

The National Endowment for the Arts is the only funder, public or private, that supports the arts in all 50 states, the District of Columbia, and the U.S. territories. The NEA serves constituents in all the states through three mechanisms; an annually-awarded partnership agreement to each state arts agency for programs and activities that strengthen the arts in that state; direct grants to the state's arts organizations, based on applications to NEA funding categories, and individual awards in literature, folk and traditional arts, and jazz. In addition, each state arts agency belongs to one of six US regional arts organizations (RAOs) that are funded by the NEA to support constituent priorities at the state, regional and national level. The RAO that serves Washington is the Western States Arts Federation.

INVESTING IN WASHINGTON

In FY 2013-2015, the NEA awarded 171 grants to Washington organizations for their work in a range of disciplines, 4 individual awards, and 3 partnership agreements totaling approximately $6.9 million in support of the arts in Washington. Among the individual awards, one was an honorific award for an NEA National Heritage Fellow while one received a creative writing fellowship and two received a literature translation project fellowship.

The NEA requires that all direct grants awarded to organizations, plus partnership agreements, must be matched 1:1 in non-federal dollars. This requirement significantly leverages taxpayer funds. Every dollar of NEA funding is matched by up to $7 in private and other public contributions. From 2013-2015, matching funds for NEA grants totaled $46.8 million¹ in additional support.

Also during the period and through Washington's state partnership agreements with the NEA, the state funded arts activities for 61 organizations.

DIRECT GRANTS

NEA's direct grants to arts organizations are based on applications submitted by those organizations to funding categories such as Art Works and Challenge America. Applications are reviewed by diverse NEA-convened panels of citizen experts. Panel recommendations are then reviewed by the National Council on the Arts and the NEA Chairman for final approval. The application-to-grant-award rate is approximately 50 percent.

The number of applications received between 2013 and 2015 decreased in 2014 and increased in 2015. The number of grants awarded showed a slight decrease each year.

In FY 2013-2015, direct NEA grants in Washington reached a broad spectrum of organizational disciplines.
