

Greater Philadelphia Cultural Alliance

$35,000 Philadelphia, PA

Art Works – Local Arts Agencies

To support the expansion of a database to advance audience engagement strategies. The database will provide comprehensive, real-time audience analysis designed to inform both short- and long-term audience engagement efforts. It will connect with commonly used ticketing platforms. The system's data collection capacity will help track and provide dashboards and reports related to attendance, membership, and admission pricing trends. A beta testing group of approximately 16 arts organizations will have access to professional development resources while exploring the database's potential, developing best practices, and ensuring the tool's relevance and effective user experience.

International Assn. of Performing Arts for Young People, Inc. (aka International Performing Arts for Youth (IPAY)

$10,000 Philadelphia, PA

Art Works – Presenting & Multidisciplinary Works

To support the Kindling professional development program. During the annual Showcase convening for professionals in the performing arts for young audiences' field, IPAY will offer professional development activities as part of its Kindling initiative. Participants will have the opportunity to take part in community round tables, facilitated presentations and workshops, and artist discussions. Mentorship opportunities for graduate students and early career artists also will be offered.

KYL Dancers Inc. (aka Kun-Yang Lin/Dancers)

$10,000 Philadelphia, PA

Art Works – Dance

To support the creation and performance of a new dance work by Artistic Director Kun-Yang Lin. The work will be informed by conversations with leaders and practitioners of different religions and belief systems. During its development, public movement workshops and works-in-process showings may complement and facilitate interfaith community dialogue. Scholars of cross-cultural, interfaith education will prepare participant surveys and engagement guides to support discussion on the topics of religious and cultural conflict resolution, tolerance, and respect.

Koresh Dance Company

$10,000 Philadelphia, PA

Art Works – Dance

To support the creation and presentation of "The Heart" by Artistic Director Ronen Koresh and related outreach activities. The work will be created by Koresh in collaboration with multidisciplinary artist Karl Mullen. The work draws inspiration from Mullen's poetry and focuses on the marriage between spoken word and movement. The project may involve students participating in the Koresh Kids Dance outreach program as they are guided through the process of choreographing works using the same source material as "The Heart," and will culminate in a performance where students will present their own pieces, watch a company performance, and engage in a discussion with company dancers.

Mann Center for the Performing Arts (aka The Mann)

$20,000 Philadelphia, PA

Art Works – Music

To support New Frontiers: Launch, Explore, Discover, a performance and community engagement project. The themed community festival will include a premiere of a new work by American composer Nolan Williams, Jr., featuring the Philadelphia Orchestra with community choirs. The inspiration for the composition is the legacy and 75th birthday celebration of former NASA astronaut and Philadelphia native Guion S. Bluford, Jr., who became the first African American to travel into space in the 1983 Space Shuttle Challenger mission. The concert will be augmented by thematically related programming presented in partnership with local schools, museums, libraries, churches, and other community organizations in the greater Philadelphia metropolitan area.

Nichole Canuso Dance Company

$15,000 Philadelphia, PA

Art Works – Dance

To support the research and development of "CoPresence: Enter." The work is a multidisciplinary event comprising two solo bodies separated across geography, but joined in a single projected cinematic space. One duet at a time, visitors in two different locations will come together in a virtual screen space to co-create a unique artistic experience. One audience member at a time will be invited to enter the space, and through a set of instructions will engage in an interactive experience with another audience member from another city. The solo experiences/virtual duets will culminate in a final image designed by the two participants. The images will be documented and cataloged as an ongoing slideshow. The work will be developed and refined during a series of events and will eventually tour to different cities, and perhaps countries.

Opera Philadelphia

$40,000 Philadelphia, PA

To support the development and restaging of significant works by African-American artists for PHILADANCO! program, "H-I-S-T-O-R-Y/African American Style." Sonia Dawkins, founder and artistic director of Sonia Dawkins/Prism Dance Theater, will create and choreograph a new ballet honoring August Wilson's play, "The Piano Lesson." The work will premiere at the Kimmel Center for the Performing Arts in Philadelphia. Dawkins will also lead choreographic workshops for company members. In addition, the company will re-stage and re-mount the works of African-American artists such as Pearl Primus, Talley Beatty, and Geoffrey Holder.

Philadelphia Mural Arts Advocates (aka Mural Arts Philadelphia)

$150,000 Philadelphia, PA

Our Town – Design

To support Neighborhood Storefronts. The project will convert vacant storefronts in four Philadelphia neighborhoods into hubs for artistic activity, community meetings, and creative enterprise. Outfitted as creative workspaces, and offering a range of services, cultural events, workshops, and art-making, these hubs will embed artists within communities and link their efforts to broader community development strategies. Philadelphia Mural Arts will partner with the City of Philadelphia Office of Arts, Culture, and Creative Economy, to identify artists and facilitate collaboration with community organizations and social service providers. The program will increase utilization of social and civic services, support microenterprise, generate social capital, and beautify and animate the communities where Storefront programs take place. All four Neighborhood Storefronts will engage underserved communities.

Philadelphia Orchestra Association (aka The Philadelphia Orchestra)

$75,000 Philadelphia, PA

Art Works – Music

To support the Philadelphia Orchestra's Free Neighborhood Concerts and a community composer residency program. Through its Engaging Diverse Communities and Musicians project, the orchestra will perform free neighborhood concerts including the orchestra's annual Martin Luther King, Jr., Tribute Concert and a surprise "Pop-up" concert. In addition, community choral groups will join the orchestra in performing "Voice of Philadelphia," a new work by American composer Tod Machover with contributions from singers of all ages and skill levels. Commissioned in partnership with the Knight Foundation, the work will be conducted by Music Director Yannick Nezet-Seguin at the Kimmel Center for the Performing Arts. Also planned is a composer residency by Hannibal Lokumbe and the Philadelphia Orchestra String Quartet titled "Healing Tones" in sites throughout the city.

Philadelphia Young Playwrights

$40,000 Philadelphia, PA

Art Works – Arts Education

To support the Core Playwriting Program, a classroom-based literacy and playwriting program. Under the guidance of professional teaching artists and classroom teachers, students enhance their playwriting skills and deepen their understanding of theater through intensive writing workshops, trips to see professional theater productions, and public presentation of their own work. All students create an original scene or one-act play to be showcased at culminating in-school festivals. Students have the option to submit their works to be considered for further development and production as part of the Play Development Series. The year-round project integrates playwriting into the school culture and will benefit elementary to high school students from underserved neighborhoods in the Greater Philadelphia area.

Piffaro the Renaissance Band

$10,000 Philadelphia, PA

Art Works – Music

To support Hammer Blows that Changed the World: Music of the German Reformation. The performance project of early music by the instrumental ensemble Piffaro will be joined by the St. Paul-based chamber choir Rose Ensemble in programming that will include the hymns of Martin Luther and works by Michael Praetorius. Concerts will be held in Philadelphia and Chestnut Hill, Pennsylvania; Wilmington, Delaware; and in Minneapolis/St. Paul, Minnesota.

Pig Iron Theatre Company (aka Pig Iron Theatre Company)

$10,000 Philadelphia, PA

Art Works – Theater

To support the creation and world premiere production of "A Period of Animate Existence," a new work developed by Artistic Director Dan Rothenberg, composer Troy Herion, and designer Mimi Lien. The work will examine responses to ecological uncertainty and rapid technological change. The piece will use classical symphonic music as a guide for the structure of the narrative, with each of five movements of the performance complementing the others to produce a cumulative effect. The production will feature original music, a small chamber orchestra, and choristers from The Crossing, a professional chamber choir dedicated to new music, as well as Pig Iron's ensemble of performers.

Rock School for Dance Education (aka The Rock School)

$15,000 Philadelphia, PA

Art Works – Arts Education

To support RockReach, an in-school and after-school dance residency program. Professional Rock School faculty will provide twice-weekly dance instruction throughout the year to students in elementary school through high school at partner schools. The program will include schoolwide interactive assemblies, long-term scholarship programs for students from low-income families, and free tickets and transportation to The Rock School's performance "Nutcracker 1776." Culminating in a student performance open to the entire school, RockReach is designed to provide healthy physical and emotional activity, strengthen academic skills, develop social skills, and keep students constructively and actively engaged in the arts.

Scribe Video Center, Inc.

$30,000 Philadelphia, PA

Art Works – Media Arts

To support workshops, master classes, youth documentary programs, and film and video screenings. Devoted to advancing media arts as a means of artistic expression and a vehicle for social change, Scribe Video Center provides its local community with educational tools and resources to create audio and video works through programs such as a series of hands-on, documentary filmmaking workshops for youth. Previous workshops and master classes have covered topics such as cinematography, conducting an interview, sound recording, lighting, and editing techniques.

Settlement Music School of Philadelphia (aka Settlement Music School)

$30,000 Philadelphia, PA

Art Works – Arts Education

To support Kaleidoscope, a pre-kindergarten arts enrichment program. Teachers and childcare professionals will receive professional development classes in implementing an arts-integrated curriculum. Teaching artists will prepare detailed weekly plans identifying objectives and organizing concepts, challenges, and projects related to the weekly activities. Students are grouped in classrooms by age and spend half the instructional day in a traditional early learning classroom, and the other half in visual arts, dance/creative movement, and music classes. The program is offered tuition-free to pre-schoolers and kindergarteners from low-income families. Kaleidoscope takes place during the school year at two Settlement branches in Philadelphia.

Tempesta di Mare, Inc. (aka Tempesta di Mare)

$15,000 Philadelphia, PA

Art Works – Music

To support a performance project, Telemann 360. The project by the self-led Baroque orchestra and chamber ensemble will feature two concert programs focusing on the work of Georg Philipp Telemann (1681-1767). Curated by co-founders Gwyn Roberts and Richard Stone, programming will include works such as Quartet in g-minor, TWV 43:64; Quartet in d-minor, TWV 43:d3; Trio in E-flat, TWV 42:es 1 from "Musique de Table I," solo cantata "Ei nun, mein lieber Jesu," TWV 01:432, and orchestral concertos-en-suite, as well as a premiere of a suite by Telemann recently rediscovered by scholar Dr. Steven Zohn, Professor of Music History at Temple University's Boyer College of Music and Dance. Performances will be presented at Benjamin Franklin Hall of the American Philosophical Society and in the Perelman Theater at Kimmel Center for the Performing Arts.

Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania

$20,000 Philadelphia, PA

Art Works – Museum

To support development of educational programming to complement the Penn Museum's reinstalled galleries of the Middle East. Opening in fall 2017, the galleries will showcase one of the great collections of ancient Near Eastern art and archaeological objects in the world and will tell the story of how our modern urbanized world developed from ancient Mesopotamian societies. The presentation and interpretation of the new galleries are being crafted with accessibility for a wide range of audiences in mind and will be a major new teaching resource for K-12 groups in particular, especially seventh grade classes when ancient cultures-Mesopotamia, Egypt, Greece and Rome-are an important part of the curriculum. Museum educators will conduct guided tours of ceramics, textiles, and religious art in order to introduce key concepts such as the changes in technologies and related art forms and the beginnings of a written language. Workshops will feature hands-on activities with replica artifacts intended to teach students how to situate these objects within the ancient world.

WHYY, Inc.

$20,000 Philadelphia, PA

Art Works – Arts Education

To support the continuation of a media arts education partnership with the School District of Philadelphia. Staff at WHYY's Dorrance H. Hamilton Public Media Commons will train teachers to integrate digital media into existing curricula. Media arts instructors will also provide on-site weekly instruction at WHYY media labs located in participating schools during the school day and afterschool to ensure program sustainability. A team of student reporters, producers, and editors will create a regular news magazine.

Bricolage

$10,000 Pittsburgh, PA

Art Works – Theater & Musical Theater

To support the development and premiere of an immersive theatrical experience. Prompted by the theater's history of immersive theater work and Carnegie Museum of Art and Carnegie Museum of Natural History's desire to explore new models for audience engagement and cross-disciplinary collaboration, the organizations are joining forces to create a theater work that breaks free from institutional traditions. Four fields of inquiry will inform the piece: Authority, Authenticity, Accessibility, and Authorship and Agency. By taking into account the vast inventory of museum collections, confronting core questions, and transgressing front-of-house/back-of-house boundaries, the work is intended to set new standards for excellence and engagement in the theater and museum fields.

City of Asylum Pittsburgh (aka City of Asylum)

$30,000 Pittsburgh, PA

Art Works – Presenting & Multidisciplinary Works

To support Jazz Poetry Month. Each September, American jazz artists and poets from around the world will perform together and individually in an accessible community setting. Artists also will be provided with extensive documentation of their creation process, including audio-visual recordings of rehearsals, pre-show interviews, post-show audience feedback, and critiques written by artists, journalists, and others.

Pittsburgh Downtown Partnership

$25,000                      Pittsburgh, PA

Art Works – Visual Arts

To support the commissioning of a temporary public art installation for the Market Square Public Art Program. The program, developed in partnership with the City of Pittsburgh and the Office of Public Art, will commission new work by artist Pablo Valbuena for installation in downtown Pittsburgh. It is anticipated that the artist's work will include some interactive elements incorporating sound or light to invigorate the square. Outreach will include educational talks, events, and tours.

Pittsburgh Glass Center, Inc.

$20,000                      Pittsburgh, PA

Art Works – Visual Arts

To support an artists-in-residence program. Created to bridge the gap between glass and other media, the program will invite artists who work outside the medium of glass to develop new work with assistance from a master glass artist. Resident artists selected by a committee of curators and artists will present lectures, workshops, and demonstrations as part of an educational outreach effort. The residencies will culminate in an exhibition.

Society for Arts in Crafts (aka Society for Contemporary Craft)

$20,000                      Pittsburgh, PA

Art Works – Visual Arts

To support an exhibition that will explore artists' responses to issues of shelter. Artists such as Seth Clark, Holly Grace, and Tali Weinberg will address the following: "Asylum" will focus on the plight of refugees and immigrants, as well as disaster relief; "Home" will examine notions of home, homelessness, ownership, and personal agency; "Place" will consider ideas of gentrification, neighborhood identity, development, population growth and decline, and opportunities for creative placemaking; and "Sanctuary" will explore ideas of personal space and the body as refuge. Partnerships with community housing and advocacy organizations will assist with outreach and a curriculum guide and an exhibition catalogue will accompany the exhibition, as well as lectures, artist demonstrations, teacher training workshops, and hands-on art making.

Country Music Foundation, Inc. (aka Country Music Hall of Fame and Museum)

$25,000                      Nashville, TN

Art Works – Arts Education

To support Words & Music. Museum educators and professional songwriters provide year-long professional development for teachers in the Metropolitan Nashville Public Schools to incorporate into class curriculum the Words & Music Teacher's Guide and sequential lesson plans to teach students about the art of songs and the aesthetic techniques of creating lyrics. In the classroom, teachers will lead their students in creating and revising their lyrics through a process of experimentation with traditional song structures and components of effective lyrics. Folk and country music songwriting is based in oral traditions and passed along from mentors to apprentices through co-writing and creative problem solving. Students will gain access to these traditions by working with professional songwriters from the Nashville music industry, who will guide the students to set their lyrics to music. In alignment with the school district's Music Makes Us initiative, teachers receive training to link Words & Music to English Language Arts curricula, including composition and revision, vocabulary, themes, messages, titles, and rhyme.

Jefferson School Foundation

$34,000                      Charlottesville, VA

Art Works – Visual Arts

To support a public art work commemorating the African-American neighborhood Vinegar Hill in Charlottesville, Virginia. The foundation will commission artist Melvin Edwards (b. 1937) to create a 12-foot tall, stainless steel, abstract sculpture which will pay tribute to the former location of "Vinegar Hill," which from the 1920s to the '60s was the city's principle African-American business district until it was razed in 1962. The public art work, which will be installed at the Jefferson African American Heritage Center, is the result of a five-year community engagement process that explored issues of displacement, memory, race, and the role of African Americans in the history and development of Charlottesville.

Association of Writers & Writing Programs (aka AWP)

$75,000                      Fairfax, VA

Art Works – Literature

To support an annual conference, online resources for the literature field, and the publication and promotion of "The Writer's Chronicle." The conference, the largest of its kind in North America, features readings and panel discussions about literature, writing, editing, publishing, program administration, and teaching. The conference also includes a book fair showcasing small presses and literary organizations. Online resources include news and job listings; grant, award, and publishing opportunities; a directory of writing programs; and content related to literary craft and instruction. "The Writer's Chronicle," AWP's magazine, publishes articles, news, and information for writers, editors, students, and teachers of writing.

Fall for the Book, Inc.

$10,000                      Fairfax, VA

Art Works – Literature

The five-day festival offers readings, discussions, workshops, and exhibits in locations throughout the Northern Virginia and Washington, D.C., metro area. The festival will feature writers of literary fiction, nonfiction, and poetry; historians; cultural and current affairs writers; and children's and young adult authors. Participating writers also will visit public schools to give presentations, readings, and workshops.

Longwood University

$25,000                      Farmville, VA

Art Works – Museum

To support the exhibition, "Rural Avant-Garde: The Mountain Lake Experience," and accompanying catalogue. Founded by artist and scholar Ray Kass with influential art critic Donald B. Kuspit, Howard Risatti, and the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts, the Mountain Lake Workshop has a 40-year history of integrating the arts and sciences and pushing beyond the boundaries of art, dance, performance, and theater. Anchored in the idea that artist and audience can work together to create a work of art, an idea advanced earlier by artists of nearby and renowned Black Mountain College, the exhibition at Longwood will provide an important record of the workshops, their inter-connectedness, and their regional and national significance. Works by artists such as John Cage, Wayne Thiebaud, Cy Twombly, Howard Finster, and Sally Mann will be featured from a variety of museum collections, including the Museum of Modern Art, the Art Institute of Chicago, the Asian Art Museum, and the Whitney Museum of American Art. Public programming will include related lectures, community workshops, and symposia. The exhibition will travel to the Gregg Museum of Art at North Carolina State University in Raleigh, NC.

Latin Ballet of Virginia, Inc.

$10,000                      Glen Allen, VA

Art Works – Dance

To support Everybody Reads!, a program that promotes a love of reading, writing, and literature through dance. Through a series of residencies, lectures, and dance performances at local schools, libraries, and museums, the company will facilitate the development of new programming for children and their families from low-income backgrounds. The company will perform original works that celebrate storytelling and writers including "NuYoRican," a dance theater work that tells true stories of Puerto Rican families who migrated to the United States after World War II and the changes that followed after Puerto Rico was declared a U.S. protectorate; "POEMAS," inspired by the lives and poetry of writers Edgar Allan Poe, Alfonsina Storni, Pablo Neruda, and Federico Garcia Lorca; and "MOMO," based on the fantasy novel of Michael Ende, about a little girl who is able to save the world from thieves.

James Madison University

$20,000                      Harrisonburg, VA

Art Works: Research – Research

To support a mixed-methods study examining potential impacts of an arts program that uses songwriting to explore issues of incarceration, equity, justice, and community. The project will involve three study populations: a) residents at a transition home for nonviolent, nonsexual ex-offenders who have been released or diverted from incarceration; b) pre-service professionals in music education and social work enrolled as students at James Madison University; and c) community members in Harrisonburg, Virginia. As part of the arts program being studied, project staff will facilitate weekly sessions in which transitional home residents engage in self-reflection, share their stories, and are coached in generating music and/or other artworks inspired by their stories. Quantitative and qualitative data will be collected from the populations of interest. Resulting artworks will be shared with the community through live, public performance.

Virginia Symphony (aka Virginia Symphony Orchestra)

$15,000 Norfolk, VA

Art Works – Music

To support a commissioning and performance project by the Virginia Symphony Orchestra. The orchestra will premiere a new work by American composer Michael Daugherty-concerto for orchestra, "Steel, Smoke, Stars and Steam." The Grammy Award-winning composer will draw inspiration from the 1950s black-and-white photographs of railways, trains and industry by American photographer O. Winston Link (1914-2001). A commercial photographer, Link helped establish rail photography as a hobby and pioneered night photography. In addition to orchestral performances, programming will include forums hosted by representatives from the Virginia Museum of Transportation and the O. Winston Link Museum, both located in Roanoke, Virginia.

Town of Pulaski, Virginia

$75,000 Pulaski, VA

Our Town – Design

To support the Spectrum, Scheme, Synergy cultural planning initiative. The Town of Pulaski, in partnership with the Fine Arts Center for the New River Valley, will facilitate community planning and design activities for Pulaski's central business district. The plan will establish guidelines for future public art installations and will support creation of one new public art work and a new performing arts event. Ultimately, the project is expected to advance community goals, including supporting local businesses, activating a downtown bike and pedestrian system, and supporting positive migration patterns.

1708 Gallery (aka 1708 Gallery)

$20,000 Richmond, VA

Art Works – Visual Arts

To support InLight Richmond, a juried outdoor exhibition of light-based art. Selected artists will be offered an honorarium, installation, and production support to develop new work that responds to the history and significance of a particular neighborhood. Video, sculpture, interactive projects, and new media works will be created to activate building facades, storefronts, green spaces, sidewalks, and alleyways. Past jurors have included prominent contemporary curators from major U.S. museums. A series of lantern-making workshops and a lantern parade will be organized in partnership with local schools and community groups.

Richmond Symphony

$10,000 Richmond, VA

Art Works – Music

To support a community engagement project. The orchestra and Music Director Steven Smith will present its Engaging New Audiences Through Big Tent Festivals project using a mobile performance space. Multi-day festival performances will be presented free-of-charge in neighborhood parks in Richmond. Venues will include Joseph Bryan Park in the city's north side and Brown's Island, adjacent to the James River.

To support the annual Staunton Music Festival. Programming of the summer chamber music festival will be curated by Artistic Director Carsten Schmidt and will range from the Middle Ages to the present. Many of the concerts and events will be presented free-of-charge. Community engagement activities will include open rehearsals, free pre-concert talks, lecture-recitals, and performances in non-traditional venues and assisted living facilities.

Wolf Trap Foundation for the Performing Arts (aka Wolf Trap)

$65,000 Vienna, VA

Art Works – Opera

To support professional training programs for singers and fully staged opera performances. The performance-based residency training program will include career development seminars, voice lessons, language coaching, and master classes. Filene Young Artists and Opera Studio Artists will receive individualized training from music and language coaches, directors, and conductors and will perform solo and supporting roles in fully staged operas. The artistic programming will include fully staged operas, recitals, a concert, and related community outreach presentations in summer 2017 at The Barns at Wolf Trap and at the Filene Center.

Washington

Number of Grants: 33

Total Dollar Amount: $1,610,400

Whatcom Museum Foundation (aka Whatcom Museum)

$60,000                      Bellingham, WA

Art Works – Museum

To support "Endangered Species: Artists on the Front Line of Biodiversity," an interdisciplinary exhibition, catalogue, and website. Approximately 60 works will present the art of contemporary and 19th- and 20th-century artists. A celebration of life forms by contemporary artists Mark Dion, Fred Tomaselli, Catherine Chalmers, William Barton, and Macoto Murayama will make up the exhibition's first section. Meanwhile, the topic of extinction will be taken up through the depictions of buffalo by George Catlin and N.C. Wyeth, dinosaurs in the work of Edouard Riou, and other natural history phenomena in the works of Nick Brant, Nicholas Galanin, and Edward Burtynsky. Temporary installations, drawings, computer-generated images, and video documentation will comprise the final section of the exhibition. Teacher workshops, an artist-talk for students, and discussions with artists and scientists will complement the exhibition.

Northwest Native American Basketweavers Association (aka NNABA)

$10,000                      Black Diamond, WA

Art Works – Folk & Traditional Arts

To support an annual gathering of basketweavers. The gathering will offer an opportunity for indigenous weavers to showcase their basketry and participate in seminars about relevant issues, such as business skills, acquiring raw materials, material gathering rights, and health issues connected to basketweaving. Wing Luke Memorial Foundation (aka Wing Luke Museum of the Asian Pacific America)

$35,000                      Seattle, WA

Art Works – Museum

To support "Lore: An Intergenerational Cultural Exchange," an exhibition featuring work by artists that visually interpret the tradition of storytelling. Young, emerging artists Satpreet Kahlon, Alex Anderson, and Megumi Shauna Arai will create works in different mediums such as photography and porcelain that pay tribute to the age-old tradition of storytelling and oral history. Public programs include artist-led workshops in which each artist will explore intergenerational cultural exchange. Artists also will work closely with the staff of the museum to develop interactive elements within the exhibition for audiences of all ages and backgrounds to engage in storytelling and artistic creation.

Zoe Juniper

$10,000                      Seattle, WA

Art Works – Dance

To support the development of Spherical Dance: Advancing Dance on Camera. The project will combine dance performance and 360-degree-video technologies to produce a new way to digitally experience dance. 360-degree-video involves a multi-lensed camera that shoots in all directions simultaneously, resulting in a spherical video that the viewer can navigate as if inside a virtual reality. This technology has the capacity to revolutionize the way dance is recorded and accessed. For the project, the company will both document dance performance three-dimensionally and create an art-piece that shows how dance can interact with this new tool.

Broadway Center for the Performing Arts (aka Broadway Center)

$10,000                      Tacoma, WA

Art Works – Arts Education

To support Latino Folkloric Arts Education Initiative. Students will participate in after-school and summer immersion programs in ballet folklórico and world drumming. Students will perform at various community venues for their peers, teachers, parents, and the community. Best practices and scalable models from the initiative will be disseminated through a white paper, presentations at regional arts conferences, and publications.

City of Tacoma, Washington (On behalf of Tacoma Arts Commission)

$40,000 Tacoma, WA

Art Works – Local Arts Agencies

To support the Tacoma Arts Commission's Public Art: Public Action, a training program for artists seeking to implement community engagement strategies and create artworks responsive to community needs. Artists will receive classroom training as well as coaching and mentorship as they learn to address civic and social concerns through the development of temporary art projects. The curriculum will include a series of lectures and workshops focused on topics such as creative placemaking, designing for equity, methods for community engagement, data gathering and analysis, and project evaluation. Artists will work with proposed partner agencies including the City of Tacoma Planning Department, Pierce County Health Department, University of Washington-Tacoma, Pierce Transit, Tacoma Mall, and Asia Pacific Cultural Center on a pilot creative placemaking project. The project will be conceptualized, developed, and implemented to address issues and opportunities in the Tacoma Mall Area neighborhood, an area historically limited in pedestrian connectivity, activated spaces, and arts and cultural resources.

Museum of Glass (aka MOG)

$45,000 Tacoma, WA

Art Works – Museum

To support expansion of Hot Shop Heroes: Healing with Flames, a glass making program for wounded warriors. The museum plans to expand its therapeutic glass art program, Hot Shop Heroes, by creating strategic partnerships within the contemporary glass movement to provide similar services on other U.S. military bases, including on-base hospitals and clinics, as well as veterans hospitals. Building on its successful program known to help relieve anxiety and depression and promote self confidence and self-esteem, the museum will develop and implement web-based education and training, including online webinars for glass museums and schools, program instructors, and mental health professionals. As the museum moves to expand, they will continue to work closely with partners Joint Base Lewis-McChord, the Warrior Transition Battalion, the Veterans Administration, and the Bob Woodruff Foundation.

Tacoma Pierce County Chamber of Commerce Foundation (aka Tacoma Pierce County Chamber Foundation)

$20,000 Tacoma, WA

Art Works – Visual Arts

To support the commission of site-specific installations and murals at vacant commercial spaces in downtown Tacoma. The project is sponsored by Spaceworks, a joint initiative of the City of Tacoma and the Tacoma-Pierce County Chamber of Commerce, to activate empty storefronts and vacant spaces in Tacoma with art and creative enterprises. Artists will be selected by a panel composed of content experts in the fields of art and design, as well as arts commissioners and stakeholders. The project will support professional coordination of the programs, which is necessary to facilitate the selection of artists, management of properties, and community outreach and promotion.

Tieton Arts & Humanities

$45,000                      Tieton, WA

Art Works – Local Arts Agencies

To support Vintage, a series of glass tile mosaic artworks to be installed at public locations in Tieton, Washington. Vintage will celebrate Tieton and the Yakima Valley's regional heritage as a center for agricultural fruit orchards by combining the bold design aesthetics of historic fruit crate labels with typographic mosaic techniques inspired by the New York subway system. The fabrication process will include an apprenticeship program training local residents in tile mosaic techniques. Proposed installation sites include the exterior walls of buildings around Tieton's downtown civic square.

Native Arts and Cultures Foundation, Inc. (aka Native Arts and Cultures Foundation)

$15,000                      Vancouver, WA

Art Works – Presenting & Multidisciplinary Works

To support a presentation of "The Story of Everything." Created by Hawaiian poet laureate Kealoha Wong, the multidisciplinary performance includes spoken-word, live music, dance, and multimedia projections. The work is based on the "Kumulipo," the Native Hawaiian creation story, and includes scientific and environmental themes. "The Story of Everything" will be performed in conjunction with the Bioneers Conference in San Francisco, and will be accompanied by a moderated panel about how Native artists are addressing environmental issues through their work. Educational workshops for the public also will be offered.

Vashon Allied Arts, Inc. (aka Vashon Center for the Arts)

$10,000                      Vashon, WA

Art Works – Arts Education

To support Vashon Artists in Schools. Professional artists who live and work in the island community and visiting artists who practice ethnic art forms, will collaborate with classroom teachers to design, implement, and evaluate artist residencies in Vashon Island Public Schools. In addition to the artist residencies, there will be an artist mentorship program for classroom educators and public art residencies with students in independent study to design and create a large scale art project at a site in the community.
